MAY DRAFT CAL AS ONLY HOPE TO BEAT SMITH

Republicans Develop Campaign Assuming New Yorker Will Be Nominee

G. O. P. FEARS GOVERNOR

Hopes for Split in Opponent's Ranks and Compromise Candidate

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright 1927, by Post Pub. Co.

Washington—The entire Republican campaign for the presidency is being developed on the assumption that Governor Al Smith will be the democratic nominee. If President Coolidge is drafted to run it will be because of a belief of the party leaders that he alone could defeat Smith.

This situation inside the Republican party has been growing more pronounced since the announced withdrawal of William Gibbs McAdoo from the race in which it was supposed he would be a candidate.

The Republicans are talking of the "Al Smith menace" constantly. The speech of Col. Theodore Roosevelt before the Republican state convention of New York on Friday, in which he said that "for the first time in history that shadow of Tammany hall lies athwart the White House," is in line with the belief and expressions of other prominent Republicans.

DEPEND ON CAL

Whenever the names of Messrs. Hoover, Hughes, Lowden or Dawes are mentioned, the invariable query is whether each could defeat Smith. On this there is apparently a difference of opinion. Most of the same leaders, however, when asked if they believe the drafting of President Coolidge would mean certain victory, usually answer in the affirmative. They think the president's hold on the east is stronger than that of Al Smith, but they are not sure that Hoover, Hughes, Lowden or Dawes could come out of the east with as many electoral votes as the New York governor and there is no telling what the west might do if an eastern conservative were nominated.

So far as big business is concerned, there is evidence that its fondness for Al Smith as New York governor has not budged its strong Republican inclinations in a presidential year and that for this reason Al Smith's campaign would take on the nature of liberal conservatism or even radicalism in an attempt to win the west.

AFFECTS DRY DEMOCRATS

All this is having its effect, too, on the Democrats, so many of whom have felt their absence from control so keenly that they are willing to swallow Al Smith's wetness and everything else if it means a chance for victory. The Republican view that Al Smith has a better chance than any Democrat now in the race is shared by so many of the organization Democrats that if the convention were held tomorrow there would be little doubt of the result being influenced by practical politics. What may happen between now and next June depends entirely on the activity of the anti-Smith forces, who have not yet trotted out a sufficiently prominent candidate whose vote-getting capacity would rival that of the New York governor. To select some prominent business man whose record as a Democrat has been consistent and who would rival the Republican choise in the west may appear to present one way out, but the Democrats fight shy of any business candidates as a rule.

The Democratic convention will take place after the Republicans have chosen their candidate. If Al Smith appears certain of the Democratic nomination, it will almost dictate the type of Republican who would be sought to fight him—namely the best vote-getter. In this respect the chances of turning to President Coolidge with a nomination by acclamation would be better than if it appeared certain the Democrats had gotten themselves into such a tangle that only a colorless candidate could come out of it all. The Republican leaders are confident that Messrs. Lowden, Hughes, Hoover or Dawes could each defeat any Democrat now being mentioned with the exception of Al Smith. They are praying that the Democrats will repeat the Madison Square Garden fiasco, that Smith will retire and that a compromise candidate will be chosen.

MAN WANTED IN ASSAULT SURRENDERS TO POLICE

Racine —(AP)—Ernest M. Semb, 25, who, with Earl Stanley, is charged with criminal assault on two girls whom they took riding in a car a week ago, surrendered to the police. Stanley was arrested the day after the alleged assault in which one victim received a broken arm. Semb went to La Crosse, where he visited about until Sunday morning, when he boarded a train for this city. On his return here he telephoned the police that he would give himself up within a half hour, which he did. His conscience, he said, would not permit of his holding out longer and he came back to take his punishment. His bonds have been fixed at $5,000 and those of Stanley are $7,500, and both cases will be up for hearing Thursday morning.

DIES

Los Angeles —(AP)— John Dalzell, known for years as "the father of the house of representatives," while he served in congress as a representative from Pittsburg, Pa., died Sunday after a lingering illness at Altadena, Calif.

Once a power in Republican politics and one of a small group that had the house of representatives under its thumbs, Mr. Dalzell had almost become a memory years before his death. The Roosevelt tide of 1912 swept him from his vantage point, and he passed at once completely out of the public eye.

CLOUDBURST HITS SOUTHWEST STATES

Two Die in Floods of Southern Texas—Many Buildings Are Damaged

Kansas City—(AP)—Rains of cloudburst proportions, accompanied by high winds, caused widespread damage in southwestern states over the weekend and Monday left large areas inundated.

Two deaths were attributed to floods in southern Texas and several persons were injured in storms at Lelot, Carrolton, Campbell and Ladonia, where a score of buildings were wrecked or damaged Saturday.

Rainfall of from three to ten inches in Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri during the 36 hours ending at midnight Saturday, sent streams to flood marks, inundated thousands of acres of cotton, corn and winter wheat and delayed railroad and highway traffic.

Twenty persons were injured and a dozen farm buildings wrecked near Quinton, Okla., in a twister Saturday night.

DOUDNA TO KEEP PRESENT POST UNTIL END OF YEAR

Madison—(AP)—Edgar Doudna, now secretary of the state teacher's association who was appointed secretary of the state board of normal school regents at a meeting of the board Saturday, probably will not definitely assume the latter post until the first of the year, he said Monday.

"My term does not end until Jan. 1, and I have asked the board to allow me to continue in this office, possibly working with my successor here during December, while starting on the duties of normal board secretary," Mr. Doudna said. He said that his successor will be appointed at the meeting of the Wisconsin State Teachers association in Milwaukee Nov. 3. There has as yet been no intimation reached him as to who might be fitted for his place, he said.

NEARLY 100 FIRMS ARE DISSOLVED BY COURT

Chicago—(AP)—Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley Monday signed a decree dissolving an alleged trust commission of Tanners Products company of Delaware, and nearly one hundred similar concerns throughout the country which controlled 95 per cent of the hair felt business of the country.

NAGLER CALM AS FOES HINT COURT ACTION

New Conservation Head Scoffs at Rumors of Attempt to Obtain Writ

Madison— (AP) —Rumors of an injunction to prevent his assuming the post of director of conservation, to which he was elected by the new conservation commission late Saturday, do not worry Col. Louis B. Nagler, personal secretary to Governor Fred R. Zimmerman.

Mr. Nagler said Monday morning that the post of director should be filled by a man with executive ability and that he felt he had many years of such training. Mr. Nagler said he had always been interested in conservation work, had read widely on the subject and felt he was "as well qualified to handle all phases of the department's work as any man trained technically in one special field."

READ UP ON WORK

"Neither I nor the commission feel that training in conservation implies that a man should have sat in a classroom and listened to a professor lecture on conservation," said Nagler. "I told the commission that I had never listened to such lectures at the university here, but I had read the book from which the professor took his lectures."

Nagler's executive experience, he said, includes school teaching, editing newspapers, and handling large office forces.

"Court proceedings don't scare me," he said "You know they once thought they had me on the way to Leavenworth penitentiary, but I never got there."

His reference to Leavenworth was to a sentence he received during the war but which was reversed by authorities in Washington.

ENTIRE GERMAN NATION CHEERS AGED PRESIDENT

Berlin—(AP)—Under the watchword "Our Hindenburg" Berlin and all Germany celebrated the president's eightieth birthday in a manner unprecedented in the present generation. Never since the constitution of the empire, 56 years ago, has there been such an outburst of spontaneous enthusiasm and veneration for a single individual.

It was widely remarked Monday that the country's admiration and love, which many a ruler craved for unsuccessfully, was offered to the unassuming soldier-president like an avalanche.

Birthday tables were laden with gifts. Fully one million persons are estimated by the police to have cheered the president's progress from the palace to the stadium for the public celebration.

On his public appearance the venerable president was greeted with an unending roar of acclamation. His face retained its familiar immobile expression, but he acknowledged the tributes by continually lifting his top hat and bowing.

MORE THAN 1,000 AT PABST HOLSTEIN SALE

Oconomowoc—(AP)—Leading Holstein breeders of the country were attracted Monday to the Hollyhock farm of Col. Gustav Pabst who Monday placed his prize herd on the auction block. More than 1,000 buyers were present when the sale opened, with 115 head of Holsteins, many of them consistent blue ribbon winners, offered.

Mrs. F. E. Murphy, wife of the publisher of the Minneapolis Tribune, was the purchaser of the three head sold Monday morning. After spirited bidding, she obtained May Pieterje Homestad Ormsby, prize two-year-old at the National Dairy show in 1924, for $6,000. She bought a calf of the cow for $1,025, and purchased Sadie Cornucopia White for $900. Colonel Pabst is disposing of his large herd to continue operations on smaller scale. His herd is one of the most famous in the country.

Political Enemies Spy On Walker, Report Says

New York—(AP)—Reports that Mayor James J. Walker was subjected to constant espionage during his recent trip to Europe caused a stir Monday. As published by both Democratic and Republican papers, without naming the source, the reports are that a watch was kept on Mr. Walker's activities by order of an undisclosed American official.

The New York Times and the New York American say some of the mayor's associates believe that the purpose of the espionage was to cast discredit on Tammany hall of which the mayor and Governor Smith are members, and thus indirectly discredit the governor as a presidential candidate.

While neither the mayor nor any of his companions on the trip would discuss the matter, newspapers say that some of those who accompanied Mayor Walker on his tour asserted they had heard the reports.

British and French officials were said to have been the first to inform Mayor Walker that he was being shadowed by private detectives reputedly in the employ of American officials. A frame-up is believed by the mayor's friends to have been in the minds of those directing the reputed espionage.

French officials, one report says, were informed by an American official that Mayor Walker while in Germany had said he did not like the French. This was brought to the mayor's attention by French officials. Another story, which the mayor already has denied, appeared in a newspaper published for Negroes that in Rome he objected to the presence of Negroes in a cabaret. The mayor did not attend any night club or cabaret in Rome.

ATLANTIC STATES IN GRIP OF HEAT WAVE; THREE LOSE LIVES

New York—(AP)—Thousands of residents in the north and middle Atlantic states went to the beaches over the weekend to escape an unseasonable heat wave that broke all records for October and caused three deaths and many prostrations. The mark of 87 degrees in New York city, three degrees higher than the previous record for Oct. 2 was higher than any temperature recorded last August.

Donald Morey, 23, died in a New Brunswick hospital to which he was taken after being overcome by heat during the football game Saturday between Rutgers and Manhattan college. Morey played guard for Manhattan. Heat took the lives of an 80-year-old man in New York city and a baby girl.

Among those prostrated was Fritzi Scheff, actress, who fainted on the stage near the end of her performance at New Haven, Conn.

REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE TO HOLD MEET THIS WEEK

Milwaukee — (AP) — Prospect that plans for the state Republican convention to indorse presidential delegate candidates might be completed this week, appeared good Monday with announcement by Mayor William H. Armstrong, Racine, that the committee of 11 approved by him to make the arrangements would meet Thursday at the Republican house here. He was authorized to appoint the committee by the recent Wausau conference of anti-Lafollette Republicans.

ALL-STATE VIOLINIST TO BE ORCHESTRA MEMBER

Madison—(AP)—All-Wisconsin violinist or trombonist may soon mean as much or more than "All-Wisconsin" tackle or fullback. If it means more, it will be because the person so designated in the musical world of the state will actually play on the state orchestra, to be chosen by Prof. E. B. Gordon of the state university school of music, whereas the football team is a mythical organization.

The state orchestra, composed of 202 high school musicians, will play first before the state teacher's convention in Milwaukee, Nov. 4. There will be no saxaphonists in the orchestra.

Similar honors are to be awarded high school singers who are to try out as are the orchestra instrument players, a day or so before the convention, for a 500 voice chorus to sing before the teachers.

ANNUAL CHURCH MEET OPENS AT FOND DU LAC

Fond du Lac—(AP)—A meeting of the board of directors Monday afternoon was the first matter of business at the eighty-ninth annual conference of the Wisconsin Congregational church, opening here Monday. Owing to illness, the Rev. Theodore Faville, general superintendent, is unable to attend. An address on the theme of "The peace offensive" by the Rev. Robbins W. Barstow of Madison, was on the program for Monday night. Among the first delegates to register was the Rev. H. A. Miner of Madison, 98, oldest member of the conference and former superintendent of the southern missionary district of the state.

MILLION IN REPAIRS IS APPROVED FOR ROAD

Chicago —(AP)— Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson Monday authorized receivers for the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad to proceed with replacement and betterment work to cost more than $1,000,000.

The sum to be spent includes $533,000 for laying rails between Higgins and Martin, Ind: Rutledge and Ottumwa Junction, Iowa; Canton and Sioux Falls, S. D., Fox Lake, Ill., and Zenda, Wis.; Chester, Iowa, and Wisconsin Rapids, Wis. and at Rose Creek Minn.

RAIN MENACES DRIVERS; SPEED RACES CALLED OFF

Milwaukee— (AP) —With a heavy track, Milwaukee's first big league speed race in several years Sunday developed into a mud-running exhibition which was called in the fifty-sixth lap when a sudden shower made the track dangerous for the drivers.

Louis F. Schneider, noted Hoosier driver and former motorcycle racer, led the field in the final lap. His time for the 56 miles was 56 minutes, 51 3-5 seconds. Roy Goodwyn, driving a Loomis special, came in second, leading Shorty Cantlinn, driving Wilbur Shaw's car by a close margin.

NORTHERN FARMERS ARE HUNTING FOR BIG BEAR

Ashland — (AP) — Farmers of the Mason territory in Bayfield-co are keeping watch for an enormous bear which killed a 400-pound hog on the Troy Olson farm and escaped, came back again and escaped after being shot at. The bear tore a chunk as large as a couple of good-sized hams out of the neck of the living animal, and later tried to drag the carcass out of the pen.

Hilbert Woman Killed When Car Goes In Ditch

Hilbert—Elizabeth Ziendler, 70, of Chilton, was killed and her employer, Sam Haltinger, 71, suffered minor injuries in an accident at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon on state highway 57, about two miles south of here.

The accident occurred when Mr. Haltinger, driving on the wrong side of the road in order to make a sharp left hand turn, failed to see a southbound automobile. The other car, a sedan, was driven by Alex Gilles, with Roland Mathies as a passenger. Both live in Hilbert and are employed by the state highway commission.

Burnt rubber marks on the highway gave mute evidence that Mr. Gilles put on his brakes and turned out to the left in an effort to avoid hitting the lighter sedan. He did not see Mr. Haltinger's car in time, however, and the two automobiles crashed practically headon.

When the wreckage of the Haltinger car was lifted from the side of the road, Miss Ziendler was found unconscious. She was rushed to Hilbert by Mr Gilles and died there a few minutes later. Neither Mr. Gilles nor Mr. Mathies were injured, as both cars were traveling slowly when they reached the corner. It is believed the shock and advanced age caused the death of Miss Ziendler, who was Mr. Haltinger's housekeeper. Mr. Haltinger suffered a few cuts and bruises but was not seriously injured.

No inquest was held, as the district attorney, county officials and highway omtorcycle officers termed the accident unavoidable. Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the Ebenezer Reformed church at Chilton, by the Rev. William Arpke, pastor of the church.

POWER COMMITTEE ENDS INSPECTION

Will Make Second Tour of State Before Public Hearings Are Held

Madison—(AP)—The interim committee on water power, created by the 1927 session of the legislature, Monday disbanded temporarily after completing its first inspection trip. Another trip is planned this fall or next spring.

The committee consists of Senators H. B. Daggett, Milwaukee, and James Barker, Antigo; Assemblyman L. L. Thayer, Burnet; Alvin C. Reis, Madison, and Thomas M. Duncan, Milwaukee. Mr. Duncan was unable to make the trip. Adolph Kanneberg, member of the railroad commission, was with the party.

After the second tour is completed, hearings will be held in many parts of the state so that the committee may become familiar with the water power problems of each section. The committee's purpose is protection of the public ownership and interest in the states water power sites, according to the legislative enactment by which it was created. It will report to the 1929 session of the legislature.

TEACHERS DEFY ORDER TO APPEAR IN SMOCKS

Detroit—(AP)—One hundred and six teachers in the village schools of Hazle park, a suburb, flaunted a recent order of the school board in that body's face Monday and appeared at their posts without smocks. An order issued by the board last week set Monday as the beginning of a rule requiring the wearing of smocks, reaching not more than 10 inches above the floor.

A number of the teachers in the village's one high school and four grade schools previously had worn smocks to protect their clothing, but even they appeared Monday without the smocks.

"I don't know what they'll do to us, but we're not wearing smocks and we don't intend to either," said one teacher as she reached the high school, while another, less brave, declared she was "scared to death" but "we're going to stand firm."

BELGIAN KING HONORS RETIRING LEGION HEAD

Brussels—(AP)—Howard P. Savage, retiring commander of the American legion, Monday was made a commander of the Order of Leopold at a reception given by King Albert.

QUEEN MARIE WANTS TO BRING BOY KING ON NEXT U. S. VISIT

Bucharest— (AP) —Queen Marie hopes to take the boy king, Michael, to the United States on her next visit, to show Americans what a sovereign in the making looks like.

There will undoubtedly be some opposition on the part of the government to such a plan, but it is said here that in the end the popular queen will be permitted to take him, on the theory that a visit to the world's greatest democracy will have a definite educational value to the young king in his formative and most impressionable years.

JUDGE IS INJURED

Fond du Lac — (AP) — Judge A. E. Richter, 74, Fond du Lac, county judge for many years, is confined at St. Agnes hospital here with severe injuries suffered when struck by an automobile driven by Kenneth Feudner of Fond du Lac. The aged jurist sustained fractures of his right hip, pelvis, left ankle and right shoulder. He was struck while crossing the street.

Judge Richter is one of the oldest members of the county bar, having been admitted in 1885. He was elected county judge in 1888 and has served continuously with the exception of one year.

HUNT FOR MURDERER OF MINNESOTA GIRL

Body of College Student Is Found in Alley by Group of Children

Minneapolis — (AP)—Police Monday sought a young man who alighted from a street car with Miss Pearl Osten, 21-year-old college student shortly before she was beaten and strangled to death near her home here early Sunday. This man, according to the conductor of the street car, boarded the car with the young woman downtown Sunday morning, chatted with her until they reached a street near her home and then left the car with her after paying their fares.

A scarf was found beside her body when children, playing hide and seek in an alley woodshed, discovered Miss Osten late Sunday. Her face had been beaten so badly it was unrecognizable and there were finger marks around her throat, and her clothing was torn and muddy. Police sought the owner of the scarf, which relatives said did not belong to Miss Osten.

Miss Osten came here two weeks ago to take a music course at a local college. Her home is near Pelican Rapids, Minn. She obtained work as a waitress in order to help pay her expenses. She finished her work at 12:30 Sunday morning and left for the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Melvin Langseth, where she roomed.

MILWAUKEE MAN HEADS BADGER CHIROPODISTS

Fond du Lac —(AP)— Dr. R. P. Franke of Milwaukee, was re-elected president of the Wisconsin Chiropodists association at a business session of the eighth annual convention here Monday. Other officers are Dr. P. Groth, Milwaukee, secretary-treasurer; Dr. H. Protz, La Crosse, first vice president; Dr. J. N. Hoyer, Fond du Lac, second vice president. La Crosse was selected as the convention city in 1928.

U. S. DEMANDS LEVIES WITHDRAWAL IN CHINA

Shanghai — (AP) — Consul General Cunningham, following instructions from Washington, is expected to inform the Nanking department of foreign affairs Tuesday that unless excessive levies are withdrawn within 24 hours payment of American customs henceforth will be made to the consulate, according to treaty stipulations. The action concerns only tobaccos and liquors.

Pope Pius Honors Levine At Audience In Vatican

Rome—(AP)—Pope Pius Monday received Charles A. Levine in special audience in the small throne-room of the Vatican. The pontiff dressed in white seemed surprised at the small stature of Levine, who was accompanied only by M. Wrangel, a nephew of the Russian general, Baron Wrangel, who is serving as his social secretary.

The pope said that he was greatly pleased to greet the trans-Atlantic flier and then blessed Levine, his family and all future flights.

Levine, who upon entering the pontiff's presence, had bent his knee and kissed the papal ring like a true Catholic, told his holiness that the honor of being received was the greatest he had ever experienced.

Levine's reception in the small throne-room of the Vatican marked the first time that any American has ever been received in this room, in spite of the fact that he did not conform to the rigid dress regulations of the Vatican and went bareheaded from his hotel to the audience. He wore the same blue business suit in which he flew to Europe with Chamberlin and which has stood him in good stead ever since.

On his way to the throne-room while at Vatican Levine passed through five rooms lined with Vatican guards all of whom saluted him. Levine's appointment with Premier Mussolini is for 11:15 Tuesday morning.

224 MORE STICKS OF DYNAMITE ARE FOUND UNDER BATH SCHOOL

Bath, Mich. — (AP) — A second tragedy in this little village which lost 42 of its men, women and children last May when explosives planted by Andrew Kehoe, Clinton-co farmer, partly demolished the two story district school house, was averted Sunday.

Two small boys, playing in the ruins of the north section, discovered 244 sticks of dynamite placed under a false floor of the remaining south half of the building. It is believed explosion of the dynamite would have completed the destruction which the demented farmer had planned carefully for many weeks.

The dynamite was discovered when the boys crawled under the buildings. S. E. Ewing, supervisor of Bath township, declared workmen now employed rebuilding the school have found small charges secreted in other parts of the building.

DEADLOCK ON TARIFF ISSUE WITH FRANCE

Note Says French Suffer Most by Existing Tariff Treaties With U. S.

Paris—(AP)—France and the United States appear deadlocked in their negotiations for settlement of the pending tariff controversy. Publication Monday of aide memoires, exchanged recently, indicate that France continues to demand assurances of reciprocity in the negotiations, while Washington, in its aide memoire, delivered at the Quai d'Orsay last week, insists upon most favored - nation treatment.

France, in her latest aide memoire on the tariff, made public Monday again presents the principle of reciprocity in the negotiation of customs treaties. She does not complain of being discriminated against by the United States, but does contend that she suffers at the same time as other states from a restrictive regime which, because of the character of her position, affects her more than the others.

GOVERNOR OF TENNESSEE DIES AT NASHVILLE HOME

Nashville, Tenn.— (AP) —Governor Austin Peay, 51-year-old chief executive of Tennessee since 1923, who was nationally conspicuous in his defense of the Tennessee anti-evolution bill, died unexpectedly at his home Sunday night, as the result of cerebral hemorrhage. Henry H. Horton, speaker of the Tennessee state senate was sworn in Monday as governor.

Governor Peay attained national prominence by signing a bill passed by the Tennessee legislature of 1925 prohibiting the teaching of the theory of evolution in public schools. In his public utterances during the trial at Dayton of John T. Scopes, convicted of violating the statute, Governor Peay upheld the argument of fundamentalists in the religious controversy.

UNKNOWN POLISH HERO HONORED BY LEGION

Warsaw, Poland—(AP)—Three members of the American legion, all of Milwaukee, arrived here Monday to pay tribute to Poland's unknown soldier on behalf of the legion and the Kosciuszko guard, Polish military organization. The men, whose last names were Kaczor, Swietlik and Zawodny, placed wreaths at the tomb of the unknown soldier. The Kosciuszko guard, honored at the same place with another wreath, was founded in Milwaukee in 1874, members participating in the war with Spain and in the world war.

MURDER SUSPECT ONCE PATIENT AT MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee—(AP)—Ernest Biederman, awaiting trial in Oneida-co for the murder of John Rhode on Sept. 23, was identified Monday as an escaped patient from the county hospital for mental diseases here and a man who some years ago barricaded himself in a town of Greenfield shack and defied the authorities to come and get him.

That mental diseases, such as that from which Biederman suffered are always potentially dangerous, is attested by Dr. Paul H. Rupp, county alienist, who was responsible for Biederman's original commitment.

WOMAN KILLED, MAN HURT WHEN TRAIN HITS AUTO

St. Peter, Minn. —(AP)— Mrs. Marie H. Kramer, 38, of Minong, Wis., was killed and Charles Hines of St. Peter, was seriously hurt when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a southbound Omaha passenger train at crossing on trunk highway No. 5, two miles east of here.

3 COMPANIES QUIT CAPITAL WITH LEADERS

Leave Mexico City Garrison to Oppose Reelection of Obregon

SAY MEN WERE DECEIVED

Official Claims Soldiers Didn't Know Revolt Action Was Planned

BULLETIN

Mexico City —(AP)— Mexico City was perfectly calm and tranquil Monday morning, with no outward evidences shown of Sunday night's revolutionary movement, affecting about 500 soldiers of the city garrison, who marched out of the city for an undetermined destination in mutiny.

Mexico City —(AP)— Three companies of the Mexico City garrison have revolted. They left the city late Sunday night, taking the field against the government. It is thought they are supporting the movement against the reelection of former President Obregon, led by Generals Serrano and Gomez, whose whereabouts have not been known since Saturday.

General Jose Alvarez, chief of the presidential staff, declared Monday morning that the soldiers had been deceived by their chiefs. Apparently all the members of the garrison started to go out, but when the majority of the men learned they were being led into a revolt, they abandoned their chiefs and returned to barracks. Those who left the city did not exceed 500, he added. Their destination upon leaving the capital was unknown.

Although agitation has been reported among the troops at several points in Mexico, General Alvarez asserted that reports received by the presidential bureau indicated that quiet prevailed everywhere.

OFFICERS ARE CANDIDATES

Although there have been numerous clashes between government forces and rebels in recent weeks, these have been ascribed by Mexican military communiques to religious "fanatics."

General Arnulfo Gomez and General Francisco Serrano, mentioned as missing from the capital, are both presidential candidates. Each has announced himself against the constitutional amendment recently adopted, which permits a president to run for reelection after an intervening term has been served by another man.

General Obregon is a candidate again for the presidency which he held before the election of the present chief executive, Plutarco Elias Calles.

YOUTH ADMITS MURDER OF NEW JERSEY GIRL

Woodbury, N. J.—(AP)—George Yaro, 23, of Barnesboro, was in jail Monday after confessing, police said, to the slaying of Rose Sarlo, 17-year-old Sunday school teacher, whose battered body was found at the abutment of the Mantua creek bridge Sunday.

"I don't know why I killed her," Yaro was quoted by police as saying. Several letters, alleged to have been written by Yaro in which he professed love for Rose and in one of which he threatened to kidnap her unless she "loved him deeply in return," were tuned over to police by the girl's mother.

The police said Yaro's confession was obtained after he had been questioned for hours and taken to the morgue at Paulsboro where the victim's body had been removed. The girl had been shot three times and wire had been wrapped around her neck.

LOCAL WOMAN'S FATHER DIES AT MARINETTE HOME

Marinette —(AP)— Sofus C. Miller, 75, founder of the Miller Sash and Door company, died suddenly here Saturday evening of a heart attack. He had planned a fishing trip for Sunday and was ill but a few hours before death. Mr. Miller, a survivor of the historic Peshtigo fire, came to Marinette in 1870. His wife died in 1924. He is survived by four children John O. and Loren Miller, and Mina Ruffsvold of Marinette, and Mrs. H. T. Johnson of Appleton. He was also the father of the late Attorney Edward W. Miller of this city. Funeral services will be held Tuesday.

SON IS ABDUCTED AS MOTHER GOES TO PHONE

Ashland —(AP)— A visit of Mrs. Allegra Chambers, Austin, Minn., at Morse, near here, ended abruptly when two men "kidnaped" her one-year-old son, George. Mrs. Chambers was called to the store to answer a phone call which proved to be a hoax. While she was there the men entered the house, picked up the child, carried it to an automobile and sped away. Mrs. Chambers left for Austin hoping to recover the child. She is seeking a divorce from her [illegible] L. V. Chambers. She had been visiting her grandparents at Morse.

ENGINEERS WANTED FOR COAST SURVEY

Exceptional Opportunity Is Offered for Young Civil Engineers

Junior engineers and deck officers are needed by the United States coast and Geodetic survey according to the United States civil service commission and application for the positions will be received by the commission at Washington, D. C., or by H. J. Franck, secretary of the United States civil service board of examiners at the Appleton post office. Openings in the coast and geodetic survey departments offer an exceptional opportunity for young men trained in civil engineering or in surveying because promotions are made from the temporary grade or junior engineer and deck officer to the commissioned grades of the coast and geodetic survey. Commissioned officers in the coast and geodetic survey hold relative rank with officers in the army and navy.

The salary of the junior engineers and deck officers is $2,000 a year. Commissioned officers in the departments receive pay, allowances and retirement benefits on a basis with the army and navy.

The civil service commission also has announced that competitive examinations will be held in the near future to fill the following positions, informations about which may also be obtained from Mr. Franck:

Under file clerk at $1,140 a year, junior file clerk at $1,320 a year, department service, Washington, D. C. The duties will be to assort, arrange, prepare for filing and file papers, index cards, cross-reference sheets, or other office records.

Flat-bed bookkeeping machine operator, departmental service, Washington, D. C., at $1,500 a year. The duties will be to operate flat-bed bookkeeping machines on ledger and statement work, involving the operation of a number of adding or subtracting registeres; to enter old balances, debts credits and new balances; to crossfoot columns; and to perform other work as required.

Hospital librarian, Veterans' bureau throughout the United States, at $1,680 a year. The duties are to administer libraries at Veterans' bureau hospitals in the United States.

Assistant plant physiologist, bureau of chemistry and soils, department of agriculture, Washington, D. C., at $2,400 a year. The duties are to conduct general research in plant physiology. Special problems will include the study of nitrogen nutrition of plants growing under sterile conditions and the study of certain phases of legume symbiosis.

TAX COLLECTION IS BIG STATE PROBLEM

Levitan Willing to Use Any Method Which Will Lessen Cost of Work

Columbus, O.—(AP)—Solomon Levitan, state treasurer of Wisconsin, Monday told state officials and oil men of the economical collection of the gasoline tax in Wisconsin.

He prefaced his outline with the statement:

"Too much waste of money in administering the affairs of government; too little co-relation of governmental activities and too many obsolete jobs are the great problems of state and national governments today. If the government could be reduced to a cost of service basis used by large corporations, large sums of money could be saved tax payers." The address was in response to one by Governor Vic Donahey of Ohio, welcoming the officials to the North American Gasoline Tax Conference.

"Collection of gasoline taxes has become a great governmental problem," declared Mr. Levitan. "To find simple methods for securing a complete and uniform colection of this tax at a minimum of expense should be one of the controlling motives of this conference. Of all taxes in Wisconsin, the gas tax is collected the easiest and cheapest.

"Wisconsin has a two cent gasoline tax. For the fiscal year ending July 1, 1926, a total of $5,026,053 was collected at a cost of $6,000, and at the same cost, a total of $5,539,339.33 was collected for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1927, making the collection cost of each dollar of gasoline taxes in Wisconsin about one-tenth of one per cent. So far as I have been able to find, this is the lowest rate for collection of any tax ever made.

"The gasoline taxes are collected under supervision of the state treasurer. We have complete forms for making the collection, and a system of checking up delinquents. By an impartial supervision of all of the activities, those who owe the state a tax know they must pay and pay promptly. We have injected the spirit of business efficiency into the office.

"Our tax collection department is a business organization. It is not a haven for political lame ducks or office chair warmers. It is a business organization from top to bottom. If someone else has a better system than Wisconsin, I am here to learn about it."

38 WEDDING LICENSES ARE ISSUED BY CLERK

A total of 38 marriage licenses were issued to Outagamie-co couples during September, according to records in the office of John E. Hantschel, county clerk. This is an increase of eight over September, 1926, when only 30 permits were issued. However, it is a decrease of 14 over August when a total of 52 licenses were issued.

LEGION POST MEETS TO ELECT OFFICERS

Officers of Oeny Johnston post of the American legion will be elected at the regular October meeting of the post at 8 o'clock Monday evening at Elk hall. Reports of the membership and Armistice day committees, appointed at the meeting of the post executive committee last week, will be made and plans will be started for the 1927 membership drive and Armistice day program. An entertainment will complete the meeting.

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

The pointer for today is:

STRONG HANDS WITH MAJOR SUITS FIVE CARDS OR LONGER, BUST HANDS WITH MINOR SUITS SIX CARDS OR LONGER, AND TWO-SUITERS, ARE PRACTICALLY THE ONLY TYPES WHICH JUSTIFY THE TAKE-OUT OF PARTNER'S UNCONTESTED NO TRUMP.

A careful examination of this week's hands should be illuminating to those who indulge in indiscriminate take-outs. The question of what should be done with an uncontested No Trump—i. e., a No Trump bid by partner which has been passed by Second Hand—has been the subject of more discussion than any other at the Bridge table. Popular opinion apparently approves many takeouts which are not justified.

The twenty test hands given today will be answered at the rate of four per day, starting tomorrow and ending Saturday. Fill your answer slip today and compare it with the answers as they appear on each of the remaining days of the week. If you get your Bridge friends to fill answer slips today and compare scores at the end of the week, you will have an interesting contest.

HANDS HELD BY NORTH, SOUTH (DEALER) HAVING BID ONE NO TRUMP, AND WEST (SECOND HAND) HAVING PASSED. WHAT SHOULD NORTH DECLARE IN EACH CASE?

Another Landmark Of 1880 Passes Out Of Existence

Another reminder of the flourishing days in Appleton in the early 1880's passed out of existence a few weeks to make room for new and modern improvements. The old landmark was the building at the foot of the Jackman-st hill and which for years had been used as the offices of the Atlas Paper company.

To many persons the building had been known as the Whorton building but old timers say that it really had no connection with the old Whorton saw mill which at one time occupied the present site of the Atlas mill. The office building was completed in 1881 or '82 and had been used by the mill since that time.

With the paving of Jackman-st and the intentions of the city to run the street along side the Chicago and Northwestern railroad track rather than cross them twice within a few feet, the old land mark was doomed. When the city made known its intentions the building was given them outright. And, as one member of the street department said, "We buried the bricks where the building stood and the lumber is in the street department's yards."

Speaking of the lumber, however, it recalls the story of the great supply of pine that once could be found in the regions around Appleton. Many of the boards taken from the building were pine planks twelve or more inches wide and did not have a knot in them. According to one old-timer "those were the days when a few dollars could buy enough lumber to build a new house; today you can carry home a few dollars worth of lumber on your back."

SUGGESTS AMENDMENT FOR ZONING ORDINANCE

One way to amend the city zoning ordinance to allow additional business districts has been suggested to Mayor A. C. Rule by Arthur Schuh, city engineer of Waukesha.

Mr. Schuh says that the city planning commission there has had the same trouble as confronts the Appleton commission and he suggests "zone your city as it is."

The Waukesha commission, he says has solved the problem by allowing stores now in residence districts, to stay there, but in extending the business districts it is specified that in case the store owners want to rebuild, they must place their new building back of the set back line of residences in that block. In that way, no store building would set out as a "sore thumb"

Mayor Rule is to attend a meeting of city planning and zoning engineers at Milwaukee Oct. 6 and 7, to obtain additional information about city planning.

WISCONSIN WEATHER

Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday; not much change in temperature.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

The pressure is low over the Lake Superior region, with a trough northward over the Mississippi valley, with extensive rain. The pressure is slightly higher over the plains states, with generally fair weather, and this should cause a period of clearing weather here tonight and Tuesday. Another low pressure area appears over the Puget Sound territory, which may develop and advance later in the week.

Arthur Lindauer, Jr. 1500 N. Alvin-st., submitted to an operation for appendicitis Wednesday at St. Elizabeth hospital.

NOTICE

Will man who picked up a roll of money on College-Ave. Sat. Noon kindly return to 201 S. Walnut-St. and receive liberal reward.

FINISH CONSTRUCTION OF RECREATION HALL

Workmen have completed construction of the recreation hall at Pierce Park and work is progressing on filling in of land in back of it. The ground in front of the hall is all levelled and seeded.

Construction of the ornamental gate at the S. Story-st entrance to the park, delayed by the rain of the past week, will be finished soon. Paving at that intersection also will be completed in a day or two.

Other work by the park board is practically complete, with the exception that walks in City park will be raised as soon as the weather allows. At present, after a heavy rainfall, the walks are under water.

SEWER IS APPROVED BY CITY'S ENGINEER

Recommends Construction of Sewer Connecting With S. River-st Line

The city engineer's office is conducting an investigation into the sewerage disposal question on S. River-st, with the view of putting an end to unsanitary conditions in the fourth ward.

At the present time, sewage from a district comprising all homes on S. River-st from Lawe-st to a point 300 feet east of West-ave is carried by a sewage line on S. River-st. At a point on S. River-st 900 feet east of S. Lawe-st, the sewage drops 25 feet into a culvert under the road and the culvert drains the sewage off into a ravine, where most of it evaporates before it reaches the river bank. Many complaints have been made to the common council regarding the sewer.

The engineer's office has studied the situation and will recommend to the council that a sewer be constructed, connecting with the S. River-st sewer. The new sewer would run north to near the river bank where it would be routed east to join the present sewer outlet. The project will be about 1,000 feet in length and the cost probably will be approximately $2,000.

MOTORCYCLE OFFICER WILL BE WED OCT. 12

A marriage license was issued Monday morning by John E. Hantschel, county clerk, to Gus B. Herserkorn, motorcycle officer of the Appleton police department, and Miss Laura Doerfler, Appleton. The couple will be married at St. Joseph church on Oct. 12.

LETTER GOLF

HERE'S A PAR SIX

Going from SOUP to NUTS is sometimes a long process, depending on your appetite. Here the change is a par six. The answer is printed on page 13.

S	O	U	P
N	U	T	S

THE RULES

1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW TO HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

2—You can change only one letter at a time.

3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR CITY'S GOLF COURSE

Park Board Advertises for Bids on Preliminary Work to Be Done This Fall

The park board has received the specifications for the new municipal golf course, prepared by a Chicago firm, and has started advertising for bids on construction of greens and fairways. Actual construction work on the course is to be started after a two weeks interval, during which it is necessary to advertise for bids for the work, as specified by law.

Prior to the rainy weather, a crew of 12 workmen were employed at grubbing out underbrush at South park, where the course is to be located. As soon as weather permits they will continue with their work.

The specifications for the new links provide for a 3,025 yards course, with a par score of 36. The fifth and ninth holes are doglegs, of 380 and 315 yards in length, respectively. All of the fairways are well trapped and golfers who have seen plans of the proposed course believe that it will provide a real test for a golfer's skill.

The eighth and ninth holes are to be located north of E. Fremont-st and in the event a clubhouse is constructed later on, it also would be located in that part of the park.

Distance and par for each hole will be as follows: First, 490 yards, par 5; second, 125 yards, par 3; third, 465 yards, par 5; fourth, 435 yards, par 4; fifth, 380 yards, par 4; sixth, 300 yards, par 4; seventh, 355 yards, par 4; eighth, 160 yards, par 3; ninth, 315 yards, par 4.

The plan for the course is being exhibited in a display window of the Schlafer Hardware store.

Attend Funeral

Mrs. Harry Cameron and son Bruce left Sunday for Sheboygan where they will attend the funeral of Mrs. Cameron's sister-in-law, Mrs. Ernest Lutze. Mrs. Lutze died Friday evening. The funeral will be held Tuesday. Mr. Cameron will go to Sheboygan for the funeral Tuesday morning.

CHURCH WOMEN ENTERTAINED AT LUNCH-PROGRAM

Women of Memorial Presbyterian church will be entertained at a 1 o'clock luncheon and program Tuesday afternoon in the parlors of the church. After the luncheon a business meeting will be held.

A program of music will be presented after which progressive games will be played. One of the features of the entertainment will be a "cake" walk.

Two members from each circle of the Ladies Aid society will be hostess at the luncheon and have charge of the program. They are Mrs. Charles Foreman and Mrs. O. D. Harris, Circle Ruth; Mrs. E. W. Shannon and Miss Jessie King, Circle Esther; Mrs. Max Boehm and Mrs. F. W. Schneider, Circle Miriam and Mrs. H. H. Clausen and Mrs. George Werner, Circle Electa.

NONE HURT WHEN CARS CRASH DURING STORM

No one was injured in a collision Saturday night between cars owned by John Beyer, route 5, Appleton, and Louis Ruwoldt, Appleton, on highway 47 a short distance north of the city. A heavy rain and glare of lights is believed to have been the cause of the accident. The front wheels on Ruwoldt's car were damaged and it was taken to an Appleton garage while the Beyer car was able to proceed under its own power.

STOCKBRIDGE MAN IS KILLED BY BROTHER IN HUNTING TRAGEDY

Stockbridge — Simon Steffes, 38, of this village, was shot and almost instantly killed Sunday afternoon while hunting with his brother, Albert, near highway 31, between Stockbridge and Jericho. The latter sighted a rabbit, and just as he shot, his brother, who was hidden in the brush, moved into the fire according to the story told local authorities. Simon was struck in the back, just below the left shoulder.

Albert immediately notified Stockbridge authorities and summoned a physician, but his brother was dead before they arrived. No inquest will be held, as the death was clearly accidental, according to officials here. Mr. Steffes is survived by his widow, seven children, his aged mother, Mrs. John Steffes at Chilton and seven sisters.

MENASHA MAN FINED FOR DRIVING TOO FAST

C. A. Heckroad, Menasha, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Monday morning when he pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding. Heckroad was arrested by Guz Herserkorn, motorcycle officer, at 11 o'clock Saturday night for traveling 38 miles per hour on S. Cherry-st.

TALLEY UNSPOILED BY PRAISE FROM LOVERS OF MUSIC

Starts Concert Season Many Weeks Early to Meet All Engagements

So great has the demand been to hear Marion Talley sing that the young prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera company found it necessary to start her fall tour in midsummer. She sang at Ocean Grove, N. J., on August 21, Winona Lake, Ind., Aug. 27, Colorado Springs. Aug. 30, Denver, Sept. 1, and will appear here Friday evening at Lawrence Memorial chapel.

Genius always commands attention and pronounced talent has ever been accorded an exalted position. Marion Talley merely fulfilled destiny, taking her rightful place among the chosen few. Minnie Hauk was a full-fledged artist at sixteen; Patti made her debut at sixteen; Schuman-Heink and Lehman at seventeen; Jenny Lind at sighteen; Sembrich, Gerster, Calve and Farrar at nineteen; Destinn at twenty, Nielsson at twenty-one and Eames at twenty-two. Not one was so honored as Marion Talley, who became famous over night.

When Director Gatti-Casazza and Otto H. Kahn of the Metropolitan Opera company heard the initial audition they recognized genius. This is the first and only instance where a singer has been so honored.

Throughout all the attention accorded Miss Talley she remains demure, calm, unruffled, never losing sight of the task which is hers — to sing her best.

The arduous schedule of concerts finds her fresh and serene in the company of her inseparable companions, her mother and her sister Florence. She studies by day and sleeps soundly by night and has zest for all good things which life has in store for her.

MORTIMER PRESIDENT OF H. S. SOPHOMORES

Election of officers of Appleton high school sophomore class was held Thursday during home room period. Robert Mortimer was elected president; John Lonsdorf, vice president; Lila Locksmith, secretary; Russel Wichman, treasurer.

The first regular meeting of the three classes of the senior high school will be held during the third period Thursday. The first Thursday of the month is the day for class meetings.

Arrangements for class dues will be made, dates set for social events, and class stunts will be discussed.

Chairmen of faculty sponsors for each class are: Seniors, Miss Margaret Abraham; juniors, Clement Ketchum; sophomores, Miss Edna Benson.

WARN POSTAL RULES MUST BE FOLLOWED

Warning that regulations regarding the shipment of five leafed pines, and gooseberry and currant plants, whether wild or cultivated, must be adhered to has been received at the Appleton post office by Fred Felix Wettengel, acting post master. The regulations are to prevent the spread of white pine blister rust.

Regulations of the postal department permit shipment of certain shrubs and plants only when they are from nurseries which have been inspected for plant diseases and insects and which can show proof of inspection. Plans and shrubs may not be shipped under any condition unless they are consigned to regions which are considered blister control areas.

BUILDING COMMITTEE MEETS AT COURTHOUSE

The building and grounds committee of the county board will meet at 2 o'clock next Wednesday afternoon. Bills will be allowed and routine business matters transacted. Supervisor John Tracy, Appleton, is chairman of this group.

Rumblings of Winter Are Heard by Clerks in Postoffice Department

The first rumblings of winter and Christmas have been heard at the Appleton post office, according to Fred Felix Wettengel, acting postmaster.

The daily bulletin issued by the postoffice department received in the Appleton office Friday carries the information that parcel post packages for points in the Yukon territory will be limited to certain routes and in some cases will be refused, and that mail supplies for the local department should be ordered now so they will be received in time for the Christmas rush.

Warnings have been sent out by the Canadian postal department that the transmission of merchandise to the Yukon territory will be restricted during the winter season, which begins in those regions on Oct. 1 and continues to May 31 of the following year, to post offices at Champagne, Carncross and White Horse. The request was made that post masters decline to accept for mailing until June 1, 1928, articles which will have to be transmitted over the White Horse-Dawrson route, which will be closed because of snows within the next few weeks.

The request of the postal department that postmasters request all necessary postal supplies now, is to make sure that each office has enough equipment to carry it over the heavy mailing period during the time of Christmas mailing.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Can Your Bowels

Most folks forget that the kidneys like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water, before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble. adv.

October--A Month of Weddings

October—the first month of autumn is beginning to displace June as a wedding month. Everything is at its best in October—the task of beginning house-keeping is not so fearsome as in the hot summer months—the bride's outfit can be made more colorful and fashionable—her traveling costume has more dash and there is greater variety to tempt her than in June. For the October bride, we have assembled unusual variety of smartly fashionable apparel to meet her every requirement at prices that will make the clothes fund go farther.

Luxurious Silk Crepes and Velvets Fashion The Dresses

The October bride prefers her wedding dress to be more practical than does the bride of June. She shows great admiration for the ones that we feature of delightful combinations of rich, soft velvets and fine silk crepes. Others are of luxurious Satins, and dainty Georgettes. They are featured in the new, soft shades of autumn, with a wealth of smart ideas in their trimmings. Specially interesting are the new Irregular Hems, Flares and Drapes. Unusual variety in special groups at from—

$35.00 to $59.50

Tailored Frocks of Fine Crepes - - - - for Travel Wear - - - -

$24.75 to $29.50

The decided feminine trend is manifest. In fact it is being so generally accepted that it is a noticeable turn-about-face on the part of smart women who have been the most faithfull devotees of mannish attire.

Therefore, soft fabrics, graceful flares, and decorative ornamentation charterizes fall fashions.

There are new neck lines—new sleeve effects—and skirt lines that are ultra-feminine to choose from in these collections of frocks.

"Going-Away" dresses are richly developed in a host of beautiful new modes of finest quality silk Crepes, Satins and stunning combinations. The favored styles are those along more conservative, tailored lines, and we show a remarkable assemblage of them!

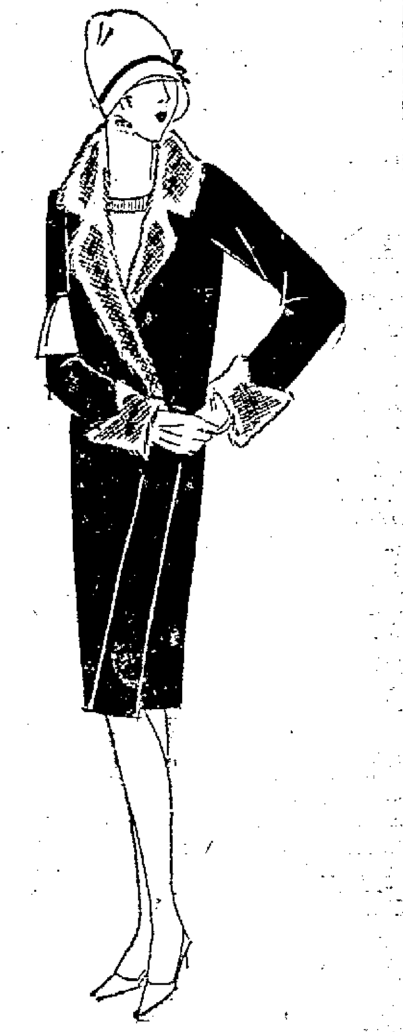
Every one of fall's newest shades are fully represented in these dresses, and in many cases there is a delightful combination of colors.

These dresses are, by far, the smartest of the fall season! Every one is outstanding in style-rightness and value, that the style-wise bride-to-be will recognize the minute she sees them.

Wedding Veils Made to Special Order

Our Millinery Section, is prepared to offer you expert service in the making of the Bridal Veil. Every wanted style—to meet your own individual requirements can be had. We make them all by hand—of the finest materials and ornaments. Beautiful veils can be had for as low as $5.

The Bride's Coat Is Lavishly Fur-Trimmed



Beautiful coats, designed and created for women who love and demand the best in apparel are a feature of this showing. Here are coats that will win admiration from even the most sophisticated shoppers—because of their unusual value.

Splendidly tailored of the finest of foreign and domestic woolens—in colors that are decidedly new and authentic. These coats completely represent the correct modes for Fall and Winter.

There are youthful models that one will find adorable—lavishly trimmed with finest of long-haired furs, and lined with fine silk crepes. There are sizes for every one—with special attention for the hard-to-fit figures.

$59.50 to $159.50

The Right Hats For The Occasion In Fashionable Materials and Colors

$7 to $15

The most important complement to the wedding outfit is THE HAT. It most be carefully chosen to blend in with the rest of the costume—yet not be conspicuous enough to spoil the effect of your ensemble. We are showing a tremendous variety of beautiful new models, specially assembled for the October pride. There are new shapes and sizes, cunningly developed of smart metalic combinations, satins with contrasting facings to match the frock or coat. Our special-order section will be delighted to make all hats to match for the bride's attendants.

NEENAH GRID SQUAD HELD TO SCORELESS TIE IN FIRST GAME

St. Peters of Oshkosh and Jorgensons Battle in Muddy Field Saturday Afternoon

Neenah — The high school football team held the St. Peter high school team of Oshkosh to a scoreless tie Saturday afternoon in the first game on the Neenah high school schedule. The game was played on Columbia park field which, in some places was a foot deep with water and mud. Only once did the Neenah team come close to a scoring point and that was in the first quarter when the ball was within seven yards of the goal. Once in the game the Oshkosh team had the ball within one foot of the goal but found the Neenah team a stone wall through which it could not pass. Neenah scored only nine smashes with an occessional punt while the Oshkosh team threw several passes. Neenah had the edge on the visitors during the first half, but the visitors came back and doubled the advances and gains during the entire last half. Six substitutions were made by Coach Jorgenson during the game. Oshkosh made three substitutions.

The Soggy conditions of the new Citizens' athletic field prevented the game from being played there as was at first planned.

Harold Breeze of Appleton, was referee; William Pichett, also of Appleton, was umpire and Armin Gerhardt was head linesman.

The line up:

ST. PETER		NEENAH
Fibrycke	le	Thurmanson
Nebel	lg	Gerhardt
Wegman	lt	Hauser

Sontag	rg	Johnson
Dempsey	rt	Haase
Carrigan	re	Pratt
Fiss	q	Marty
Zindler	lh	Brown
Banderob	rh	Radke
Stratz	fb	Schneller

Neenah will go to Oconto Falls next Saturday afternoon.

The next home game will be played on the afternoon of Oct. 15 with Sturgeon Bay at Citizens' Athletic field. This will be the formal opening of the new field which will be dedicated with a program between halves of the game.

NEENAH SOCIETY

Neenah —Miss Geraldine Kimberly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. RABBIT HUNTING AT NIGHT IS ASSAILED BY DANE SPORTSMEN

Move May Be Started Here to Have Season Opening Postponed One Month

Rabbits in a few Wisconsin counties may receive a respite from hunters during October, but members of the species in Outagamie-co are not so fortunate. While sentiment here seems to favor the postponement of the rabbit hunting season to Nov. 1 it takes 50 citizens of a county to sign a petition to that effect before the state conservation commission will hold a hearing to determine whether or not a closed season should be declared.

At least 40 citizens of Appleton and vicinity have expressed their willingness to sign the petition for the county but no one seems willing to take the responsibility of circulating the petition. Eight counties have signed petitions, but only one, Dane, has had a public hearing. Interest in the preservation of wild life was so great there that a large crowd assembled from all parts of the county in spite of a stormy night.

The meeting almost could have been called a protest meeting against the legislative action of 1927, setting back the open season for rabbits as to permit the killing of rabbits in October.

Forty-four persons were at the meeting and the speakers were practically unanimous in favor of the postponement.

The arguments raised were all against October shooting and against night shooting in the winter as well and it was the consensus of opinion that when the legislature meets again it should be asked to legislate against the shooting of rabbits at night.

Game wardens in attendance strongly suported the demand for abolition of night shooting although admitting this could only be remedied by legislative action. It was said by the game wardens that the law limiting rabbit bags to five were violated by almost all night shooters and that it was almost impossible to apprehend the culprits who kill the rabbits by shooting from their automobiles while driving along the road.

THREE OUTAGAMIE-CO PUPILS MAKE REPORT

Three pupils of Outagamie-co rural schools have already completed their annual book reports for the coming school year, according to A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools. The first pupil to read the required number of books was Alice Miller of Badger school in the town of Grand Chute. Two pupils of Idlewild school Joint 3, were second. They are Maynard Puls, a fifth grade student and Marvin Kuehn, an eighth grade student.

Each pupil is required to read a certain number of books each year in order that he may be promoted, according to Mr. Meating.

Menning's Orch. Gainor's Hall, Mackville, Tues., Oct. 4.

Ranger Not Picturesque But He Is Hard Worker

The Badger state forest ranger may not be as picturesque as the public mind would have a ranger, but some of his tasks are as thrilling as the public would have a forest ranger perform.

In the second growth timber lands, cut over lands and others made somewhat drab compared to their previous scenic beauty, one does not find the protector of forest, fur, fin and feather galloping alongside stately mountains tumbling streams, rugged cliffs, or preched atop pinnacles that are usually associated with ranger stations. They are not generally attired in natty whip-cord riding breeches and puttees and the word "ranger" had best be replaced in addressing them with the term "conservation warden."

These changes, according to the latest issue of the Wisconsin Magazine, are revealed in an interview with Al Powell of Bayfield, for 20 years a warden. Having passed his 61st birthday anniversary, Mr. Powell, because of his continual out-door life and careful living, carries well the weight of his years. He has been a prospector in the hills where President Coolidge spent this summer's vacation.

More than 16 years ago Mr. Powell went to Bayfield and engaged in his present occupation. The first violator coming under his jurisdiction was the mayor (long since dead) who was caught shooting ducks out of season.

Sunday morning may find Mr. Powell out on the sand barrens anywhere between Bayfield and Superior instructing the blueberry harvesters to be cautious with their campfires in order to protect what little timber growth the sand ridges afford. Then a hasty jaunt to some trout stream to see that no greedy angler takes more than his share of fish. Next, he may meet a farmer who complains that deer are destroying his crops. As evening draws on he may find that it will be necessary t spend the night in the open in order to be on the job when some early working nature robber begins to operate, or it may be, to lie in wait for a pack of roving dogs that are molesting the deer during the night. The next morning may find him 50 miles or more from the scene of his activities of the previous day, starting out with a truck load of fish fry—a few million trout perhaps—to be planted in streams and lakes.

Occasionally trespassers are vicious characters but in all his varied experiences in executing his duties, nothing more serious than covertt threats have been directed toward him. Usually, in making a raid, the wardens work in pairs, which increases the probability of success and makes the venture less hazardous.

During the deer hunting season a few years ago, Mr. Powell and "Bill" Grey of Ashland, a fellow warden, started one cold morning in November from Cable to cover a certerritory southwest. Eighteen miles out, 15 of which had to be covered on foot, they came to a hunting camp in a clump of spruce on the shores of a small lake. Four deer were on the ice in front of the log cabin, none of them containing the required license tag, so far as the officers were able to ascertain.

Powell and his companion told the hunters they had come up to the north woods from Milwaukee to shoot deer and that because of their inexperience they had become lost. After indulging for a time in camp talk the warden told the hunters they should turn over the carcass in order to prevent the venison from becoming soft on the under side. His real purpose was to determine without question that the carcasses were not tagged. No tags were in evidence.

Later in the day Powell and Grey with one of the hunters went to Hayward to get a truck to haul out the venison, returning to camp early the following morning. In blissful ignorance the violators prepared to leave camp, and not until the deer were ready to be loaded on the truck did the wardens make their identity known. The warrants which had been secured at Hayward the day before were produced and the men arrested.

Rugs Cleaned

Let us do the heavy work of house cleaning

BEATING rugs and using the vacuum cleaner are not enough at housecleaning time. Your rugs should be treated to a thorough dry cleaning, to remove the grit and dust that is ground into the fabric.

With our process, your rugs will be washed with Ivory soap flakes and warm water, by means of a rotating electric brush. A thorough rinsing leaves the colors bright and fresh again.

All you need do is roll up your rugs and lay them aside. We'll send our car for them, clean them, and return them to you ready to be laid on your floors again.

ORDERS ADDITIONAL HUNTING LICENSES

An order for 300 hunting licenses was placed Saturday by John E. Hantschel, county clerk, to supplement the first 3,000 ordered for the season. Mr. Hantschel said there had been a rush for licenses Friday and Saturday. A total of 3,700 licenses were sold in the county last year but he didn't expect this year's sales would reach that figure.

QUESTIONS SELECTED FOR COLLEGE DEBATES

Debate questions for the coming year for men and women of Lawrence college have been announced. The question for men will be; Resolved, that the United States should not protect by armed force capital invested in foreign lands except after formal declaration of war.

Girls will debate whether the United States government in time of war should conscript wealth and profits sufficient to pay all current expenses of the war.

A tentative schedule has been arranged by Prof. Franzke, calling for debates with North Central college, Naperville, Ill; Western State Teacher's college, Kalamazoo, Mich; Illinois Wesleyan college; and Olivet college, Michigan.

Wisconsin coaches will meet during the state teachers convention to arrange debates before Wisconsin high schools. Lawrence, Beloit, Carroll, and Ripon will be represented.

FIRST SIX WEEKS OF SCHOOL END OCT. 14

The first six weeks of school work will end Oct. 14 at Appleton high school. Teachers will turn in marks for all subjects at the office, where they will be transferred to the student report cards. These cards will be issued about Oct. 19. They are to be taken home, examined by the parents, signed, and returned to the student's home room teacher.

HOTEL ASSOCIATION WILL "BOOM" STATE

Plan Campaign of Advertising and Publicity to Attract Tourist Trade

Promotion of Wisconsin as an attraction for tourists will be the aim of the thirty-first annual convention of the Wisconsin State Hotel association, to be held at Madison on Oct. 6-8.

Over 500 hotel and resort operators of Wisconsin will aid in launching this new campaign for 1928. Although Wisconsin has held her own during the past season the hotel people realize that neighboring states are competing for the annual tourist trade and are pushing a great number of promotion stunts to attract this type of business. State legislators of some of the states have appropriated funds for advertising.

The Land O'Lakes association previously has directed the attention of prospective tourists to the beauty of Wisconsin. The hotels co-operated to some extent but this year they intend to put some "punch" into the work.

The relationship between good roads and the hotel business will be discussed at the convention. A study of the tourist trade during the past several years shows that road improvement means better tourist trade.

GOLF TOURNAMENT

Mayor Alfred Schmedeman of Madison will deliver the address of welcome after which Lester P. Daniels of the Hotel Witter, Wisconsin Rapids, will give the annual address of the association president.

The entertainment features of the convention will include the annual banquet and dance October 6, a theatre party October 7, and an association golf tournament at Maple Bluffs country club on the morning of October 8.

The speakers at the convention will include Prof. K. L. Hatch of the University of Wisconsin; Carl W. Kellman of Chicago; H. J. Kuelling, State Highway commissioner; A. E. Smith, executive secretary of the Good Roads association of Wisconsin; and C. A. Harper of the state board of health.

All hotels and resort operators of the state have been invited to attend the convention.

TROTSKY TOO MILD A CUTTHROAT

Leon Trotsky's happy days in the great bolshevik experiment are over. Internal jealousies among the powers that be who rule Russia with one iron hand and promote communism with the other, are responsible for the downfall. When Lenin drew Trotsky into partnership they had a close bond by reason of tenement house days. They were looked upon by the outside world as astounding and audacious adventurers. Lenin proved himself to have more brains and more ingenuity and soon outshined his compatriot. However, Trotsky made an efficient army master and for five or six years he held his own in the fierce competition for power and prestige at Moscow.

Toward the end of Lenin's days, he tolerated Trotsky although he had lost confidence in him and had put him under the suspicion of the more advanced communists. Lenin's death marked the beginning of the end for his war master. Ever since then Trotsky has been on the defensive, and has been threatened with removal and even banishment. Trotsky was "too practical" to suit his confreres. He was exceedingly wild and belligerent in speech, but when it came to action he generally chose the easiest way. As an advocate of more moderate though eminently sensible policies, he soon lost caste with the real radicals. Stalin and his triumvirate, who succeeded Lenin, had little use for Trotsky.

However, the real cause of the friction in Russia which had led to the punishment of Trotsky is rivalry for place and power. It is a case of the survival of the fittest, or perhaps of the shrewdest, and certainly the most malign. It takes a man with the courage of a pirate to hold a political job under the soviet system. It is a question of who is a bigger cutthroat than the other, metaphorically speaking. So it is with all government, whether a democracy, a monarchy or an autocracy. It is least harmful and least objectionable in representative government. It is most obnoxious and most destructive under a tyranny, like that which exists in Russia now and which existed there before bolshevism. The personal strife is always present and it is not disguised by an alleged altruism that does not in fact exist. The hope for Russia is not communism, which is autocracy in its most flagrant form, but true popular self-government.

HIGH COST OF FLYING

At the present, with air transportation still in its infancy, passenger air lines in this country depend for their business upon easy spenders, thrill and novelty seekers, and those with whom time is worth more than money. High rates prevent others from deserting the rails and highways for the air.

The rate by air from Los Angeles to New Brunswick, N. J., a distance of 3,400 miles, is $410. The hop from Chicago to New Brunswick costs $200 and another leg of the journey, Los Angeles to Salt Lake City, costs $64. Since both distances are approximately the same, the disparity in rates must be due to different flying conditions and a greater demand in the West for air transportation.

These American rates may be instructively contrasted with costs of air travel in Europe. From Copenhagen to Vienna, for instance, one flies 960 miles for $48; from Berlin to Madrid, 1300 miles, for $96.25; from London to Berlin, 620 miles, for $47.50; from Cottbus to Berlin, 66 miles, for $5. These moderate rates explain why Berlin is connected by air with ninety-three cities and why Europe is dotted with air terminals.

European subsidies for privately-owned air lines partly explain the disparity between the highest American rates and the representative European rates. But even without a subsidy the lines in this country could materially reduce their rates if they had more passengers to carry. Apparently the operators are waiting for the greater demand before cutting rates and the public is waiting until the rates are reduced before traveling by air.

AMERICAN COLLEGES

"They are incomparable," said a French professor the other day on the subject of American universities. He is in this country to make a study of its schools of higher learning and this eulogy came after he had seen enough of them to have basis for a valid opinion. He was impressed with the splendid equipment at the colleges visited, particularly with the well-stocked libraries everywhere in evidence. Such equipment, together with the fact that colleges are able to draw an excellent array of professional talent, gives the American student an advantage that is virtually unlimited. So says this French professor, and no doubt this message is a cheering one to those who are in doubt sometimes as to what American colleges are up to with the vast army of students now enrolled.

On the other hand, some American leaders in education are not so serenely hopeful. There are educational fields which are still somewhat new as far as the college is concerned: at least these fields have not worked to the fullest possibilities, according to these educators. They would admit that schools of higher learning train for industrial leadership and for the professions. They turn out good engineers and competent physicians and lawyers and dentists. But this, if one is to believe our most advanced educators, is not enough. For some years now they have said, just as they are telling the graduate again, that they are not fitting out their students with an adequate social vision.

The ability and desire to understand and pursue the interests of the whole group, whether that of city or nation, should be the distinctive trait of the college man. It might be unreasonable to expect him to put aside altogether his own interests, but a mere insistence on his selfish interests ought to be beneath the intelligence and dignity of every individual, certainly beneath those of the college man, the expense of whose training is in a great measure borne by the community. This is an ideal on which college authorities have a right to insist.

OUR BEST CUSTOMER IMPROVES

Business conditions in Europe are said to be decidedly on the mend, which means improved buying power on the part of our best customer. This should be a message of satisfaction to American business interests. In the last year Europe took 48 per cent of our exports. The European over-seas dominions are also good customers of ours.

Europe is accomplishing this business and commercial come-back first of all by throwing off the calamity complex that has prevailed since the war and by the gradual strengthening of business morale. Now that there is a more hopeful outlook on the future, business is no longer imbued with the idea that disaster is lurking just around the corner.

After every war in modern times there has been an intensive exploitation of the resources of colonies, dominions and other economically new lands as a solution for unemployment and in general to redress the havoc of war in the mother countries. The reaction upon American trade has always been felt in the stimulation of buying power in the new lands. But it also appears that while world markets are being stimulated and broadened, our trans-Atlantic rivals are preparing themselves for more intensive drives for markets where we have hitherto had the preponderance of trade, and we must be prepared to meet the competition.

So while we rejoice in the increasing health and strength of our best customer, we are not unmindful of the fact that this very increase of strength and vigor makes him more formidable in the contest for world commerce. In reality it makes for better conditions all around, for it stimulates producers to put forward their best efforts to improve goods, lower production costs and increase efficiency.

OLD MASTERS

As a fond mother, when the day is o'er,
Leads by the hand her little child to bed,
Half willing, half reluctant to be led,
And leave his broken playthings on the floor,
Still gazing at them through the open door,
Nor wholly reassured and comforted
By promises of others in their stead,
Which, though more splendid, may not please him more;
So nature deals with us, and takes away
Our playthings, one by one, and by the hand
Leads us to rest so gently that we go
Scarce knowing if we wish to go or stay,
Being too full of sleep to understand
How far the unknown transcends the what we know.
—Longfellow: Nature.

THE FATAL WEDDING

A correspondent contributes the synopsis:

"I have been called a hard hearted mother by a young man. Perhaps I shouldn't call him a man, for in my estimation he was a young fool. Three years ago my daughter developed tuberculosis. I thought her work had a good deal to do with it. She entered the —— sanitorium and got along remarkably well, was discharged and knew just how to take care of herself. But this young man here enters the scene. She became engaged to him. Four good physicians advised her not to marry. I sent the young man to two of the physicans. I did all in my power to prevent or postpone the marriage. But the young man told me he loved her too well to give her up, and I told him that if he loved her half as much as I did, he would be willing to wait, for her sake. The doctors said she had every chance of complete recovery, but they feared marriage would prove disastrous. They married. It lasted 13 months, and three weeks ago she was buried. My son in law was advised by the doctors to be examined every three months for two years to come. He probably will not do so, but I have another younger child at home and for his benefit I would like your advice. Should he undergo examinations by the doctor? We had my daughter at home in the last months of her illness and of course her brother spent considerable time with her."

Any one, especially a young person, who has lived with or been a companion of or a fellow workman of a sufferer from tuberculosis, ought to give himself the benefit of medical examinations at regular intervals for a period of two years thereafter.

In this sad case the mother was dealing with an instinct that is second only to the instinct of self preservation. Reason, judgment, wisdom, common sense and discretion can seldom prevail against the blind action of a human being impelled by the instinct of race perpetuation, if that individual's education has not been very good.

Another disease too often contributed to the foundation of the home by unwise marriages is gonorrhea. Not so fatal as syphilis, but the cause of much unhappiness, many mutilating operations on the mothers of one child or none, and a large part of the sterility of men. It is a horrible fact, but a fact that it is unfair to suppress, that many men today marry although they have this disease in a communicable form, not the riffraff merely, but men in every walk of life.

And still there is a perfectly proper and reasonably practicable way that these fatal weddings may be prevented. Indeed it is the duty of every true parent or guardian of a marriageable girl to expect as a matter of course a health certificate from a reputable physician, and to exact this if necessary from any man—no matter who or what he may be—who proposes marriage. It cannot be fairly argued that the prospective bride should be required to furnish such a certificate, because, as wicked as the world is today, we still have chivalry in it. The double standard of morals places the onus squarely on the shoulders of the double dealing sex. So I repeat it is up to the prospective bridegroom to obtain a certificate from a reputable physician that he is free from communicable disease and present this certificate as a matter of course when he seeks consent to marry.

If this reasonable and practicable plan were adopted as a matter of form or custom, unquestionably, undebatedly, many thousands of homes would be saved from ruin.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Rice and Macaroni

Do you consider rice and macaroni a starchy food? (A. A.)

Answer—Rice contains about the same proportion of starch as does corn or shredded wheat. Macaroni is made of wheat flour, with insignificant additions, and it contains the same proportion of starch as bread does.

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

"FICTION ISN'T WHAT IT USED TO BE—IT'S BETTER!"

One of the well known old-timers who was suffering with literary hardening of the arteries let out the oft-repeated and familiar wail, "Fiction isn't today what it used to be!" "No," agreed Grant Overton, writer and critic—"it's better!"

That answer, which was in the nature of a rebuke, may not be strictly true. Grant Overton probably did not mean it to be taken with absolute literalness. Perhaps all he meant to assert was that the fiction of today is as good as that written on any generation, taking it all in all.

It is impossible for anyone to say dogmatically that the fiction that is being written today is better than the fiction of the past, or the reverse. There are too many things to take into consideration. The works of genius in any given generation are remarkably few. But it is almost a certainty that when time shall make up the balance sheet for the present period in which we live it will be found that about as many novels of genius were produced in our day as in the average generations of the past. Grant Overton's epigram is in so far true that the average novel of today is on the whole perhaps more competently written than the average novel of the past.

The trouble with many who talk about the decadence of the novel of today is that they compare the average novel fo the present with the masterpieces of the past. The great novels of the past are the only ones that survived, the only ones at any rate that are readily available. Any-one who wants to make a fair comparison should place the general run of fiction as it comes from the presses today beside the long-forgotten books of a past age. The large majority of the novels of the past are so absolutely hopeless that no one except a student of literary history who reads them from a sense of duty can even succeed in wading through them.

It may be possible to prove that not a single novel of genius was published this year. I do not say this is so but it is conceivable that that such a contention could be made good for any given year. But the same thing can be said for the past. All that is necessary is to go through literary history since the novel first rose into prominence in the days of Fielding and Defoe until the present time. There has been many a year in that long period of time, extending over more than two centuries, that not a single novel was produced good enough to stand the test of time. The only fair method of comparison is between different generations, not single years. When that is done the present need have no fear. When a comparison is made between the first quarter of the twentieth century and the first quarter of the eighteenth or nineteenth, the present age need not be ashamed of its fiction.

Times change and types of fiction change with them. Fiction in its truest and best sense is an interpretation of the age in which it is produced. It is very natural that people who in an intellectual and spiritual sense have always lived in the Victorian age do not like the fiction of our own time. The fiction of today is different but not necessarily inferior.

It is foolish to expect the novelists of today to interpret their own age in the manner in which the Victorians interpreted theirs. The Victorians wrote some wonderful books but they did not speak the last word in fiction There are a repectable number of books of today that challenge comparison with the best of Dickens and Thackeray and the other of that period.

"That may be true," admits the champion of the past, "but you can't deny that the large bulk of fiction being written today is light and of little value." Nobody wants to deny that. But the further fact must go with it that that has been true of any age. The bulk of fiction written in any generation has been light and of little value.

DAILY HINTS FOR HEALTH

DISTURBANCES IN BLOOD CIRCULATION WARNING

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

There are numerous disturbances of the circulation of the blood in the extremities of the body that give rise to strange symptoms of seriousness and importance.

There are several conditions marked by an excessive fatigue of the muscles of the leg, severe pain in the calves of the legs or in the knees, sudden coldness of parts of the feet, sometimes inflammation and swelling.

Sometimes the changes in the blood vessels that bring about the symptoms are so severe that gangrene takes place and it may be necessary to remove parts or all of the limb concerned.

VEIN INFLAMMATION

In one condition known as thromboangitis obliterans there are recurrent inflammations of the veins. More than half of the cases of this type occur in Jewish people and in most instances there are records of previous cases in the same family. In these cases there is not hardening of the arteries, although similar symptoms may follow hardening of the arteries in some cases.

The patients concerned are usually from 35 to 55 years of age, when the disease results from hardening of the arteries, whereas the patients with Buerger's disease are usually from 17 to 50 years of age.

There is another condition of the blood vessels called Raynaud's disease which occurs symmetrically in the hands or feet, more often in women, and changes associated with sudden contractions of the blood vessels so that the tissues are not properly supplied with blood.

Recently prominent doctors have examined numerous cases coming in the category of diseases described, with a view to classifying them in some way that would lead to suitable treatment. As will be obvious from the description of the condition, it is difficult frequently even for the best trained physician to recognize the actual cause of the symptoms concerned.

CONTROL IS POSSIBILITY

In some cases it is possible to control the movements of the blood vessels in case they are not themselves diseased, by operations on the nerve control which causes them to contract unduly.

In other cases in which the contracture of the vessel through nerve control is not the most prominent cause, such an operation would be unnecessary and indeed harmful.

In cases in which there is a general hardening of the blood vessels throughout the body, the nerve control does not, of course, play any considerable part.

The complexity of the situation indicates again how modern scientific medicine attempts to attack disease at its very foundation rather than to control occasional symptoms as they may appear

The Question Box

Information on almost any subject can be secured by sending questions to the Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Fredric J. Haskin, director, Washington, D. C. The bureau does not answer questions pertaining to medicine nor does it express opinions on the merits of stocks and bonds. Send a 2-cent stamp or a stamped and self-adressed envelope with your question.

Q. What is meant by I. C. C. 14 on dynamite? J. W. C.

A. The Interstate Commerce Commission says that they regulate the transportation of all types of explosives. Therefore I. C. C. 14 on dynamite boxes is merely the stamp of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Q. What were "blue coat boys?" B. J. T.

A. "Christs Hospital," a famous English public school was also known as blue boys, on account of the long as the Bluecoat School and its pupils blue woolen gowns they wore. Lamb, Leigh Hunt, and Coleridge were among the well known men educated there.

Q. Who owned the property at the beginning of the Civil War that was General Lee's headquarters at Gettysburg? Who owns it at the present time? C. S.

A. The custodian of the Gettysburg Cemetery says this was the property of Thaddeus Stevens, the father of public schools from 1844 until 1888 and sold to Philip Hennig. In 1921 it was sold to C. F. Daley, who to-day has a free museum of war relics used at Gettysburg, also articles used by General Robert E. Lee while he occupied same. This house was built in 1779.

Q. Does the flavor of grapefruit deteriorate when the fruit is kept in cold storage? S. L. T.

A. The Department of Agriculture says that grapefruit will develop a superior eating quality after a period of one to three months in cold storage if suitably cured before storing. One reason for this is that, while the sugar content remains about the same, the acid content decreases markedly during storage, and apparently the bitter principle is broken down, which also enchances the sweetness of the fruit. The fruit stores better when picked about midseason.

Q. Who trained Frank Gotch? C. C.

A. The famous heavyweight wrestler was trained by Tom Jenkins.

A NEW YORKER IN PARIS

By Gilbert Swan

Aboard the S. S. Paris— Off the Cornwall Coast—Final notes from the log-book of a city—Sinbad:

Dawn of the last day at sea.... And across the port-hole, through the haze of a sun filtered fog, bobs the boat of a Cornish fisherman, like some painting that suddenly came to life. Its sails are red as a flapper's lipstick and behind it come an armada of red sails, orange sails, crimson sails while, strung against the sky are the long bleak arms of the Cornish coast and, held safely between hills and barricaded cliffs, the little port of Plymouth.

Somewhere, just over the hills like Dorset, and the country of Thomas Hardy's "Tess of D'Ubervilles."... .. Just over another tumble of scrub oak and heather is the land of "Westward Ho" and "Laura Doone."

Rubbing sleepy eyes you know it at once...... Or feel you do..... This would have to be the British coast Just as the Golden Gate has to be the Golden Gate and New York harbor could not possibly be found anywhere else.

* * *

Upstairs the fat gentleman with the puffy eyes, who wanted to "get away from Broadway for awhile for a rest," is discovering that he bought 22 quarts of champagne on that last-night out party.. ...The "dancing grandma" who has shared my table has gone to the beauty parlor for a final hair wave and "beauty" treatment...... The seward, his tip but a few hours off, begins to kill me with kindness...... In fact never have the stewards and deck men and waiters been quite so affable. ..

* * *

Everywhere the bar bills begin to arrive.... Followed by worried looks and a quick counting of francs.... The fat lady who forgot to make reservations from Harve to Paris learns that all the compartments have been taken ..... The ship's cat finally discovers the pomeranean two staterooms away...... Why can't the dwellers on Park avenue leave their purps with the nursemaid? ......

* * *

The cloak-and-suiter in plus-fours suddenly discovers that his binoculars won't work... .. The fellow with the portable radio set is telling a bored group that he got London last night ...... The minor jealousies between the fluffy-haired blond French model who Charlestoned her way to fame at the ship's concert and the pretty-black-haired French girl seem to be ironed out as one promenades with a buyer from Chicago and the other strolls with a handsome ship's officer.....

Plymouth and a scurry of departure ......Mail bags, trunks, small boats, shouting of stevedores ... "Goodby, see you in Paris!".... And the little British fishing town spread out in the lap of lean, underslung land spits. ......

Then off for Havre! ...... A little group in the rear whispers arrangements for a gay party in the Montmartre...... "Remember...... Tuesday night."... . I'll bet a dollar to five francs that not one of them keeps the date. ......

* * *

Those little table conferences, at which passengers decide how much to tip the table steward..... "He hasn't earned it. ...... I never got worse service." ..... The steward flutters nervously about. .. . He should worry...... Most ships pool all tips and share the result in socialistic fashion.

Flurry of anticipation as the dinner hour approaches ... Only a couple of hours more.... . Lights dance from the shore and from the sea . Below deck there is the clatter of trucks and above deck the clatter of feet.......

Eyes try to penetrate the darkness. Who's come to the dock? ...... Did Yvette get that cablegram? ... Will wifey appear, or is Paris so merry she will fail to show up. ...... "Land ho! ... All ashore."..... The slender lady from Park Avenue has forgotten the pomeranean and rescues it in the nick of time from the ship's cat.......

Crunch-crunch of a ship scratching her sidses against a pier....

And just beyond the trains with the odd-looking compartment.......

Oui messoo, theez is the Paris train."

And how!

GILBERT SWAN.

The PENNY PRINCESS

COPYRIGHT 1927 by NEA Service

by Anne Austin

BEGIN HERE TODAY

VERA CAMERON, private secretary, allows herself to be transformed into a beauty by JERRY MACKLYN, advertising manager of the Peach Bloom Costmetics Co., who proposes to use her photographs in advertising booklets. Jerry falls in love with Vera after the transformation and his love persists even after he learns Vera, also called Vee-Vee, consents to the transformation only because the man she falls in love with, SCHUYLER SMYTHE, ignores her.

Vera spends her vacation at Lake Minnetonka because Smythe is vacationing there. He and other guests mistake her for VIVIAN CRANDALL, ex-princess, who after a Paris divorce is in hiding. Vera tries to convince everyone of her true identity, but when she realizes Smythe is in love with the girl he thinks she is, she abandons attempts at further confession. Hotel guests returning to the city notify the Crandalls of their supposed daughter's whereabouts. Detectives arrive and Vera and Smythe steal a car and flee. Smythe, who still thinks she is Princess Vivian, tells her of his love and proposes they be married immediately. Believing he loves her for herself alone, Vera tells him the truth, substantiating her identity by Jerry's letter. Smythe is furious, revealing himself definitely as a fortune-hunter.

After his violent outburst he is terrified at the thought that perhaps this is the princess after all and she is trying to outsmart him. He attempts to retrieve but Vera has glimpsed his real character. Two masked men stop them and Vera is whisked away by them in an airplane. She is taken to a shack in the mountains where PRINCE IVAN, Vivian's ex-husband awaits them.

Vera and the prince are terrified when the men announce they will hold them for a sizable ransom from the Crandalls. When the prince learns Vera's true identity, he is violently angry but she convinces him they must play the part, otherwise these men will murder them, finding she is not the Crandall heiress but instead a poor girl with no one to pay her ransom. Jerry Macklyn, meantime, in New York City reads an account of what has happened and hurries immediately to FLORA CARTWRIGHT, Vera's frivolous aunt.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXV

A young colored girl answered Jerry's insistent ringing at the bell of Flora Cartwright's apartment.

"No, sir!" she answered indignantly when Jerry demanded that she tell Mrs. Cartwright of his presence. "She ain't up yet, and she won't be for another hour yet. Ain't no use trying to git her up," she argued. "She'd snatch me bald-headed if I woke her up this time of the morning."

"Then I'll do it," Jerry thundered, pushing past the open-mouthed girl to the door beyond which as he knew, lay Flora's bedroom. "You come along as chaperone until I get her waked up, if you want to," he grinned at the maid. "Matter of life and death," he elucidated.

"I ain't going in there." The girl shook her head violently.

"What a sweet-tempered angel Flora must be in the morning," Jerry chuckled to himself as he flung open the door. "Wake up, Flora!"

If he had not known that the woman in the pretty little painted bed could be none other than Flora Cartwright, he would not have recognized her. The head that jerked up from the pillow was encased in a tightly-fitted, course net cap, to protect the marcel wave in her tinted golden bob from being mussed against the pillows. A broad chin strap encircled her face like a nun's coif, fighting during the hours of sleep to keep a double chin at bay.

"Jerry Macklyn!" Flora shrieked reaching for the sheet with which to cover her face. She would rather have died than to have Jerry Macklyn or any other man catch her in that plight. "Get out of my room instantly!"

"But I tell you, Flora, Vee-Vee has been kidnaped." Jerry retorted, anger beginning to rise in his good-natured breast. "I don't give a damn how you look now—"

"Get out and let me fix up my face," Flora pleaded. "I don't care if the world is coming to an end, I won't talk to you looking like this! Oh!"

Jerry strode to her dressing table, gathered up a handful of jars and bottles and boxes, flung them upon Flora's bed, then stamped into the bathroom to get her a towel.

"Here! Swab off that cold cream and daub on some powder, if you just have to act like a fool," he ordered, drawing up a chair to the bedside. 'I haven't time to waste while you put on the war paint. Now listen!"

As Flora, her faced turned as far from him as possible, wiped the cold cream from her face, applied vanishing cream, added a thick coating of powder, and then busied herself with rouge compact and lipstick, Jerry told her, in as few words as possible, the story of Vee-Vee's plight.

"So that's who Vee-Vee reminded me of," Flora commented. "Funny I never thought of it before, with that Crandall girl's pictures in all the papers. What a glorious time she must have been having, with everyone treating her like a princess and a 40 million dollar heiress. Some people have all the luck," she mourned.

"What a heartless little wretch you are!" Jerry exploded "Here's your niece kidnaped by two masked men and taken God knows where to be held for ransom, and you have the nerve to envy the girl"

"Dear Jerry!" Flora murmured, turning her freshly made-up face to him with a teasing smile on her rouged lips. "Now, child, what are we going to do? I wonder if the reporters will want to interview me?" she mused, the faraway look of a woman who is mentally reviewing her wardrobe coming into her eyes.

"Good Lord, Flora! Think of someone else for a minute, can't you? My first idea was to notify the Crandalls that it isn't their daughter at all that has been kidnaped, but then it occurred to me that when the papers got hold of the news and the kidnapers read it, we may be sure they would, Vee-Vee would be at the mercy of a pair of brutes that would think nothing of killing her out of revenge for having tricked them into committing a useless crime. Is that clear?"

"Yes, even by infantile mind can grasp that obvious truth," Flora smiled at him. Then her eyes became clouded with genuine bewilderment. "I don't see what we can do, Jerry dear. After all, she got herself into this ridiculous scrape—"

"No, she didn't," Jerry contradicted her vehemently. "I did. I told you she had no idea—and neither did I—that I was remodeling her to look like Vivian Crandall's portrait. If Stafford hadn't already quit, I'd have him fired for keeping a picture in his desk without a caption on it. But there's no use crying over what's been done. We've got to think of a way out for the poor kid."

"You say her name—Vee-Vee's real name—is in the papers?" Flora mused. "Then the people she worked with at Peach Bloom will know, won't they? What's to keep them from running to the newspapers or the police with the facts, or as much of the truth as they can figure out for themselves?"

"Smart girl!" Jerry conceded grudgingly. 'I'd already thought of that. It certainly looks like the cat's out of the bag, whether we want it to be or not. A feeble plan occurs to me, however. Have you anything to suggest?"

"No." Flora shook her marcelled head. 'If there is any way in the world to keep the Crandalls believing that Vee-Vee is their daughter, they will of course move heaven and earth to find her, pay any sum to ransom her when the kidnapers make their demands."

"But it's plain, rank dishonesty to let them pay ransom for a girl we know is not their daughter. We'd be guilty of some sort of crime ourselves, I suppose in keeping silent. But—it's her life against their money, and I'll be damned if I can worry a lot about their money when Vee-Vee's life is at stake. Of course there is another angle. I want to protect Vee-Vee from scandal if I can, keep the true story out of the papers—"

"You're in love with Vee-Vee, Jerry?" Flora asked softly, regretfully.

"You bet I am!" Jerry almost shouted at her. "I don't care what she's done or what scandal breaks over her head. I love her and I'll stick by her. One thing I can do, if the worst comes to worse—I can give out interviews to all the papers, telling them how the whole thing happened and taking the blame on myself. It is my fault," he admitted gloomily. "Have I your permission, as her nearest kin, to do anything I think is best?"

"Of course, Jerry dear," Flora said softly, laying Jerry's hand against her cheek. "Don't forget, though," she added practically "that if this thing comes out you'll lose your job with Peach Bloom, and be a marked man in New York—a laughing stock, probably."

"I'm not thinking of myself," Jerry told her fiercely. "If you think Vee-Vee has a better chance to get away from the kidnapers if they know who she really is, I'll taxi right down to police headquarters and tell the whole story. All I'm thinking of is Vee-Vee."

"Let's see," Flora mused, pressing her fingers into her temples. "It is so hard to think before one has had one's coffee. If the kidnapers read the story in the papers, what would their reaction be? They'd be as sore as boiled owls, wouldn't they? All their hard work for nothing? And as guilty of kidnaping as if they'd really made away with an heiress. Same crime, same punishment if caught. Vee-Vee could furnish police with their descriptions. So could Vivian Crandall, if they'd been lucky enough to have captured the real heiress.

"But before they turned Vivian loose they would have lots of money to make a getaway, also Vivian's promise not to peach on them. I believe that's the word. But with Vee-Vee it would be a different story. No ransom money, you see, to help them get away. Two men, with a girl in their power hidden safely away where no one could interfere. A beautiful girl," she emphasized, her blue eyes very keen as she worked out her argument. "They would'nt dare harm the real Vivian Crandall, but what do you suppose they would do to a penniless imposter whom they had every reason to hate? Murder would only be the last act of the tragedy, Jerry."

"Oh, Lord!" Jerry groaned, sweat beading his forehead, "I'm going to do the one thing that's left for me to do, Flora. And I won't tell you what it is for fear it won't work. Did you ever try praying, Flora? Well, now's a good time to begin!"

On his way to the offices of the Peach Bloom Cosmetics company Jerry Macklyn bought and scanned hastily the early editions of the afternoon papers, all of which were devoting their front pages to the sensational story of the Crandall kidnaping. He learned that Prince Ivan Polaski was also missing from his hotel; that police had discovered traces of an airplane's landing and taking off in a lonely field near the road where the sedan used by the abductors had been abandoned; that late joyriders had heard the faint roar of an airplane motor far overhead at about the time the supposed Vivian Crandall was being spirited away.

There was not a word in the papers to indicate that an effort would be made to discover why Vivian Crandall had chosen to register at the Minnetonka as Vera Victoria Cameron. The name was accepted as an alias, chosen by the heiress because the initials corresponded with her own.

Jerry drew a deep sigh of relief, but he knew that he and Vee-Vee were in the crater of a volcano that might erupt any minute. He arrived at the office at 10 minutes of nine. Apparently no employe had been trying to win promotion by punching the clock ahead of the official opening time, for he saw no one, not even an office boy. He was charging up and down his office when Rosemary Fitch tore open the door and flung herself upon her employer, her pretty little hands clutching his sleeves:

"Oh, Jerry! I mean M . Macklyn! Who do you think I saw this morning? Vee-Vee! And have you seen the papers? That Vivian Crandall has been using her name! Oh, I'm just about to die, I'm so excited!"

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Palmer Chiropractor

QUESTION: I have been reading your questions and answers and I think that Chiropractic is a wonderful science. It has a wonderful philosophy as I see it. My family is not at all well and we are doctoring most of the time. I have about decided to change to Chiropractic, which I think is a newer and better method. Please explain more about Chiropractic.—R. J.

ANSWER: Thinking people everywhere whose health has failed them, are ever on the alert to investigate and readily accept the reasonable argument that a good explanation of Chiropractic substantiates. Chiropractic the modern drugless science made its advent into the world some 30 years ago. Since then it has proven its excellence many times over in acute and chronic cases. It is daily resorted to in serious illness where all other means that were tried had failed.

It is looked upon by many as being the only means of help and hope of recovery. When Chiropractic Adjustments relieve pressure to spine pinched nerves devitalized organs and tissues are restored to a healthy condition, and the body becomes freshly charged with additional vitality. Every case of low vitality, regardless of the name of the disease, or what may develop, needs Chiropractic Adjustments to increase the vital processes of the body in order to restore it to health.

READERS of the Post-Crescent are well acquainted with Flapper Fanny, the pretty little wise-cracker who typifies the spirit of the modern girl. And they are always on the lookout for the large Ethel drawings which appear three times a week as an artistic cross-section of youthful life.

But only a few of the Post-Crescent's readers know Ethel Hays, the girl who makes these entertaining sketches. She is shown above at work on a drawing that will be sent out by NEA Service, world's largest newspaper feature organization, to the Post-Crescent and hundreds of other client newspapers all over the country.

It is said of Ethel Hays that she has done more than Flo Ziegfeld toward glorifying the American girl. Her pert little flappers, with their fun and philosophy, have made her known to millions of newspaper readers.

It is announced by NEA Service, which supplies features exclusively to Post-Crescent, that Ethel Hays has signed a new long-term contract. This is assurance that her work will continue to appear only in this paper.

Ethel has had an unusual career as an artist. In the early months of the war, she dropped her studies in the New York Art League and became a "reconstruction aide" for Uncle Sam. For almost six years she worked in various government base hospitals, entertaining wounded soldiers by teaching them how to draw.

It was during this period that she developed the style which made her famous She was discovered by a newspaper in Cleveland, O., and persuaded to work for it. A few months more found her with NEA Service, drawing the Flapper Fannies and Ethels that have appeared now for three years.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—Wheat cereal cooked with dates, cream, creamed spinach on toast, apple sauce, cinnamon toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Tomatoes filled with eggs, shredded carrot, pepper and cabbage salad, layer cake, milk, tea.

DINNER—Roast beef, potatoes baked with meat, brown gravy, creamed new turnips, pear and peanut butter salad, pumpkin pie with meringue, milk, coffee.

PUMPKIN PIE WITH MERINGUE

One cup stewed and sifted pumpkin, ¾ cup granulated sugar, 3 eggs, 2 cups milk, ½ teaspoon ginger, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar, baked pie shell.

Beat yolks of three eggs and whites of two with granulated sugar until light. Add pumpkin, milk, butter, salt, and spices and mix thoroughly. Cook over a low fire, stirring constantly until thick and smooth. Turn into baked and cooled pie shell with white of remaining egg beaten until stiff and dry with powdered sugar. Bake eight minutes in a moderate oven to set and color meringue.

This is of course not the traditional Yankee pumpkin pie but it's very good and rather easier for the inexperienced cook.

Distinction Should Be Motto Of Titian-Haired Miss In Between Girl Should Shun Grays; Bronze Sets Her Off

BY HENRI BENDEL

NEW YORK—Today we take up the subject of gowning the Titian blonde. For, in any series on the costuming of different types, this beauty logically follows the exotic brunet of whom I wrote in my last article.

For the Titian type of woman comes, naturally, between the brunet and the blonde. She may rival the brunet in vividness and at the same time take the delicate skin and eye hue of the blonde.

But, of all types of beauty that have a chance to be "different," the Titian-haired girl is beloved by the gods. Here is the possibility, not only of being pretty, even stunning—she has more of a chance than other types of being absolutely distinctive.

MORE OR LESS IMMORTAL

For while gentlemen may prefer blondes and marry brunets, the Titian-haired women are the ones they remember and artists paint.

Laying down rules for gowning the Titian haired woman is a bit like defining genius or any other thing that differs with each individual who possesses it. But certain basic observances will have place in the philosophy of clothes of any delicately colored Titian blonde.

First of all, Titian haired girl must subordinate her clothes to herself. Distinction should be her motto.

One thing the Titian girl should aim at is slenderness. If she can maintain a supple litheness, her chances of being distinctive are doubled. For she should stick to simple lines not sophisticated ones.

COLOR MOST IMPORTANT

Color is more important, perhaps, to the Titian girl than any other. Her best tones are browns, blues, greens white and tans. Certain colors kill her. She can never wear grays. She should shun silver like the plague. Gold kills her but bronzes, sometimes set her off. The best rule is to match the tone of her eyes in colors.

For the girl who has brown eyes, as does Miss Rita Wing, the Titian-haired New York model illustrating my talk today, I choose browns in rich tone for daytime wear, or tans with warmth in them, no hint of drabness.

The daytime frock shown today is of sandalwood brown imported wool, with self-trimming. It has intricate pointed yoke effect both back and front and the collar can be worn tied in a bow in the back with ends hanging, or can be left open, as in the picture.

Four folds of the cloth, with inverted hand notches, give the unusual waistline shown and the same trimming adds a puff cuff to the long sleeve. Pleated panels on both sides add fullness. The hat I designed of tan felt, stitched in dark but lively brown banded in the same tone.

With this costume, the coat should be a richer brown, or the same tone. The Titian haired girl looks magnificent in the right furs—mink, sable badger, summer ermine and other luxurious tan and brown furs. But her fur coat or her fur collared cloth coat should be conservatively, not startlingly, rich. It must, as all her clothes should, be second to her own lustrous beauty.

TANS, BROWNS, FOR DAYTIME

Tans and browns for the daytime, but the evening costume for the Titian blonde often tells the whole story. Get the right shade of blue or green and everyone in a ball room will turn to look after a Titian girl. Sometime a white gown, if it be rich but simple, say diamante, in intricate but quiet design, or strass will set her beauty of luminously. Black the Titian girl should ignore for evening.

I show today two of the most successful evening gowns I have seen for the Titian blonde. The first is a Lanvin brocaded cloth, in gleaming green that shimmers like bright light on water. The skirt is shirred on in three semi-circles about the hip, dipping as it shirs and giving the uneven hemline that is chic itself this season. The front, where the six rows of fine shirring meet, is a graceful line while it also slenderizes.

A BOW'S DROOPING GRACE

On the side is a huge bow of self material that adds its drooping grace to the general fluid beauty of the gown. The bodice is simplicity itself. The material color and line make this gown and the greatest of these is the color.

The other evening gown is blue, soft, yet a decided blue chiffon which Lelong fashioned sveltly to the figure with no suggestion of tightness but gently suggesting the form. It has intricate trimming, a bow knot of self color in satin, outlined in brilliants.

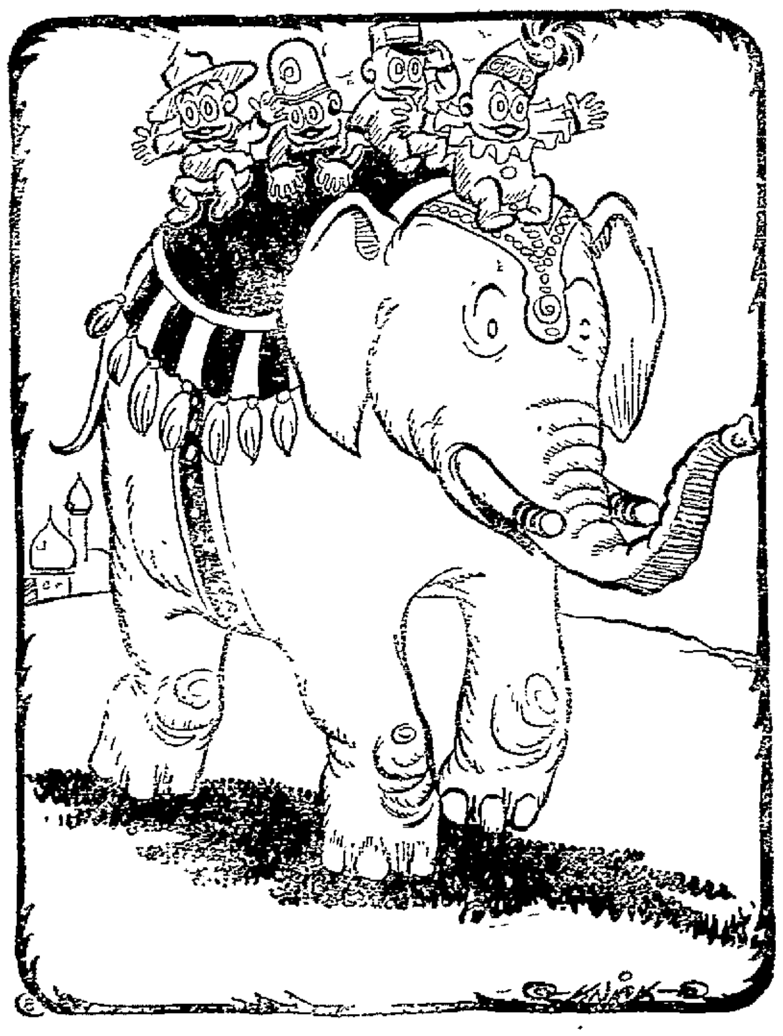
THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran



READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

THE little Arab girl was kind. She really didn't seem to mind a trudging o'er the burning sand with all the crowd in tow. She led the camel right along. The Tinymites burst into song, "Oh, we're a happy little bunch, wherever we may go."

An oasis soon came in sight, and Clowny yelled in keen delight, "That we would have such wondrous luck I'd never really think." The camel stopped. The four [illegible] and scampered out upon the ground. It wasn't very long [illegible] they all had had a drink.

Then Coppy cried, "Well goodness me. What is that thing ahead I see? It looks exactly like a kite. We're where we started from." And sure enough, that's where they were. It's funny how [illegible]. The Times were so [illegible] that all their voices were [illegible].

To thank the girl [illegible] Tinies tried for giving them the camel ride. The wee lass merely smiled at them, and then went on her way. Then Carpy said, "We're safe and sound, and since our dandy kite is found, I think we'd better hop aboard and leave this place today."

As soon as they were all aboard the kite up in the fresh air soared. It sailed until they landed in old India, far away. Then, as it floated to the ground, the Times looked all around, and Coppy said, "This looks like it's a dandy place to play."

"Look out!" cried Clowny, filled with fear. "An elephant is drawing near." "Oh, he's a tame one!" Scouty snapped. "He won't hurt us a bit. Let's climb upon him, just for fun." And 'twas no sooner said than done. The Times found his spacious back a dandy place to sit.

(The Tinymites get a real scare in the next story.)

COLOR GIVES ROOM LIFELIKE APPEARANCE

BY VALERIE VANCE

COLOR is the flesh and the life of furnishings.

A blue bowl on a table may give quick interest. Merely a scarlet quill makes piquant a desk. Just the touch of climbing ivy on the sun-room wall, a Boston fern in a window, a low bowl or a basket of orange marigolds, wisteria colored zinnias, purple cosmos, blue bagchelor buttons and variegated nasturtiums transform a room.

COLOR ACCENTS

Lamp shades, pillows, brass, bronze, pewter, and copper ornaments, hand-dipped candles, cretonnes, printed linen and other textiles in over-curtains and upholsteries, wall hangings of figured silk and tapestry, colored glass and pictures deftly used may become the strong accents of one's room, may attract the interest where one wills, may lighten dark corners, may restore balance, or make sharp or harmonious contrast.

Some years ago people stated they wanted a rose or a yellow room, etc., their favorite color. Now people have enlarged their knowledge of color and realize that, aside from the fact that their room problem demands certain colors, on account of exposure and other colors existing, many colors may be made to harmonize often more interestingly and less monotonously than a few colors in the same key and they have learned that color contrast is good. They are no longer afraid of color, do not spurn is as "gaudy," and are educating themselves away from the American liking for all dull, drab browns, the absence of color.

STUDY THEM!

Other nations such as the Italians, the Chinese, the Persians, Japanese and peasants can teach us very much about color. It is well to study their [illegible] as shown in the museum, in rugs, ornaments, fabrics and costumes.

Sunday Island, in the Pacific, is said to be the tallest mountain in the world. It rises 2,000 feet out of five miles of water, making its height nearly 30,000 feet.

THINKING IS AUDREY'S FAVORITE AMUSEMENT--ODD NOTE IN FILMLAND

BY DAN THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—The WarnerBrothers now have two ner Brothers now have two drey Ferris. This story regards Audrey.

Although she has tried to act grown up since her entrance into the film colony a few months ago, Audrey still is just a beautiful child. Jack Warner predicts a great future for the girl and she seems to be fulfilling his prophecy.

When writing about Audrey, it is a great temptation to treat her much like Baby Peggy would be handled. True, she is a grown girl but her innocent mannerisms fairly shout of an extremely short career before the grinding cameras. Why, Jackie Coogan acts much older than this auburn haired actress.

ENTERS VIA STAGE DOOR

Miss Ferris crashed into poctures through the same gate that was used by dozens of girls before her—the stage. She had been dancing for only a few weeks in a Los Angeles theater when she was discovered by Jack White, comedy producer. White signed her for feminine leads in several of his films.

Then came the chance with Warner Brothers as Georgie Jessel's leading lady in "Sailor Izzy Murphy." She did things up so beautifuly in that production that she landed a contract which eventually will land her as one of Warners' stars.

Audrey has two distinctions unusual in this hamlet. She still uses her own name and she thinks.

JUST IMAGINE! THINKING!

"What is your favorite amusement?" I asked her during lunch the other day.

"Thinking" was the girl's startling reply. "I like to just sit and think—oh, about everything, my present work at the studio, what the future holds for me, current events and what my friends are doing.

"My principle interest now is my career. And besides, I don't like boys my own age. They seem to be so empty headed and useless in this world. The boys I knew at school never did anything but play around. Every time I see them I wonder if they ever expect to do anything or if they are going to let their parents support them all their lives. I like to be with people who know something and from whom you can learn things."

"That girl is the best bet we have had on this lot since we signed Dolores Costello," Jack Warner west coast production chief, told me. "We put her in leads right at the start and although she was good, she has improved 90 per cent in the last three months. You'll hear a lot about her later."

AUDREY FERRIS

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

What had her father meant? Was he hinting that Bob was flirting with some other woman? But there was certainly no opportunity! All the time he was not in his office he was at home or out with her, his wife. But — Jim Lane wasn't the man to make trouble. He had meant his hint for her own good—Faith's disturbed mind worried itself ceaselessly with speculations and questions, even during dinner, which was a gala occasion in celebration of Joy's return from a girl's summer camp in the mountains.

"And what do you know, Faith, I gained ten whole pounds!" Joy was shrilling excitedly at her, between enormous mouthfuls of food. "And I got more new freckles than any other girl in camp! And I can swim like a fish! Chief says he never did see a kid learn to swim as fast as I did! And I hiked twenty miles in one day, and I—"

"Fine, darling! You look wonderful! I'm so glad you had such a happy summer. Don't gobble your food so, sweetheart. This isn't camp, you know." Faith blended interest and big-sisterly admonition automatically but her mind was still gnawing at that thing that her father had said, "— If you don't want him to look for it elsewhere" Oh, what had he meant? Was it possible that he, too, sensed that electric undercurrent between Cherry and Bob? But lately they had behaved almost as if they hated each other. Bob rarely spoke now in Cherry's presence scarcely looked at her—but, oh, didn't that mean that they were afraid of themselves, or did it mean that there was a great deal more between them which they were trying to hide from her? After all, they worked together at the office—all day long—

Cherry who had looked unusually pale, her golden eyes self-communing, secret a little sad, shook off the spell which held her and chattered impulsively to Joy:

"Now that you've gotten to be such a big girl, and outgrown all your clothes, I'll have to take you shopping, Joy Lane, and see if we can find a color that won't fight with these tremendous freckles of yours. Come and have lunch down-town with me tomorrow, honey, and we'll buy out a store."

And Faith can make my new dresses! Nobody can't make dresses as pretty as Faith! Oh, gee, I'll be glad to wear something besides bloomers and middies. But gee, you oughta seen me play baseball!"

"Will this athletic celebrity honor me by going to the movies with me after dinner?" was Bob's contribution to the cheering-up of Joy.

"Gee! Where's the dictionary?" Joy giggled, but she was immensely pleased and flattered. "Just you and me, Bob? All by ourselves?" and she fluttered her pale blond eyelashes at him with a comical imitation of Cherry's charming conquetry.

"Well, the truth is, Joy, I've got an old lady that's apt to be jealous if I beau a beautiful young flapper around. Suppose we ask her too? Just to keep peace in the family, you know," and he winked broadly at the enchanted child.

"Oh, I guess we'd better take her," Joy giggled. "But Cherry's got to stay home and take care of her baby, ain't she? I bet she's been putting it off on Faith all summer! Oh, gee, Cherry, I'm sorry!" she cried contritely, as a tide of anger swept over Cherry's lovely face. "You'll still buy me the dresss, won't you? I didn't mean to be nasty, honest!" Then, after Cherry had rushed from the room, Joy turned puzzled eyes from one member of the family to the other: Gee! Everybody seems so funny!"

NEXT: Faith tries to face facts about her marriage.

SICK WOMAN SOON RECOVERS

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"A neighbor advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which she said helped her so much. So I bought a few bottles and tried it out. It sure helped me wonderfully. I felt much better. My work is no longer a dread to me. If I hear of any one who is troubled the way I was, I will gladly recommend the Vegetable Compound to them and I will answer any letters in regard to the same."—Mrs. Bertha Meachan, 1134 N. Penn. Ave., Lansing, Mich.

"I had been sickly every since I was fifteen years old. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I got so I could do all my housework and I am in good health."—Mrs. Marie K. Williams, Ketchikan, Alaska.

From Michigan to Alaska, from Maine to Oregon and from Connecticut to California letters are continually being written by grateful women recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The Compound is made from roots and herbs and has been in use for over fifty years.

"why the new Haag Vortex is the one washer that fits all my washing requirements.

"In the first place, it washes everything clean. And I don't have to soak, rub or boil the clothes. That's an important item.

"Then, too, there's a question of clothes protection. The Haag Vortex is positively safe for even the filmiest garments. The patented construction at the base of the Haag agitator makes it impossible for clothing to become cut or torn.

"Another thing—the Haag Vortex has the one ideal tub—double-walled—stain-proof inside—dent-proof outside. I've never seen this ideal combination in any other washer."

Won't you let the nearest Haag dealer give you a free demonstration in your home? Just phone, and name the day.

KAWMEN AND OCONTO FAIL TO SCORE IN FIERCE GRID GAME

Last Minute Spurt by Kaukauna Carries Ball to 10-yard Line When Game Ends

Kaukauna— Kaukauna and Oconto highs fought a scoreless tie in the first Northeastern Wisconsin Athletic conference game for the Orange and Black played at the northern city Saturday afternoon. The ball seesawed back and forth over the field with honors about even until the final quarter when the McAndrewmen spurted and clearly outplayed their opponents with a series of brilliant dashes which carried the ball from the Kaukauna 40 yard line down to Oconto's ten. The game ended with the ball in the Kaws possession on this line.

Oconto was supposed to have been an easy foe for the locals but the northern eleven put a great fight and made Kaukauna scrap for every inch it gained. Early passes by the Lumberjacks bewildered the Kaws temporarily but they were soon awake and the Oconto passing game did not work any longer. Oconto used the Notre Dame shift and reverse plays with great effect against the locals. Most of the successful Oconto passes were thrown by O'Connors and received by Sucharda. Kumbala, the star left end for the Purple and White, was well covered and did not get an opportunity to catch a pass. Captain Zimmerman covered himself with glory throughout the game, getting into practically every play. Sucharda and O'Connors were two more outstanding stars for Oconto.

Had Kaukauna backs been able to travel faster the result of the game would probably have been different as the line played well and opened up hole after hole in the Oconto forward wall but the backs traveled too slow to get to the line of scrimmage in time to take advantage of the holes. The backs also showed their inexperience by picking the wrong holes time after time. Not until Esler, one of the famed "Galloping Ghosts" of last year, was inserted into the game in the final quarter did Kaukauna show any great offensive strength. Two beautiful passes were executed by the Kawmen in this quarter. The first from Hishon to Esler was good for twenty yards and the second thrown by Esler to Ferguson put Kaukauna fifteen yards closer to the goal line. A series of plunges carried the ball to the ten yard line where the game ended. Only on one occasion did an Oconto pass net more than ten yards. Kaukauna's two ends, Ferguson and Doering, did some good tackling during the game and were instrumental in stopping several rushes of the northerners. Luedtke wasn't able to make the same big gains in this game that he did at Oshkosh.

The first quarter found the ball being punted back and forth most of the time with O'Connors outdistancing Luedtke in the kicking. This was the only period of the game in which Luedtke's punts did not travel at least ten yards further than his Oconto rival. Most of the play in this quarter was in Kaukauna territory with the goal theratened several times, once in the first few minutes when Oconto marched down the field with several consecutive passes.

Oconto opened the second period with another passing game but the Orange and Black were quite successful in keeping the Oconto men covered and the passing attack failed. All during this time Kaukauna was resorting to straight football with plunges over right and left tackle.

Some of these rushed were good for many yards and others were stopped as quick as they were started.

The second half was played in Oconto territory most of the time when the two squads weren't punting. The third period was practically a repetition of the first only Luedtke had the advantage. Toward the end of the third period Kaukauna started to come to life and when well on the way for a touchdown thirty yards in penalties forced them back and lost another opportunity for a Kaw victory.

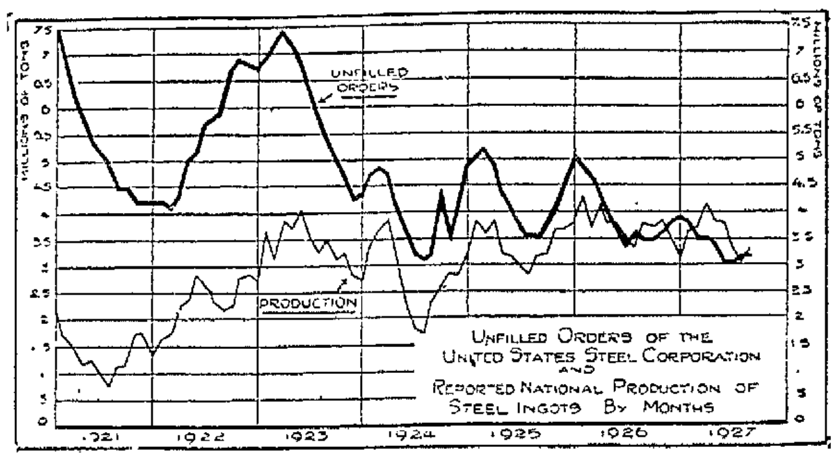
Steel Trade Expects Good Business In Fall Months



(By The Associated Press)

The production of steel ingots by virtually all United States mills and the unfilled orders of the United States Corporation, both regarded as barometric of business conditions, are showing slight increases after the usual mid-summer depression.

The chart shows the upward trend of production of steel ingots based on statistics of the American Iron and Steel Institute. The figures are those of actual production reported, not calculated production including estimates of unreported mills.

The trend of unfilled orders, however, appears to be downward. This declining trend in the last few years generally has been attributed to two causes; first, the declining trend of commodity prices, making large advance purchases inadvisable; and second, the growing development of the so-called "hand-to-mouth" buying poiciy, which has been made possible and practical by improved manufacturing methods and quick and efficient transportation. It was the custom a few years ago for big consumers of steel and other products to order large quantities of raw material ahead in order to assure deliveries, and then to cancel extensively if a business depression set in, but the railroads now have sufficient equipment and personel to handle promptly all freight offered.

Structural steel has sold well this season, but the demand from railroads, automobile manufacturers and oil producers has been smaller than usual. The trade looks for better business late in September.

Embryo Actors Welcomed By Extension Department

Madison—(AP)— Aspirants to the crown of the late John Drew may soon "get their start" right in their home towns in Wisconsin. Those who aspire to be as great an actor as was Mr. Drew or those who only seek recreation in drama are to be welcomed into the work of the state university extension department in its drama service over the state during the school year.

Miss Ethel Theodora Rockwell, recently of the University of North Carolina, wil direct the program, which, according to Dean Snell, "was created in response to a growing demand for assistance in the selection and staging of plays and pageant-dramas in the schools, churches, and communities of Wisconsin."

"Its purpose is to assist as many groups as possible, upon requet, in the direction of all kinds of worth-while drama, by helping to select suitable plays; by furnishing a director for the staging; by organizing various units of the state into a dramatic association; by sponsoring dramatic tournaments, community chautauquas, and state county fair entertainments; by giving lecturers, by holding conferences, and by arranging for drama institutes.

"A large circulating library of the best publications in dramatic material plays, pageants, and masques both long and short, recent and classified for children, high school students, and adults is being built up."

Miss Rockwell a native of Wisconsin, and a graduate of the state university, for the past four years has been in charge of the drama bureau in the extension division of the University of North Carolina.

Miss Rockwell's pageant-drama, "Children of Old Carolina," written for elementary school children, was widely presented in the state, her last staging of it being with 2,000 children in the cast.

Miss Rockwell taught play-writing and play production at the College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va. Among other achievements, she has helped direct the state-wide "pageant of Virginia," and has written and directed the pageant-drama, "Apostles of Light" for the Methodist church, South.

Prof. W. C. Troutman, in charge of student dramatics at the university, will demonstrate the latest methods of dramatic production in the new Bascom theater at the University of Wisconsin during the annual institutes, which Miss Rockwell plans.

RECOVERS NEEDLE

St. Edmonds, Eng. — Fourteen months ago, Miss Dora Watkinson ran a needle into her foot. Only part of it was extracted at the time and she refused to consent to an operation. The other day, feeling a scratch on her tongue, she reached into her mouth and drew forth the remaining part of the needle from between two teeth in her lower jaw.

POLITICIANS SURE OF MANY THINGS-- NO TWO ARE ALIKE

Some Say Al Smith Would Be Best Nominee; Others Say He Would Not

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—Politicians will believe anything.

They seldom agree on anything with unanimity, but here are some of the things some of them believe:

That Governor Al Smith is the strongest candidate the Democrats could possibly run and is the only man who can win.

That Al's nomination would be a frightful boner, and that he would run millions of votes behind any nice, respectable dry Democrat.

That President Coolidge, either because of his own desire or that of others, or both, is definitely out of next year's presidential race.

That President Coolidge will be "drafted" by a worried party which feels that he is by far its safest candidate.

That Herbert Hoover can't possibly win because he doesn't fit with the politicians and can't gain enough strength in farm regions and the east.

That Hoover is riding on a rising tide of popularity among the business men and the people which will easily give him a majority at the convention.

THEY ARE SURE

They're sure:

That Jim Reed is the strongest Democratic candidate because he is bound to inherit the Smith strength when Smith definitely fails to break through the two-thirds rule.

That Jim hasn't a chance because he's wet, because the farmers are sore at him and because he deserted Woodrow Wilson.

That Frank Lowden knows he can't win with his prospective bloc of farm state delegates and that he will bequeath them to Dawes as soon as he has had a brief fling at the convention.

That Lowden has a chance to win because—(well, come to think of it, nobody really believes this one.)

That Charles Evans Hughes will be nominated with the support of Andy Mellon, the eastern Republicans, the international bankers and the Standard Oil Company.

That Hughes won't be nominated because the electorate knows he has the support of Andy Mellon, the international bankers and the Satndard Oil Company.

That Smith can carry New York, Massachusetts and Illinois in any event and couldn't beat Hughes in New York.

They know:

That Hiram Johnson will hamstring Hoover in California by reason of his long-standing enmity, thus delivering a probably fatal blow to the Hoover hopes.

That Johnson will support Hoover in order to save his own skin at the next senatorial election.

That the most likely event in the Republican party is the nomination of a dark horse not now figured in the running.

CANNOT TAKE CHANCES

That that is the most unlikely event because the G. O. P. can't afford to take chances with any candidate who hasn't already established a popular appeal.

That the Democrats will nominate another compromise man like John Davis.

That the Democrats are sick of compromise candidates whom the people refuse to get excited about.

That the voters will become all het up over the alleged corruption and mammonism of the G. O. P.

That they won't give a whoop in Heliopolis.

That the Catholic voters will silently bolt the party if Smith isn't nominated in the belief that they are victims of religious prejudice.

That the Catholic voters will be good fellows about it.

That some of the candidates on both sides aren't bellowing their ambitions like the nomination should seek the man.

That each of these candidates is doing everything possible in an indirect way to encompass his nominatoin, being restrained in his bellowings only by the exigencies of smart politics.

And a whole lot more.

Builders Of State Paid But Little For New Land

Madison—(AP)—A permanent record of Wisconsin's pioneer empire builders is found in the record books of the federal public land offices, now musty with age, but easily legible. The land office at Milwaukee, the second one in the state — the first was at Mineral Point—was opened Oct. 1, 1844, and the first entry was made on that date by Martin Brooks, who paid the federal government $100 for 8 acres of land in Walworth-co near the present city of Delavan.

Aaron Button paid $50 for the first tract of land taken out in Dane-co, near the town of Albion. Tre first entry in Washington-co was made by Maurice O'Connell, near Holy Hill, now topped by a Catholic church and visited by hundreds of all faiths for the excellent view to be obtained. Mr. O'Connell paid $50 for his 40 acres.

The first entry in Kenosha-co was made by John Beumer on Fox River near Silver Lake. He also paid $50 for his piece of land. Samuel Green, the first entrant from what is now Rock-co paid $150 for 120 acres 12 miles east of the present town of Janesville.

On Oct. 1844, the second day of the business for the Milwaukee land office, Martin Ryand made the initial entry for Waukesha-co, paying $100 for a comparatively large tract of land.

Jefferson-co's first entry was also made on Oct. 2, 1844, for a tract of land between Jefferson and Fort Atkinson, for which William Dela Bragg paid $50. Elisha S. Matteson made the first entry in Dodge-co for some land six miles northwest of Hartford. Michael Byrne bought some land in Ozaukee-co for which he paid $1.25 an acre.

William Gilbert, the first entrant in Racine-co bought 151 acres for $189.

MILWAUKEE DOCTOR SPEAKS AT DETROIT

Milwaukee—(AP)—Dr. John A. Lapp, head of Marquette University's sociology department, delivered an address Monday before the American College of Surgeons in Detroit on "The Right of the Hospital to Select Its Staff."

Dr. Lapp, who is a former president of the National Conference on Social Work, is to speak Tuesday before the National Recreation Congress, Memphis, Tenn., on "Recreation and Social Justice."

On Oct. 11 he will address the Ohio Welfare Conference in Cleveland on "Are We Overlooking the Big Objectives in Social Work?" and on Oct. 13 he will speak to the American Hospital Association of Hospital Trustees."

John L. Sullivan held the heavyweight boxing championship longer than any other fighter—from 1882 to 1892.

DECREASE SHOWN IN SCHOOL ATTENDANCE IN COUNTY REPORT

No Further Extension of Seating Capacity Likely to Be Needed Next Year

The annual report of A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, shows that in the year ending June 30, 1927, there were 10,564 boys and girls between the ages of 4 and 20 years in Outagamie-co, outside the cities of Appleton and Kaukauna. This is a decrease from the year ending June 30, 1926, when the total census showed 10,648 children of school age.

Mr. Meating's report shows that there are 133 school districts in the county with 120 rural school buildings, 6 state graded schools, 5 high and grade schools combined, and 2 high schools.

According to the annual report of the clerks of school districts there are 10,615 children of school age in the county. Of that number there are 5,419 boys and 5,196 girls.

Mr Meating's report shows that only 4,867 pupils were enrolled in county rural schools. In 11 parochial schools in the county, outside of Appleton and Kaukauna, there are 1,943 children enrolled, with 42 teachers in charge. Of this number 951 are boys and 992 are girls.

349 PERFECT RECORDS

Mr. Meating's report also shows that there were 349 pupils who attended school every day it was in session. Of that number, 267 were in the rural schools, 41 in state graded schools and 41 in high schools and grade schools combined.

The report indicates that there can be a big increase in the number of pupils attending school next year without anp further extension of the seating capacity. While only 4,867 pupils attended school last year, there was a seating capacity of 5,196.

Sixty three of the county schools have an acre of land, 13 have more than an acre and 52 have less than an acre.

There were six new school houses built in the last year, five rural schools and one state graded building. The rural schools cost $20,000 and the state graded school was built at a cost of $38,060. In addition ten county schools were altered at a cost of $38,450. The value of all schools and the property on which they stand is estimated at $761,390 while the value of the school equipment is $92,000.

STAGE And SCREEN

"THE ROUGH RIDERS" A REALLY GREAT PICTURE

Human and rollicking in places, grimly affecting in others, blending finely all the essences of love, struggle, bravery, humor, pathos and death. "The Rough Riders" open a three day engagement at Fischer's Appleton Theatre today.

"The Rough Riders" can truly be said to set a standard. It is one of the few films which deserve the adjective, great and which add immeasurably to the progress of the motion picture.

To attempt to follows the drama in a brief review is useless. It is too swift, too breath-taking, too replete with moments of subtlety and too flooding in its emotional character.

One can say that Paramount has made a story that breathes the idealism of Theodore Roosevelt, one of the greatest of Americans; that the story recounts his nature and his exploits in the Cuban regime of hate, war and fever, with an amazing spirit of faithfulness; that a love theme with Mary Astor, Charles Farrell and Charles Emmett Mack, winds like a glowing thread through out the drama; and that the difficult sequences of the blowing up of The Maine, the gathering of the Rough Riders, their fierce courage in the hail of Spanish lead, and the dominant figure of T. R. alive every moment, contribute to art and express history.

The sterling performances of Noah Beery as Sheriff Hell's Bells, George Bancroft at Happy Joe, Frank Hopper as Roosevelt, Fred Kohler as the top-sergeant and Col. Fred Lindsay as Leonard Wood, are worthy of mention. Mary Astor is ideal as the sweet old-fashioned girl of yesterday whose heart trembles in the balance of a love sought by Charles Farrell and Charles Emmett Mack. Farrell and Mack distinguish themselves by their superb acting.

Victor Fleming, who directed the production under the supervision of B. P. Schulberg, associate Paramount producer, has made the greatest screen document of his career. The story is vitally told and credit for its writing, goes to Hermann Hagedorn, official biographer for Thedore Roosevelt and secretary of the Roosevelt Memorial Association.

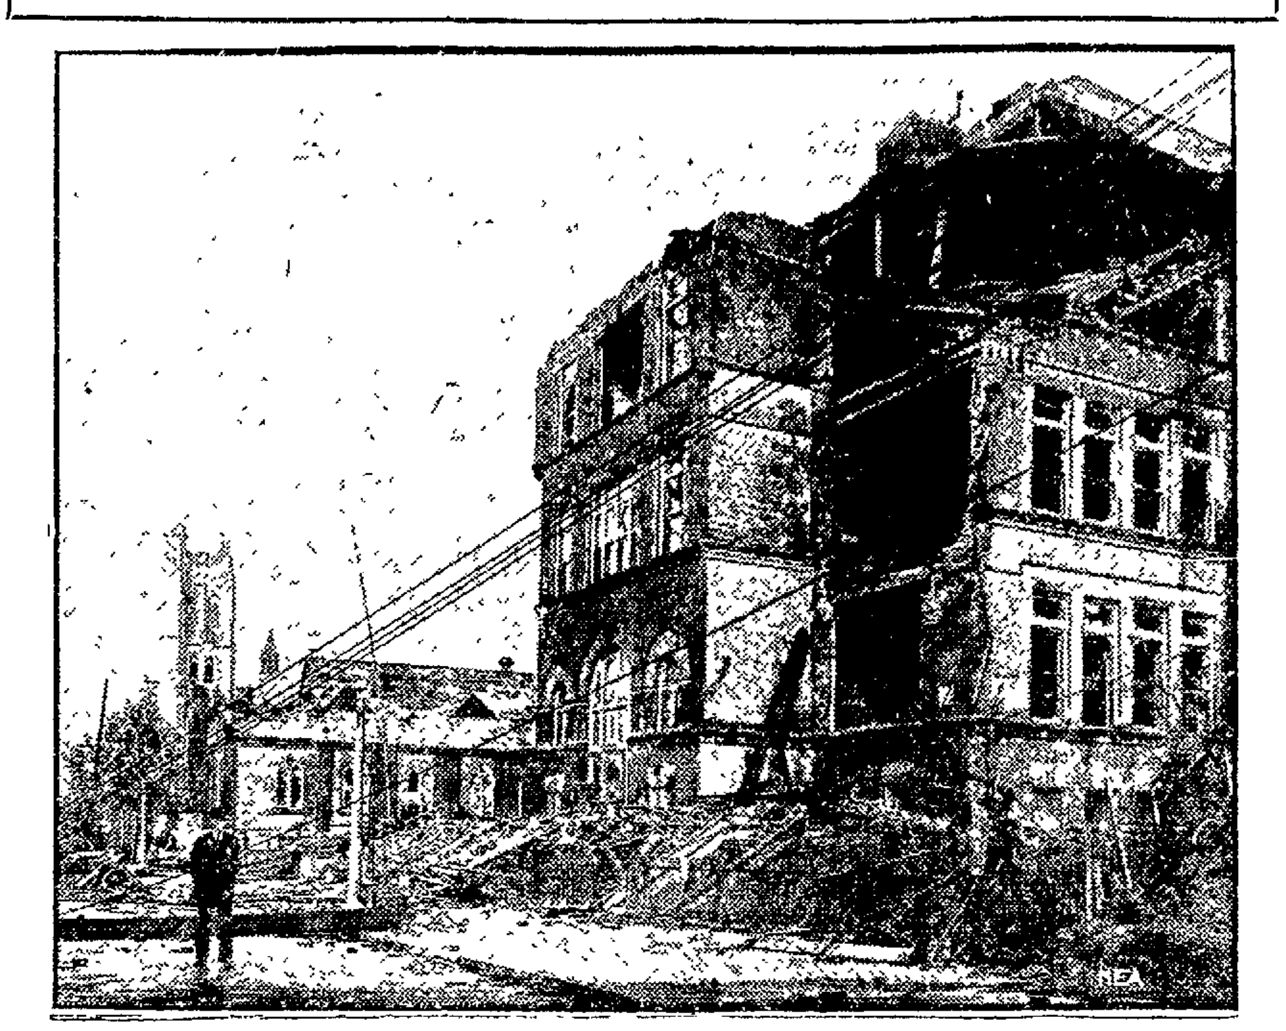
FIRE DRILL SAVES CHILDREN'S LIVES



Cool headed teachers and a well-performed fire drill saved the lives of many children when the Columbia school, at Garrison and St. Louis avenues, was struck. Although the building's roof collapsed and part of its walls were destroyed, all of the children escaped death, marching out in orderly fashion. In the background can be seen a Greek Orthodox church which was badly damaged.

Cool Weather May Prevent State Paralysis Epidemic

Madison— Epidemics of infantile paralysis in other states may not reach Wisconsin because the disease is believed to be generally checked by the first frosts and the approach of cooler weather declares the educational committee of the State Medical Society in its weekly bulletin.

In a number of states, Ohio, California, Massachusetts, New Mexico, it is now present in epidemic form. There are also a number of cases in the state of Illinois. Wisconsin has been fortunate this year in that there have been only a few cases of this dread disease in the state. During the last month, cases have been reported to the State Board of Health. These cases have not been concentrated in any particular locality or community but have been reported from all parts of the state. Ten cases were reported for the week ending September 11. It is necessary, however, to always be on the lookout for this disease. Because we have been fortunate so far, is no assurance of the future either this year or next.

"It is, however, getting to be the time of year when it is not so likely to occur in epidemic form and we may therefore, confidently expect to escape any severe outbreak this year, such as other states mentioned are having," the bulletin reads.

"Wisconsin has had three serious outbreaks since 1908, the first large epidemic occurring during the months of July, August and September in the city of Eau Claire in 1908.

"The cause of infantile paralysis is a much debated subject in the medical profession. One group maintains that it is an exceedingly small organism and is extremely difficult of cultivation. Another group that it is a form of a group of disease producing bacteria which is familiar to all physicians, namely streptococci. This latter group also maintain that this organism which they recognize as the cause of the disease is relatively easy to grow or isolate. Whatever the truth in this debate may be, it is certain that the disease can be transmitted or spread from man to man and in experimental medical laboratories the disease has been given to monkeys by injecting them with small pieces of spinal cord or brain substances from people who have died of infantile paralysis.

"An early diagnosis is important both for the afflicted person and others who might be exposed. However the disease has an onset so insidious in nature that the diagnosis is often not made until the patient is paralyzed. At this time of year, particulfflarly any child becoming suddenly sick with a fever and stomach upsets, should be attended by a physician, as such cases frequently develop a paralysis in two or three days. A sudden illness with fever, vomiting and complaint of aching and soreness in the muscles is particularly suggestive, and such a warning should be sufficient to cause every parent to immediately call a physician and isolate the case until a definite diagnosis is made."

PRESIDENT IS NAMED BY WOMEN ATHLETES

Miss Mary Morton, '28, was elected president of the Women's Athletic association of Lawrence college for the coming year at a W. A. A. board meeting Wedensday night. Other officers elected were Miss Kathryn Hubbard, '30, vice president, Miss Edna Niess, '29, secretary; and Miss Edith Reeve, '28, treasurer.

Class representatives are Miss Esther Ziegler, '28, Miss Anna Marie Perschbacher, '29, Miss Helen Ziegler, '30, and Miss Betty Wiley, '31.

All sport managers will be members of W. A. A. board this year. During past years a special sports manager was appointed for each of the sports with the exception of the three major ones which were managed by the three student members of the board.

Miss Hubbard will be in charge of all winter sports such as tobogganing, skating and skiing; Miss Niess, basketball; Miss Reeve, swimming and track; Miss Esther Ziegler, volleyball and baseball; Miss Perschbacher, hiking and riding; Miss Helen Ziegler, tennis and rifle; and Miss Wiley, bowling and hockey.

H. S. STUDENTS FILL FIRE EXTINGUISHERS

The twenty-four fire extinguishers at Appleton high school are being filled this week by the chemistry department under the direction of Miss Ruth Saecker. This is an annual project of Miss Saecker's class.

The manual arts department under the supervision of Harry Cameron and George Cooper, instructors in the department, have made 35 picture frames for the fire regulation posters. These posters contain directions for the occupants of the room in case of fire and will be placed in each class room. Printed in large red letters on white cardboard, they are visible half the distance across the room.

Fire drills will be given as soon as the weather permits.

TWO MORE FINED FOR BREAKING PARKING LAWS

Two Appleton men paid fines of $1 and costs Saturday morning when they pleaded guilty before Judge Theodore Berg to charges of violating parking ordinances. George Beckley, 543 Center-st. was arrested at 2.45 Friday afternoon for parking his automobile in the alley between Appleton and Superior-sts. Lloyd Doerfler was arrested at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon for parking his automobile in the prohibited section at the corner of W. College-ave and Appleton st. Both arrests were made by Fred Arndt, motorcycle officer.

BOOK SERIES BOUGHT BY PUBLIC LIBRARY

Volumes Are to Direct Reading on Various Subjects Sponsored by Association

Books in the Reading With a Purpose series published by the American Library association recently were added to Appleton public library. These books are designed to direct reading on various subjects and contain an introduction to the subject.

The Europe of Our Day, by H. A. Gibbons, The Modern Essay, by S. M. Crother, The Stars, by Harlow Shapley, The Physical Sciences, by E. E. Slosson, and Appreciation of Sculpture, by Lorado Taft, are included in this list.

Volumes of the Pageant of America series also are available at the library. The library now has the seven volumes published. Each volume is beautifully illustrated and describes various phases of American history and development. The ones recently added are The American Spirit in Art by F. J. Mather and Builders of the Republic by F. A. Ogg.

A. E. Wiggam's Next Age of Man is as popular as his first two volumes, The Fruit of the Family Tree and The New Decalogue of Science. It raises the questions: Can we be civilized? Has human evolution ceased? Will a scientific civilization force men up or down?

Other books received are An Introduction to Poetry by R. M. Alden, Counterpoint by J. D. Bacon, Independence for the Philippines by Eleanor Ball, The Man Who Knew Too Much by G. K. Chesterton, The Man Who Was Thursday by G. K. Chesterton, Suppose We Play by Imogen Clark, Black Stream by Nathalie Colby, Advertising by J. H. Cover, Warm Air Heating by A. M. Will the employer's argument that he has never had a dishonesty loss and that all of his employes have been with him for years stand against the hundreds of losses paid by Bonding Companies, caused by men and women who have been with their employers for ten, fifteen and even twenty-five years?
The amounts stolen by employes in the "old and trusted" class, are usually larger than the thefts of the new employes. The fact that the older employes are trusted and consequently less closely supervised, makes it easy for them to steal and conceal their peculations over a long period of time, with the result that by the time they are discovered they have probably gotten away with a lot of money.

Unleashing a forward passing attack that came as a surprise even to its followers, Coach Joseph Shields' Orangeclad Appleton high school grid machine, climbed over its first obstacle in the race for the 1927 Valley conference banner Saturday afternoon, at Whiting field, trouncing Fond Du Lac high, 31-6. The game was ample revenge for the 19-6 beating from the Red and White crew last year and it gave the Orange mentor a chance to use more than 20 players, every man on the bench, before the final whistle blew.

The Orange squad played ragged at times, and this will have to be eliminated before it meets harder competition, but it also showed flashes of an attack that will be hard to stop, especially on a dry field. Fondy's captain, Halfman, made several gains through the Orange line early in the game and Fondy's famous passes were fairly successful. However, the line gains were made through Elias, who is a trifle light for a guard job on a wet field with his inexperience added. On a dry field he would have halted the Fondy thrusts.

TWO MEN HURT

The game may prove costly to the Orange, however, as two veterans, both of whom played stellar games, were slightly injured. The bone-crushing Johnston suffered a kick in the groin and had to be taken from the game. He probably will be rested most of this week and may be able to get into the Marinette game, when his presence will be sorely needed. Schaefer bumped his bad knee again, but will be ready for Marinette.

Halfman, Schmidt and Kruck were the outstanding Fond du Lac players, while the entire Orange regular squad played stellar ball. Schaefer and Hartung were outstanding linemen, while Kruse and Captain Getschow broke up most of Fondy's line plays. As usual, Johnston was the rear wall star and his long punts featured, though Kruse also punted well when the fullback was removed. Strutz ran the team much better than the week before and Roemer and Popp carried the balls for large gains. Appleton showed a versatile attack, gaining large slabs of territory on plunges, end runs and passes, but calling on the latter with success as the scoring plays.

Appleton scored its first marker within the first four minutes of play. Plunges by Johnston, Popp and Roemer, carried the ball to the 20-yard line and then the first pass, that old famous short heave to Johnston, was tried. Strutz threw the ball and Johnston took it with no one near to gallop 15 yards to a touchdown. Strutz made the kick. Fondy then started an endrunning and pass attack that netted two first downs before Strutz intercepted a pass over the center of the line. After a penalty, Johnston punted and Schaefer downed the ball on the Red 15-yard stripe.

Two off tackle smashes netted Fondy a first down and then Johnston made a smashing tackle which caused a Fondy fumble. Roemer recovered. Rankins' pass was poor but Johnston recovered and then punted over the Fondy goal line as the quarter ended. Early in the second quarter Elias recovered a Fondy fumble and Johnston punted to midfield. The Fondy receiver dropped the ball and Hartung recovered, running 50 yards to a touchdown. He was called back because of the new rule which makes the ball dead when the receiver drops a punt.

Appleton scored again just before the half ended. Johnston intercepted a Fondy pass. Strutz shot a short pass to Johnston, who tore off 35 yards, shaking off three would-be tacklers and outsprinting another. He went 45 yards but the ball was brought back to where his foot had skinned the outside line. Johnston gained a few yards in a plunge and the ball was on the 10 yard stripe. He was stopped and then on a fake play, Popp passed to Strutz at the extreme corner of the field. Strutz took the long throw on the run, ahead of his guardian and coasted over. The play was from criss-cross formation ending in a pass. Strutz missed the kick for the extra point.

One of the prettiest runs of the day gave Appleton its third touchdown within a few minutes after the half opened. Fondy kicked to Strutz who returned five yards and Popp added five more around end. Then Roemer broke through right tackle and cut back to the left side of the field, stiff-arming two foes and in spite of a slippery field showing a fine cutback. He carried the ball 35 yards to a touchdown. Strutz missed a dropkick and the score was 19-0. Appleton kicked to Fondy and Johnston tackled the receiver hard on the 10-yard line. Johnston again tackled a Fondy back hard for a loss and then was taken out by his injury. Peterson replaced him. Popp went 18 yards around right end. A few minutes later a double pass for 40 yards gave Appleton another marker.

Schaefer was called back from end on a fake punt play. Strutz took the ball from center and passed it back 15 yards to Schaefer. Schaefer heaved the ball more than 30 yards to Hartung who had outrun his guardians to within a few yards of the goal line. It was a running pass. The kick failed and the score was 25-0.

FONDY SCORES

Fondy's marker came a few minutes later as the final quarter started. Appleton had almost a complete second team in the field. Schmidt intercepted Bowlby's pass with a clear field ahead and went 35 yards before Kunitz nailed him from behind with a neat tackle. Schaefer had been clipped as he tried a tackle but Fondy was not penalized. After line plays had failed Schmidt passed to Kruck for 15 yards and the marker, Kruck making a shoestring catch and falling over the line. Schmidt missed the kick.

Fondy completed three long passes for a total gain of 30 yards. A pass failed and after a plunge a second pass failed and Fondy was penalized five yards. On the next play the Orange line broke through and hit the passer hard as he shot the ball. Hartung took the pass, stiffarmed a man, and outsprinted the rest of the Red team for the longest run of the day, 87 yards down the sidelines and the final marker. Bowlby missed the kick. Aspatore was taken from the game on the play for unnecessary roughness after being warned frequently. The rest of the men on the Appleton bench entered the game and the game ended soon with Kunitz making large gains through the Fondy line.

Four Appleton men, Johnston, Strutz, Poopp and Schaefer did the passing, Johnston, Kruse and Kunitz punted and Strutz, Kruse and Bowlby tried the dropkicking.

Worlds' Series Battle Expected To Be A "Wow"

Pittsburg, Pa. — (AP) — Assembling their forces here Monday for the start of the worlds series on Wednesday, the Yankees and Pirates, most colorful teams in baseball seem likely to have a nip and tuck battle for the game's premier prize, with the outcome a toss up, if their performances over the last month are accepted as a basis of comparison.

The last three tussels for the worlds championship all have gone the limit of seven games. It wouldnt' surprise many of the experts if this series also developed a last ditch fight.

The last month of play has usually been the best guide of all in "doping" the relative merits of series contenders.

The Yankees, their pennant clinched early, breezed through most of September while the Pirates fought it out in a hectic National League struggle decided on next to the last day of the season.

The Yankees, though minus a pennant incentive from Sept. 15 on put their full strength into the fray in quest for individual team records.

Sizing up the rivals from this last month point of view it looms a battle between the Yankee artillery and the Pirate sharpshooters.

Emphasizing the tremendous clubbing power of the American league champions, their closing record discloses a big hitting edge in their favor while at the same time revealing the Pittsburg hurling staff as more effective.

In games won and lost there is little to choose, the Yankees again showing a slight margin with 21 victories in 29 games over the period from Aug. 31 to the close, while the Pirates in their desperate fight to victory captured 23 out of 35.

The secret of Yankee success lay chiefly in their bats where Ruth and his mates compiled an average of [illegible].

The Pirates boast no gunners of the calibre of Ruth or Gehrig, but the Yankees on the other hand possessed no pitcher traveling at Kremer's pace over the last month. The star of the final Corsair cruise, Kremer, hung up seven consecutive victories from Sept. 2 to Sept. 25. He is slated for the opening game against them Wednesday and the Bucs are banking heavily on their ace.

Waite Hoyt expected to oppose Kremer in the first battle, topped the Yankee hurlers for the season but so far as the last month reveals he has not been quite as effective as George Pipgras, Wilcy Moore, Urban Shocker and Herb Pennock.

The Pirates have demonstrated their gameness and ability to come back. The Yanks may club the Bucs down but it will take a lot of pounding to put them "out."

MAJOR BALL CLUBS FINISH 1927 YEAR

Cardinals Beat Out Giants for 2nd Place; New Bat Champs Crowned

Fourteen major league baseball teams were disbanding Monday. Play in the world series will start Wednesday at Pittsburg. The curtain on the 1927 season dropped Sunday with only one contest on for position. The St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Chicago Cubs, 6-4, and gained second place in the National league. The New York Giants who had aspired for the runner up post, beat out Philadelphia, 5-4, in 10 innings but landed in third place, one half game behind the world's champions. The Cardinals were booked for a double header against the Cubs but rain set in during the eighth inning and the second game was concluded.

Pittsburg closed the season one and one half games ahead of St. Louis. The National League champions lost their final game to Cincinnati, 1-0. Chicago ended in fourth place, six and one half games behind the giants. Cincinnati was fifth and the Brooklyn Dodgers, who won their closing game from Boston, 5-3, finished sixth. Boston was seventh and Philadelphia last. The Yankees were not scheduled Sunday but they won the American League pennant with the eighteen and one half game lead over Philadelphia. Washington beat Philadelphia, 9-5, in the last game and placed third. Detroit took a double header from Cleveland, 11-5, and 5-4 and ended in fourth place two and one half games behind Washington. Chicago finished fifth, Cleveland sixth and the St. Louis Browns who closed with an 8-3 win over Chicago were seventh. The Boston Red Sox brought up the rear of the procession.

SIMMONS LOSES OUT

New batting leaders were crowded in both circuits. Harry Heilmann of Detroit snatched the American League honor away from Al Simmons of Philadelphia by getting seven hits in nine times at bat in Sunday's double header at Detroit. Heilmann succeeds Heinie Manush of Detroit who set the pace last year with .380.

Paul Waner of Pittsburg carried off the individual batting honor in the national, his final average of .379 being 20 points better than his closest rival, Roger Hornsby of New York.

Babe Ruth with his record breaking total of 60 home runs for the season, finished 13 homers ahead of Lou Gehrig, his closest rival, but Gehrig led in extra base hits 116 to Ruth's 97. Ruth was the leading run scorer with 158 tallies and was followed in order by Gehrig with 149; Combs of the Yanks with 137; Hornsby with 134 and Lloyd Waner of the Pirates with 133.

Frankie Frisch was away ahead of all competitors in both leagues in stolen bases with 48. George Sisler of the Browns topped the American base stealers with 28.

Jess Haines of the St. Louis Cardinals topped the National League pitchers with 24 victories and 10 defeats and Hoyt of the Yankees led the American with 22 wins and 7 defeats.

GREAT OUTFIELD TRIOS IN SERIES

Two of the Greatest, Most Colorful Combinations in Big Contest

Pittsburg, Pa.—(AP)—Two of the greatest, as well as the most colorful outfield trios in baseball, will roam the outlying precincts for the Yankees and Pirates in the worlds series.

The Yankees have the uncomparable Babe Ruth, just finished earning his $70,000 salary by shattering his own home run record, but the Pirates have the famous Waner brothers, hitters and ballhawks extraordinary.

Paul Waner in his second year as a big leaguer is the National League's leading batsman with an official mark of 379, the leader in hits, triples and runs driven in. Lloyd, only 22, and in his first year under the big top, has made a rare mark for a beginner, leading the league in runs scored, breaking the modern record for one base hits and establishing himself as the fastest man in the league down the first base line.

Taking the two outfields as a whole the Pirate trio on the records has a decided defensive edge whereas the Yankee combination, chiefly due to Ruth, packs a much heavier long distance punch.

There is basis for a merry argument over the rival rightfielders, Paul Waner and Ruth. Paul has a 23 point edge on the Babe in straight hitting. He also has a bigger collection of doubles and triples to help offset the Babe's home run supremacy. Both are great "team" players but the Babe's all around influence his constant threat at bat and the prospect of his breaking up a ball game on short notice cannot be measured in figures. There is only one Ruth all observers agree. This is the Babe's eighth world series and Paul's first.

Earl Combs, the Kentucky colonel and Lloyd Waner, rival lead off men, as well as center fielders are a close match. Combs has a few points edge at bat but Lloyd has a better fielding mark. Both are exceptionally fast. Clyde Barnhart, holding down left field for the Bucs is a reliable batter and fielder but not quite up to Bob Meusel, the strong armed, slugging Yankee guardian of left in the opinion of observers. Lanky Bob is much faster and has a rifle arm that is a constant threat to base runners.

Horsemen Excited Over Showing Of Colt Fireglow

BY JIMMY POWERS

New York—This is the story of a red chestnut colt, a splendid little animal named Fireglow, who ran his heart out one sunny afternoon a few weeks ago at the Kentucky Futurity.

This sturdy young fellow raced the most sensational contest ever seen in a decade, set a new world's record of 2.04 to win the 35th renewal of the Bluegrass State's annual classic, and is now rated as the greatest living two-year-old.

In the excitement of the big fight and closing season golf tourneys the youngster's epochal feat was almost buried. But wherever the harness sport flourishes, on the tracks of the big circuits, on the sandy half-mile ovals of the county fairs there are wise old horsemen who gather in gossipy knots to sing his courage.

"Few know the real story behind that little streak of red lightning," Walter Cox confided to this writer. Cox handled the baby trotter in the race that veterans say has no comparison for sheer thrills from start to record-breaking finish.

"There is nothing finer in God's world than a real thoroughbred and, believe me, Fireglow has class. He is by San Francisco, 2.07¾, dam Worthy Spirit, 2.14¼, by Axworthy.

"Now that he is a world's champion his past is of interest. He was sold to the late John P. Crozer of Uplands, Pa., by the Walnut Hill farm last December and, contrary to the custom of handling champion colt trotters, he had never been hitched before his sale. He brought $6,500. Crozer held him for a month and I bought him in March. His Breeder's record was 2.14¼, the best of the meeting. He was then sold for $10,000 to William H. Bradford with the agreement that I was to train and manage him.

"The stable was shipped to Toledo and his best work there was 2.12 then to Detroit where he made a mile in 2.11 and finally he raced the great Scotland at Kalamazoo in 2.06½.

"Few rated him much of a chance against the real topnotchers chiefly because his father, San Francisco, was 'common folks.' He was an ordinary sire never credited with being a prolific progenitor of cold trotters. But how his little red chestnut son could FIGHT!

"Came the Kentucky Futurity and Fireglow stepped out, his coat shining, his head high, his eyes aflame, all set to battle the crack start. Scotland, 2.05¼; Spencer, 2.05½, and Lee Tide, 2.05.

"Spencer, splendid and reliable colt, was the favorite. Off we went! Scotland does not like to trail, especially if the dirt strikes him in the face so Murphy moved him up to the lead, trotting all the way in to win by a length in 2.05. But it was the second heat that packed all the thrills and really won the championship. Off again! Spencer was pushed up with a break of speed. It was his driver's strategy to win, knowing Scotland would not trail kindly. I played it safe by keeping Fireglow right behind Scotland.

"Such a clip those baby trotters set! A hum of excitement swept the grandstand as we whizzed by. We lockstepped to the quarter in :29½. The dizzy pace continued to the half in 1.01½. Sweeping on, the three-quarters was reached in 1.32.

"Then the gallant soul of Fireglow came through in a mad whirl to the finish. Spencer sagged just enough to let Fireglow get out and race the heart out of Scotland. They fought on past the 150-yard mark before the little red streak of dynamite crashed through to win by a length of daylight. That supreme effort was an epic.

"The eyes of the spectators moved to the time stand.

"Then I new the greatest mile ever run by a two year old had been raced. What a roar when the card "2.04" went up! And Fireglow seemed to know it, too. He trotted back ever so proudly, his head high and his eyes [illegible] ahead. The last heat was a setup for him. He made it all by himself in 2.07."

And so that's the story of Fireglow, the game little chap whose father was just "common folks." Digging back into the record we find why they are all excited over him. [illegible] approached [illegible]. That was [illegible] the Transylvania [illegible] in 1917 in seven desperate heats [illegible] 2.04½.

"It took a great colt to crack that mark. Fireglow did it."

BUFFALO TAKES 3RD OF SERIES FROM HENS

Buffalo, N. Y.—The Bisons' batting power, checked to a whisper by the super flinging of Jess Barnes and Emil Palmero in the first two games of the Buffalo-Toledo little world's series, came to life Sunday and brought the Herd an 8 to 3 triumph in the third game of the series. Proffitt held the hard slugging Mudhens to six hits while his mates were pounding out fourteen off of Joe Bush, Ross Ryan and Jeff Milstead.

Buffalo scored four runs in the first inning, Bush being driven to cover after pitching to four men without an out being registered. Ryan relieved Bush and was replaced by Milstead in the second when the Herd drove three more runs over the plate.

Fighting Catlin Squad Holds Strong Marquette Eleven To 9-0 Victory

Blues Display Powerful Defense, but Weak Offense in Battle in Milwaukee

Coach Mark Catlin and his Lawrence football team paid their annual respects to Coach Murray and his Golden Avalanche of Marquette university at Milwaukee Saturday afternoon and there now are a number of persons wondering if the down state school has an avalanche this year or just a plain cave-in. Marquette won by a 9 to 0 score but their attack was more of the cave-in type than the avalanche. One touchdown and a goal kick in the initial quarter was all the scoring they did until given two points on a saftey when a Lawrence punt was blocked and recovered by Marquette behind the end zone.

To Lawrence fans and to Coach Catlin the results of Saturday's game are as good as a victory but Milwaukee sport writers have seen the Blue and White trim Marquette so often they refuse to give the locals any credit when they only come close. But to have followed Lawrence football from the first evening of practice is to know that Catlin's showing against Marquette is demanding all the praise that can be bestowed upon the coach.

Starting with a squad of 21 men the first night only 15 of which were even near the caliber of real football men, Catlin has now dug up a squad of about 22 football men with whom he may be able to accomplish something and has put onto the field one of the best lines the Blues have had in years. The Lawrence backfielder, however, is still weak and it is more than likely it will remain so during this season for there are no spectacular ball carriers which have been discovered on the campus so far.

Ott and Jessup started for the Blue on defense with the Lawrence captain playing an especially good game. Barfell was the only Blue offensive threat.

Lawrence had one chance to score in the game but failed to rise to the necessary heights. A bad pass from center to quarterback O'Keefe of Marquette went rolling in the mud, and was retrieved by Jessup of Lawrence. The big end started for the goal but was forced out of bounds by the fleet-footed O'Keefe when seven yards from the line. On the first play Barfell made four of those precious yards and Hunter added a little more than two more on two tries. With the ball only a few inches from the line Marquette held and Barfell failed to gain, the ball going to the Murraymen.

The Hilltoppers scored their only touchdown of the game in the first five minutes of play. Starting on Lawrence's 48-yard line where a punt had rolled out of bounds, they went right down the field without a break and on six plays crossed the goal line.

Gebert, on the first play, from midfield, shot over left tackle, reversed the field and hauled himself through the goo to Lawrence's 17-yard line before Jessup nipped him. O'Keefe added five around right end on the next assault, Gebert two on the next and O'Keefe four more on the third.

With the ball on the five-yard line, Washinck in two plays at center carried it across the goal. Radick added the extra point on a place kick with O'Keefe holding the ball.

The other points of the game Marquette scored on a safety in the second quarter when Radick blocked a Lawrence punt and fell on it—beyond the end zone.

A lot of the fans thought, the recovery gave Marquette a touchdown, but since it occurred back of the end zone it gave the Hilltoppers only a safety.

Marquette had a number of other chances to score, but lacked the punch to put the ball across. Late in the first quarter, with Gebert leading the attack, the Hilltoppers carried the pigskin from their own 41-yard line to Lawrence's 20 but lost it, on O'Neill's bad pass.

In the second quarter a pass, O'Keefe to Jeffrey and a swing around left end by O'Keefe, pushed the ball from midfield to Lawrence's five-yard line, but a penalty for holding spoiled the chance to score. Again in the same quarter the Hilltoppers brought the ball to the 20 yard line with first down. Three line plays gained just five yards however, and on fourth down, Anderson dropped back to try a drop kick. He had the direction, but not the distance and another chance to score went glimmering.

Toward the close of the third quarter, a fumbled punt by Schalgenhauf gave Marquette the ball on Lawrence's 25-yard line and two thrusts at center by Washick advanced it to the 11-yard line with first down, but again the Hilltop offense went haywire in the shadow of the goal. Washick and Anderson on three plays gained five yards and on fourth down, Andy's second attempt to locate the crossbar with a drop kick failed.

Early in the fourth quarter the Hilltoppers started on their own 40-yard line, where they had taken a punt, and moved down everything in their way until they reached the 20-yard line with a first down. That was all. Two line plays netted four yards and two passes failed.

Still one more chance to score presented itself. Just before the close of the game, Gebert, O'Keefe and Washick on four plays advanced the ball from midfield to the 12-yard line but three charges here failed to gain a thing and Radick's attempted place kick on fourth down went wild.

Lawrence's left side of the line with Capt. Ott at tackle and St Mitchell and Bent at ends, gave the Hilltoppers the most trouble. Ott in particular, played a whirlwind of a game. Barfel carried the brunt of the attack in the backfield.

The Hilltoppers again used nothing but simple plays.

BEARS SQUEEZE OUT 7-6 WIN FROM BAYS

Change from Shock Troops to Regs Give Chicago Crew 1st Marker

Green Bay — The Chicago Bears smeared up the Green Bay Packers' clean sheet in the National Football league race here Sunday by a 7 to 6 score. Over 6,000 wild eyed fans witnessed the game which was fast and furious.

It was a grudge battle all the way and several times during the final stanza the players were at each others throats. The initial period was pretty well even up, both clubs feeling their way for an opening. At the start of the second frame the Bears pulled out their shock troops and the regulars headed by Paddy Driscoll and Brute Trafton were sent into the fray.

BRUINS SCORE FIRST

The Bruins started a straight football attack and they slashed down the field for five first downs in a row. Near the goal line the Packers stiffened and held tight on two thrusts, but Senn finally wiggled over for a touchdown and Paddy Driscoll kicked the goal.

After the next kickoff the Packers cut the string on their bag of tricks, and, using a well functioning air drive, twice advanced the ball deep into Bear territory only to have pass plays go astray when touchdowns loomed.

The clubs battled along evenly the third round with the going getting rougher all the time. Early in the final quarter the Packers picked up speed. A series of well executed passes had the Bruins making a dogged retreat. Once the Packers made what looked like a touchdown, but the cheers of the crowd were turned to jeers when a penalty took the marker away and cost the Packers five yards.

PURDY MISSES KICK

However, the big Bay Blues weren't to be denied. Another pass put the ball about three yards from the goal line and then Lewellen knifed over right tackle for a touchdown. Pid Purdy was injected into the fray to try the goal kick, but his attempt went bad and the chances for a tie game went up in smoke. The final whistle blew shortly after.

Next Sunday Ernie Nevers and his Duluth Eskimos play in Green Bay.

OLD SALLY LEAGUE STARS STILL SHINE

Moore, Lloyd Waner, Sensations in 1st Year Under Big Tent

BY BILLY EVANS

From a sideshow attraction to a featured performer in a three-ring carnival.

In the parlance of the circus, that one sentence tells the story of two of the outstanding stars in baseball, making the debut in the majors.

I have in mind Lloyd Waner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, the sensation of 1927, not only in th National, but the American as well, and Wilcey Moore of the New York Yankees, unquestionably the "pitching fool" of the year.

Last season these two players were doing their stuff in the South Atlantic League, known to the baseball profession as the "Sally" League. It can hardly be mentioned in the same breath as the National and American as far as baseball standards are concerned.

Yet, in early October, provided Pittsburgh wins the right to represent the National League in the world series, the comparatively unknown Wilcey Moore and Lloyd Waner of the "Sally" League of 1926 may be the two most talked about individuals in baseball.

All Moore did last season as a member of the Greenville, S. C., team was to win 30 games and lose only four while pitching that club to a pennant. He won practically one-third of the victories scored by his team.

Lloyd Waner, with a batting average of .345 for 121 games, in which he compiled 172 hits was trying to do as much for Columbia, S. C., with his batting as was Moore for a rival club with his pitching.

In the spring of last year Paul Waner, who starred for the Pirates in 1926, brought along his brother Lloyd to the Pirates' training camp in California. While he realized the "kid" wasn't quite ready for the big show, he hoped he would show enough stuff to warrant the San Francisco club signing him.

The Frisco owners who have had great success in selling stars to the majors, couldn't see Brother Lloyd. Had he looked good to them he would have brought a fancy figure into their coffers in the fall. Unable to place Lloyd with a minor league of higher classification, he was shipped to the Columbia club of the "Sally" League. He burnt up that circuit and Pittsburgh got him back for little or nothing.

Moore was signed by the New York business office, after all the scouts had turned him down. His imposing record got him his chance, despite expert opinion to the contrary.

Jumping from the "bushes" to the big show didn't even temporarily halt Waner and Moore on their mad hop to baseball fame.

While Moore's New York record shows 17 victories, one of the most remarkable performances ever turned in by a first-year pitcher, Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees will tell you that Moore should really be credited with 30 of the champions' wins. He has saved in the neighborhood of 15 games as relief pitcher. He is sure to see plenty of action in the world series.

Lloyd Waner early this spring displaced so outstanding a star as "Kiki" Cuyler. In his first year in the majors he has been among the first five hitters practically all season. He was the second player in the National League to make 200 hits, his brother Paul being first. As far as I can discover, no other player ever amassed 200 base hits.

If the Pirates face the Yankees in the 1927 classic, it will be interesting to watch the work of Wilcey Moore and Lloyd Waner, late stars of the Sally League, now headliners under the big tent.

One year often brings about remarkable changes in baseball.

RIPON SWAMPS LEAGUE RIVAL BY 32-0 SCORE

Ripon— Ripon college downed Northwestern of Watertown Saturday, 32 to 0, in the opening game of the Wisconsin-Illinois conference.

Three of Ripon's touchdowns were made during the first quarter by means of passes to Dietrich, Burns and Martin and a 50-yard run by Halverson. A Northwestern player helped Ripon to gain one point by bounding the ball in a place kick over the bar.

Coach Doehling used second string players during the second half and Northwestern made her first and only passes and runs. At no time was the Ripon goal in danger, however.

Freeman then got away for a 60 yard run for six more points.

MARTIN BURKE TO BATTLE IN FONDY

Dempsey's Chief Sparring Mate Heads Fond du Lac Legion Mitt Card

Fond du Lac—Martin Burke New Orleans light heavyweight, Jack Dempsey's chief sparring mate, will meet Carl Augustine of St. Paul in the wind-up event of the boxing show to be staged at the Armory Friday night under the direction of the American Legion boxing club.

Burke, it will be recalled by fight fans, has fought the semi-windup to the last three heavyweight championship fights. In the Chicago Dempsey-Tunney program Burke disposed of Denny Kruger, Germany.

Art Pertille Hurley light heavy who is known as Wisconsin's foremost fighter in this weight division, will tangle with Billy Ehmke of St. Paul in the eight-round semi-windup.

Johnny Bush, Sheboygan middleweight who outpointed Matt Cianciola, Milwaukee, in the last card here, is scheduled to swap punches with Eddie Ross of St. Paul.

Myron Gross, Fond du Lac fireman, will mix with Benny Young of Waukesha in the first preliminary. The first two fights will be of six rounds or less.

Out of town reservations for seats are coming in at a rapid rate and it is believed that Fond du Lac will, for the first time in years, have a packed house. Matchmaker Jack Brunkhorst has worked hard to get some classy fights and believes that he has the best card ever presented in this city.

GODFREY OF L. S. U.

Baton Rouge, La.—For the second year in succession, Lola T. "Babe" Godfrey will lead the Louisiana State football team.

And it should be a fine team this year. Mike Donahue, who achieved fame at Alabama Poly but has yet to produce a powerful eleven at L. S. U., thinks that this year's team will be in the running for championship honors.

Godfrey was chosen skipper of the L. S. U. Tigers for the second year because of his great offensive play last season. He is a halfback.

The Louisiana captain has never been placed on an allsouthern team, although each year several coaches and sports writers have cast treir votes for him.

This year, it may be different. With a strong team behind him, he may crash through this year.

L. S. U. plays her toughest game of the year early in October, a game against the three-times champions of the south, Alabama. If they defeat Wallace Wade's 1927 eleven, they will be a strong favorite to breeze through the rest of their schedule.

CARROLL LOOKS GOOD IN TROUNCING NORMAL

Waukesha—Stepping off to one of their most impressive starts in years, the Carroll College Pioneers overwhelmed Milwaukee Normal at Carroll athletic field Saturday, 36-0. The teachers, outweighed 10 pounds to the man, were unable to gain consistently at any time.

Carroll scored three touchdowns before 10 minutes of the first quarter had elapsed. After a series of line plays which advanced the ball from midfield to the Normal 35-yard line, Lund passed 15 yards to Dugan, who, aided by excellent blocking, ran 20 yards to cross the Normal goal. Lang's kick for the extra point was blocked. On the play following the kickoff, Lund broke through left tackle and sprinted 65 yards for the second score. The try for the extra point was low.

PLAY OF WESTERN TEAMS RAISES HOPE

All Big Ten Elevens but Chicago Come Through With Fine Triumphs

Chicago—(AP)—The Western Conference football teams, with the single exception of Chicago, did much to arouse the hopes of their partisans in opening games of the season and began Monday to prepare for harder battles next Saturday.

Oklahoma's dazzling last minute victory over Chicago, 13-7, put the Missouri Valley conference one up on the Big Ten Two Western Conference teams valley elevens next Saturday to continue the rivalry. Wisconsin at Kansas, and Oklahoma Aggies, the 1926 valley champions at Minnesota.

The Wisconsin team, in beating Cornell college 31-6, showed a smooth working pass attack as the first result of Coach Thistlethwaite's efforts. Several pass combinations were used.

Captain Crofoot's great running for the Badgers was almost equalled by Pat Vohardt, brother of the famous Johnny Mohardt.

In preparation for their first tough conference battle Ohio State has uncovered a new backfielder Arthur Houston, to add to the already formidable array of Eby, Marek, Grim and Cory. The Buckeyes smothered Wittenberg 31 to 0, mostly on straight football.

Two things stood out in Iowa's 32-6 victory over Monmouth, the success of Iowa's defense against forward passes and the crying need of a punter for Iowa.

Long forward passing and sweeping end runs were the novelties of Michigan's attack Saturday which overwhelmed Ohio Wesleyan 33-0. Louis Gilbert's punting was, if possible, better than ever and the Michigan line proved an absolute stone wall. The game was the first to be played in Michigan's new stadium and 40,000 attended, about half the utmost capacity. Fielding H "Hurry Up" Yost watched the game from the press box for the first time in many years.

The Chicago-Indiana clash is one of the two conference games on Saturday's calendar the Iowa-State fray being the other.

The other six teams range far afield for their opponents. Purdue, sliding through mud and rain to a hard earned 15-0 victory over Depauw, goes east to play Harvard.

In the non-conference tests next Saturday, Northwestern has picked Utah, co-champions of the Rocky Mountain conference last year and unbeaten since 1925 Coach Hanley was well satisfied with his first northwestern contest, a 47-2 victory over South Dakota.

The Minnesota machine was working smoothly against North Dakota Saturday, rolling up 57 points with the Great Herb Joesting kept under cover most of the time. The reserves let North Dakota through for 10 points late in the game.

A brand new style of attack earned Illinois a 19-0 victory over Bradley, Coach Zuppke sending the Illini into battle from set formations with the quarterback calling the signals for the first time since 1921.

OSHKOSH, MARINETTE, WIN CONFERENCE GAMES

Upsets galore featured the opening game of the Fox River Valley conference grid season and those of conference teams playing outside squads. The biggests surprises were furnished by Appleton and Oshkosh. The Orange, expected to beat Fond du Lac turned in a 31-6 triumph, but the Oshkosh-Sheboygan game, considered a tossup on previous play of the rivals, saw the darkhorse Sawdust city crew riding over the Chairs to the large margin of 37-0, the biggest upset of the day.

Marinette showed that it must be considered in the conference title battle and that Appleton will have plenty to do in the northern city next Saturday, by a 19-0 win over Manitowoc. The win was expected but not the size of the score. The game was partly played in the rain.

The two Bays played non-conference battles and again the dope was upset by East high, which, like Marinette showed that it must be given real conference consideration. East beat Wausau, 1925 and 1926 Wisconsin River Valley champs, and a veteran squad, 25-0. Klaus, an all-conference selection by many scribes last year, got two touchdowns on 58 and 47 yard runs and Shekore added another with a 42-yard sprint. The stronger front line of the Bays held its smaller opponents easily. Wausau was held once on the 2-yard line and again on the 9-yard line in the final quarter.

West beat Menominee, Mich., 6-0, on a marker scored in the first three minutes. After that the Purplemen missed two more easy chances, once when a back muffed a long pass with a clear field ahead of him and again when a man muffed an easy threw on the Wausau goal line.

NORTH CENTRAL HOLDS BELOIT COLLEGE CREW

Beloit. — Scoring two touchdowns in the second half, Beloit college defeated North Central of Naperville in the first game of the season here Saturday, 12-0. The visitors outplayed Beloit in the first period, counting five first downs to one for the locals but in the second half the Gold unleashed a running attack that proved effective. Lawrence tore off sensational gains for the winners while Laabs and Rasinsky starred on defense.

The city of Cahaba, now deserted, was once the capital of Alabama.

TELEPHONE SERVICE UNITES REPUBLICS

Rate from Appleton to Mexico City Is $11.90 for Three Minutes

Telephone communication between Appleton and the leading cities of Mexico was opened Friday morning according to F. N. Belanger, acting manager of the Appleton district of the Wisconsin Telephone company. Rates from Appleton to Mexico City will be $11.90 for three minutes, station to station, with a charge of $3.95 for each additional minute over the initial period. Person to person rates will be higher, $14.90 being charged for a three minute conversation and $4.95 for each additional minute.

The new service has been made possible through arrangements between the Wisconsin Telephone company, the American Telephone and Telegraph company an dthe International Telephone and Telegraph corporation. It now will be possible to talk from any point on the Bell telephone system to Mexico City, Pueblo, Tampico, San Luis, Potosi, Victoria, Saltillo, Monterey and Neuvo, Laredo and other commercial centers of the Central American republic. The total length of the circuit between Washington, D. C., and Mexico City is 3357 miles. President Coolidge and President Calles of Mexico were the first persons to talk over the new circuit.

Connections to Mexico are made at Laredo, Texas with the wires of the recently completed line of the Mexican Telephone and Telegraph company, a subsidiary of the International Telephone and Telegraph corporation. The new Mexican lines run over the shortest and most available route to each center and are all of thoroughly modern construction. Telephone repeaters have been installed at intervals along the route to strengthen the voice while cables used will permit installation of additional wires as the traffic increases.

Governor Deplores Loss of Life in Proclaiming Fire Prevention Week

Madison—(AP)—Announcing the Fire and Accident Prevention week for Wisconsin Oct. 9 to 15, the state industrial commission today gave out a booklet on fire fighting and prevention.

The booklet is opened with the proclamation of Governor Zimmerman setting the week as one to look toward fire prevention and deprecating the large annual losses by fire.

The governor earnestly counsels each community, each civic body and organization and each individual take an active part in this movement which has for its objective "the noble purpose of saving life and property from needless and wanton destruction."

The week opens on the anniversary of the Chicago fire, not to commemorate that disastrous event, but rather to call attention to the deplorable fire waste, loss of life and bodily injuries throughout the country," according to the bulletin.

The industrial commission publication gives a long summary of the intent of the week, suggests activities for the week tending to impress its importance and suggests a program for schools to carry out one day of the week.

It then gives help and reminders and fire prevention "don'ts," outlines heating plant hazards, asks a series of questions designed to reveal fire hazards, lists safety rules for use in case of fire, gives an essay on the use of matches by children and the careless use of smokers' articles, and concludes with an item on "knowing and respecting gasoline."

AROUSE INTEREST IN CITY PLANNING THROUGHOUT STATE

Efficient Commissions Will Supervise Work in Intelligent Manner

Milwaukee— (AP) —Thoroughly efficient commissions to supervise city planning in Wisconsin cities will be the goal of the Wisconsin City and Regional Planning Association during the coming year, Arthur J. Rabuck, Milwaukee, president, said Saturday.

The association, which opens its first annual conference here Oct. 6 for a three day meeting, will attempt to stimulate interest throughout the state in intelligent city planning, Mr. Rabuck declared.

Under sysems in use in many cities at the present time, he asserted, the planning is carried out in a "haphazard manner" by city councils. So long as one city councilman gets a playground, a street and a park for his community, Mr. Rabuck believes, they are indifferent as to the needs of the rest of the city.

"While the people of the state feel the need of city planning and zoning," Mr. Rabuck said, "they are not informed as to what it calls for. One of the chief purposes and aims of our first conference will be to inform the public to what is implied by zoning and what results can be obtained.

"We hope to encourage districting in each city of Wisconsi so that each part performs its function in a comprehensive manner. Location of business districts, industrial centers and residential districts must be planned with forethought and only persons with qualifications suitable to such work should be in positions to make recommendations to cities."

THREE FUNCTIONS

There are three functions in city government, Mr. Rabuck believes, including the legislative, administrative and planning. The latter, however, in his opinion, has been overlooked and neglected in practically every city in the state. Although some cities have undertaken planning on an organized basis, none have as yet reached the place where the association hopes to place them in the future, he said.

Mr. Rabuck cited the statement made by Charles E. Hammersley, village attorney of Shorewood, in which he declared that city planning was the greatest development in city government in the last one thousand years. The association will attempt to impress this upon the public, he declared.

The aims of the association will be set forth by Mr. Rabuck at the opening session of the conference Thursday morning, Oct. 6. Each city represented at the conference will have a delegate to report on planning progress at the same session.

The obligations of citizens in city and regional planning will be outlined by Fred S. Hunt, Milwaukee, chairman of the city planning committee of the City Club. Platting principles and subdivision control will be described by Charles E. Bennett, city planning engineer, Milwaukee.

TRAFFIC PROBLEMS

Traffic problems will also receive the attention of the city planners when an open discussion is held following an address by Thomas R. Tate, engineer, New York.

Methodist used in city planning on the Pacific coast will be brought before the group by Leonard S. Smith University of Wisconsin professor, who is credited with having laid out a model city in California. The relation of parks, playgrounds and recreational spaces to the city plan will be discussed by Marshall G. Simonds, Green Bay, after which the delegates will join in a discussion of the topic.

On Friday, William F. O'Brien, Kenosha, will speak on the principles of zoning, and Charles W. Babcock, Milwaukee, will discuss the legal aspects of zoning. Robert Kingery, secretary of the Chicago regional planning association, said to be one of the leaders in the movement, will lead a discussion on county and regional planning.

Street widening and highway right-of-way problems will be brought up at the Friday afternoon session with W. F. Cavanaugh, Milwaukee, and Clifton Williams, dean of the Marquette University law school.

An inspection of Milwaukee's zoning and planning will be made Saturday on a sight seeing trip, the only event on the program for the concluding days.

Chester Allen, Madison, chief representative of the University of Wisconsin extension division, was an Appleton visitor Friday. Mr. Allen formerly was in charge of the division district office here.

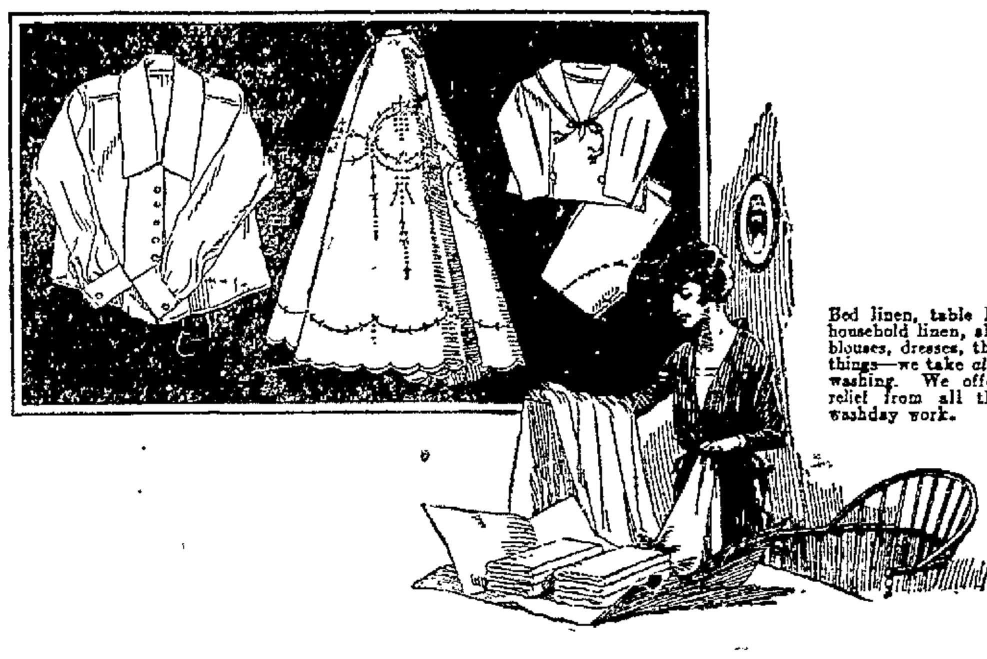
Have You Tried our Modern Family Washing Service?



Bed linen, table linen, other household linen, skirts, shirts, blouses, dresses, the children's things—we take all the family washing. We offer complete relief from all the old-time washday work.

Can't you hear him yet—the man who used to say, "Uh-h, baker's bread? Give me the home-made kind."

Today he smacks his lips over the purchased loaf and calls for more. Because bakers have kept pace with progress we have come to hold a new view about bread baked outside the home.

And the old bogey about the family washing — isn't it pretty much in the same category? Have you ever tried our modern family laundry service?

You will find us prepared and qualified to take your entire family bundle. If you wish to do some of the finishing at home, we can give you a semi-service—washing everything, starching such pieces as require it, and ironing all flatwork, but leaving for you the finishing of personal apparel and lighter pieces.

You will learn on inquiry that we have other service, too — whatever your washday requirements you will find us with a modern service to meet them.

Everything will be returned sweet with through and through cleanness—to insure this, we use as many as 600 gallons of pure, rain-soft water for each load of family washing.

Everything will be returned thoroughly sanitary—as your family physician will verify, our methods sterilize as well as cleanse.

Here is an economical way out of the wearing work of washday. Telephone today and have us take your next washing.

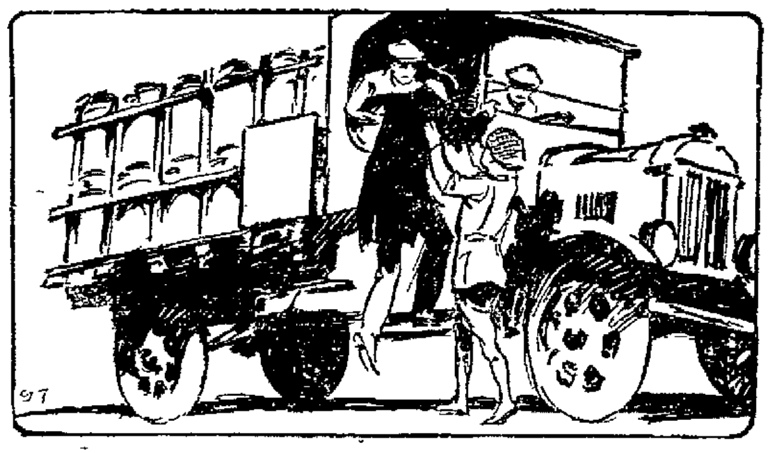
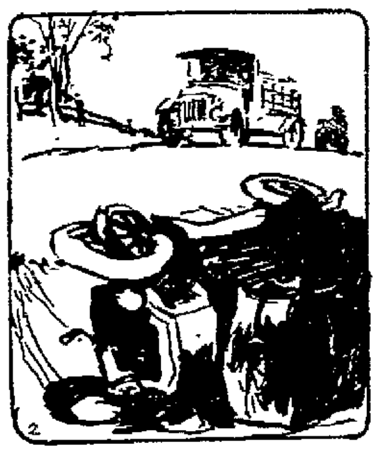
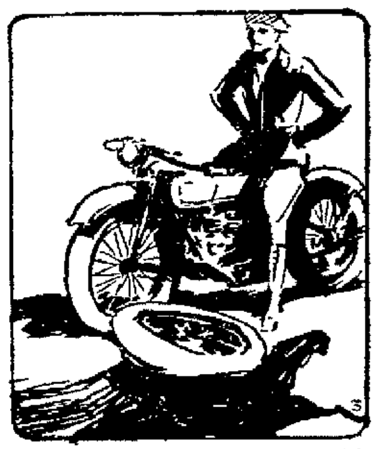
JACK LOCKWILL, THE LION TAMER



The driver of the truck was annoyed when Jack sprang into the road and forced him to stop. "Well, what is it?" he snapped. "We want to make our deliveries in Claremont in time to take in the circus today." "This man is sick, and he belongs with the circus," stated Jack. "Take him to Claremont, and I'll pay your admissions to the show." "Get him aboard," said the driver.



Jack followed the milk truck on his motorcycle. Some miles outside of Claremont, they saw a wrecked automobile beside the road—the car stolen by the runaways.



The speeding fugitives had turned turtle into the ditch, but they had gone, and nothing indicated that either of them had been injured in the smashup.

By the time Claremont was reached, Delano was in a state of complete collapse. Jack placed him in a room at a hotel, and called a doctor to attend him. Then he went out to try to find some trace of Saunders and Wattles. The very boys he sought saw him leave the hotel. "Let's sneak!" urged Lizard, peering round a corner. "We'll go to the circus grounds," said Buke. (To Be Continued)

POTATO CROP MAY BE SMALLER THAN LAST YEAR'S YIELD

Little Blight and Good Price Prospect to Help Stabilize Conditions

Special To Post-Crescent

New London — Potato digging will begin during the next week in most portions of the vicinity about this city. Some digging has already been started, but not sufficient to ascertain just what the prospects for the fall crop will be. Interviews with a number of farmers of the locality indicate a dubious outlook Patrick Dunleavy, a prominent Febanon farmer, said that his crop and that of the farms about him would be poor, although not all potatoes have been taken from the ground. Mr. Dunleavy declared that the yield runs only four and five tubers to the hill, and these are not large. He gives as the reason for this condition the dry spell which came just when the potatoes were setting, or maturing. Mr. Dunleavy stated that farmers of Manawa and Marion complain of the same crop shortage.

FIND LITTLE BLIGHT

There is little of the blight this year, which was so prevalent last year, so that if the crop proves to be low in yield, the condition probably will be offset by this advantage. Potatoes this year are, as a rule round and smooth and free from blemishes. Market prospects point to a lower crop from Outagamie and Waupaca-cos. than usual, but the price of the crop will probably be good, which will level conditions nicely it was pointed out.

Should the rains continue, farmers may encounter further difficulties in harvesting their crops, especially on low lands Little water is yet standing on the ground's surface, as the soil has taken up the rains as they fell.

ALBERT ZIEBELL DIES AT HOME OF DAUGHTER

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—The death of Albert Julius Ziebell, 64, occurred at 10:15 Saturday evening at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Alfred Millard following a prolonged illness with heart trouble. Mr. Ziebell had been confined to his bed since January and was removed to the Millard home in May. He was born at Hamberg, Germany, July 7, 1863, and came to this country at the age of 21 years. He settled at Wausau, where he resided until a year ago when he came to make his home with his daughter. He was married to Miss Marie Kloth of Caledonia in 1887. Survivers are four daughters, Mrs. Alfred Millard, Mrs. George Kent, Mrs. Elmer Kent and Mrs. Earl Grawunder, all of this city. There are also two sisters, Mrs. Theodore Seefeldt of this community, and Mrs. Lena Jorgenson of Neenah, and 19 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon from the Millard home at 2 o'clock from Emanuel Lutheran church. The Rev. Adolph Spiering will conduct the services. Pallbearers will be Herman Bolter, John Cottrill, James Cottrill, Leonard Roloff, Edward Dobberstein and Albert Parfitt. Burial will be in the local Floral Hill cemetery.

DE MOLAY EXPANDING THROUGHOUT STATE

Membership Campaign Is Prelude to Meeting at Oshkosh on Nov. 25

Oshkosh—(AP)—Expansion of the Order of DeMolay in its various lines of endeavor is being carried out by members of the organization throughout the state as the time for the annual convention of the order here Nov. 25 draws near.

A state-wide membership campaign is being carried on as a prelude to the state meeting. Additional interest in social and fraternal activities, drill teams, forensic and ritualistic work and dramatics also is being urged by leaders.

While the ritualistic and business sections of the order will occupy a major part of the convention time, the Oshkosh chapter has planned a variety of entertainment for visiting delegates and members. Plans are being made for a basketball tournament, dance and banquet.

Members of chapters of each district will organize basketball teams to compete in the inter-district tournament to be held Friday afternoon, Nov. 25. The Oshkosh drill team will also put on an exhibition the first day of the convention, and there will be selections by the Oshkosh De Molay band. A trip of inspection will be made through Oshkosh's leading industrial plants.

The annual banquet will be held Friday night followed by the conferring of degrees by Oshkosh degree teams. The annual ball will take place Saturday night.

The chapters have already signified their intention of entertaining candidates in the annual King and Queen contest, selections to be made during the convention. Manitowoc, Eau Claire, Madison, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Racine, Milwaukee, Bay View, Longvic Raon and the new Malta chapter are among the entrants. The entries close Oct. 15.

While the 1927 convention is considered a certain success, sponsors of the order have deplored the fact that so far no city has put in a bid for the 1928 convention, bids being scheduled to close by the middle of September. The value of the convention to a city is set out in an article in the current issue of the Badger De Molay, official organ.

DEATH RATE DOWN

Washington—Sixty-seven cities with a total population of 28,000,000 show a mortality rate 1.3 per cent lower than for last year. The highest rate was shown in Memphis, Tenn., and the lowest in Wilmington, De.. In the latter city only 6 persons in every 10,000 died during the first 33 weeks of 1927.

STILL USE CANDLES

London—The old George Tavern is the only remaining hotel in London where candles still are used. Many relics of Charles Dickens' day are preserved here, as well as early pictures of London as it appeared at that time. The furnishings are the oroginal.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edward's Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

BANKS MAY AGREE ON TERMS IN TAX ISSUE WITH CITY

Accept Invitation for Joint Discussion and Hold Separate Meeting

Special To Post-Crescent

Clintonville — On invitation from Mayor A. C. Cather and the common council officials of the three banks, First National, Dairymans State and Farmers State, met that body in an informal gathering at the council chambers on Thursday evening. The purpose of the meeting was to endeavor to arrive at some friendly settlement of differences created by the bank tax litigation which has been carried on over a period of five years. The First National bank was represented by its president, M. L. Munsert; vice president, Charles Folkman, and cashier, F. E. Ruth. The Farmers State, by its Vice president Charles Topp; director, D. J. Rohrer, and cashier, Dwight Breed. The Dairyman's State, by its vice president's J. A. Perkins and H. A. Rindt, and cashier, Max Stieg.

The bankers cited several instances in which adjustments have been made in other cities in the state for taxes covering a priod of five years.

Representatives of the Dairyman's State bank said that they would agree to a settlement on any basis which the First National bank would accept. The Farmer's State bank representatives, declared Farmer's State bank representatives declared they were not-prepared to accept any proposition without first presenting it before a meeting of their directors.

A committee from the common council was appointed to meet representatives of the First National bank on Friday evening to arrive at some mutually satisfactory basis of settlement.

Mr. nad Mrs. Otto Berkholtz of Seattle, wn. were registered at the Ward hotel Thursday night. The former lived in Clintonville 40 years ago, and stopped to renew old acquaintances. Offers Ranging From A To Z Are Arranged In A To Z Order

Try the simple little experiment of determining the speed with which you can find any kind of an offer in the A-B-C Classified Section of the Post-Crescent.

Doesn't take much time—does it?

You can find any kind of an offer ranging from A to Z—because they are all arranged in A to Z order.

Science has never been able to improve the efficiency of an alphabetical index—and when that alphabetical index has the added convenience of numerical classifications—like the A-B-C Classified Section—all the brains in the world can't make it better.

Best in arrangement—that's one reason why you should regularly consult the classified section—

And the other reason is because it's best in opportunity!

Furniture Is Maintaining Low Price Level Of Summer

Entering the reconstruction period following the worst flood in the country's history in the thousands of square miles of Missouri, Kentucky, Arkansas, Tennessee, Louisiana and Mississippi, one of the south's really great industries, the lumber industry, has suffered irretrievable loss.

Of the 234 mills in the flooded areas of the above-named states, a careful survey reveals that 103 mills were flooded, with 304,500,000 feet of hardwood lumber in pile at the mill and assembling yards damaged. Experts also report that lumber in the pile in the inundated region approximate close to a billion feet. They say that because of the heavy expense in rehabilitating the overflowed lumber, its intrinsic value is reduced to that of cull, whatever its grade may have been in pile.

In spite of the extent of disaster to the southern hardwood industry, providing furniture manufacturers of the country with most of their wood and veneers, furniture dealers entering the semi-annual market exhibitions in Chicago, Grand Rapids, Mich., New York and High Point, N. C., during the late June and July, have found furniture manufacturers maintaining the present level of prices—in face of lumber advances. Manufacturers feel that these advances, due to the present shortage, will be only temporary and are fighting to keep prices down. There may be slight price increases in some lines later, but there are no hopes of price decline on account of above conditions.

Authorities in the southern territory visited by the floods state that the average mill cannot be expected to resume manufacturing much before Sept. 1, mainly because of damaged equipment and personnel. As furniture makers object to re-manufacturing green lumber, flooded or otherwise, the outlook is not the best for securing supplies from lumber producers before fall.

Prior to the flood, however, despite increasing labor costs, economies in production and distribution brought furniture prices down to a lower level than at any time since 1913. The accompanying chart shows the trend of wholesale furniture prices, made up from index numbers released monthly by the bureau of labor statistics at Washington as compared with the average for all commodities. The Furniture index number for more than three and one half years has continually remained below the average for all commodities.

The chart shows that for several months, furniture has reached a stable price level and that the "furniture dollar" will purchase more than other dollars spent for commodities going into the home.

The wholesale furniture index number has remained at 137.6, 37.6 per cent higher than the 1913 level, for five months. Comparison with other articles shows that the index number of food in the May report is 148.6; clothing materials 169.6; fuels 158.2.

COMPLETE WORK IN 5 YEARS ON GREAT SPAN OVER HUDSON

Structure Will Rank as Greater Engineering Achievement Than Eiffel Tower

New York— Man-made grandeur strikes anew at the supremacy of nature, in the mile-and-a-half bridge across the Hudson River, work on which began at a joint New York-New Jersey celebration recently.

Five years from now, when the last rivet has been driven, the stupendous structure will be one of the world's greatest sightseeing attractions, rivaling the Eiffel tower as a marvel of engineering achievement.

A single span twice as long as any other ever attempted will be the centerpiece. It will curve 200 feet above the waters of the Hudson at its center. Its length will be 3500 feet. The span will be suspended from monumental steel and concrete towers on each bank of the river, the tops of which will pierce the sky to a height of 625 feet above water level.

DREAM OF 71 YEARS

Completion of the bridge will crown a dream of 71 years. In 1856, an anonymous write in "Valentine's New York Manuel" prophesied that the "Mighty West" would "require a bridge to bear its products across the Hudson to the metropolis of the Western Hemisphere—probably near Ft. Lee and Ft. Washington, 200 feet above high water level, with three piers to suspend the bridge from Ft. Washington to Jersey."

The prophecy is coming true with uncanny precision save as to the piers. Today's engineering wizardry find two piers enough.

Ft. Lee is to be the terminus of the bridge on the western side.

With the magnificence of conception which marks plans for the bridge, the cost will be in keeping. New York and, New Jersey expect construction expenses to total $60,000,000.

Engineers retained to direct large and small phases of construction comprise a young army. One of them is General George W. Goethals, the Panama Canal builder.

In fashioning the structure, these engineers will toy with 120,000 tons of steel and concrete. Into the holes that will be dug to receive the supporting tower at Ft. Lee, a modern 10-story apartment house could be dropped.

Archways under each tower would accommodate an 18-story skyscraper.

8,148,000 VEHICLES

The bridge at first will have two 24-foot roadways, accommodating two to three lanes of travel each, and two six-foot sidewalks. It is estimated that in a year the bridge will carry 8,148,000 vehicles, 18,898,000 passengers, 1,413,000 pedestrians and 497,000 buses.

Additional roadways may be provided later.

Parallel cables supporting the center span will have a diameter of 37 inches. Each will contain approximately 27,000 quarter-inch wires. Each cable must have a carrying strength of 330,000 tons, as against a carrying strength of 45,000 tons for each cable of the Brooklyn Bridge.

Borings for the tower foundations, a process remotely like plugging a watermelon, have located the strongest rock bottom sites for the towers. Accordingly, the New Jersey tower will be built 100 feet inside the pierhead line, while the Manhattan tower will be right by the water's edge.

Natural rock anchorage for the cables is provided in the dolomite New Jersey Palisades. But in Manhattan, the anchorage will be built of solid concrete, faced with granite.

PAY AS YOU CROSS

New York and New Jersey bond issues will pay for the bridge. Tolls will pay off the bonds eventually. Each pleasure car and truck will pay [illegible] cents, each bus $1, and each passenger or pedestrian five cents.

This herculean accomplishment will be as beautiful as it is useful, for it is being designed to fit architecturally into the background of the gorgeous river formation it is to span.

JURY TO DETERMINE IF WOMAN MUST PAY

Charles Witt Seeks $5,000 for Injuries Suffered in Bicycle Accident

A trial, in which a jury will determine which of two defendants is responsible for damages in the original suit, if damages are awarded, opened in the upper branch of municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg Monday morning. The jury will decide whether Minnie B. Wonser, Appleton, or the Employers Liability Assurance corporation of London, England, are liable for damages sought by Charles Witt, Appleton.

Witt, in his original complaint, asked $5,000 damages of the England Insurance company, which it is claimed had the liability insurance policy on the Wonser automobile when Mrs. Wonser, driving the car, struck Witt and injured him.

Th ecomplaint alleges that Witt was riding a bicycle east on W. College-ave at 7 o'clock in the evening of Aug. 15, 1926, when he was struck by the Wonser machine, driven by Mrs. Wonser, who was turning from W. College-ave to Locust-st.

HAD FRACTURED SKULL

Witt suffered a fractured skull, dislocated vertebra, severe cuts and bruises and has been unable to work since the accident occured, his complaint alleges.

The Insurance company claims that even though the policy had been issued to Joseph B. Wonser, owner of the Wonser machine, the policy was invalid because the money in payment of the document had never been received by it. Wonser claims he paid the money to the agent of the insurance company.

Negligent and reckless driving, unlawful rate of speed, lack of care, and failure to signal before making a turn are charged by Witt in his complaint.

Members of the jury are Charles Kittner, 1325 N. Clark-st; Robert J. Monahan, 820 N. Morrison-st; Percy Blount 618 W. Packard-st; Andrew Weight, 115 E. Winnebago-st; J. A. Jensen, 124 E. Franklin-st; N. Nutting, 814 E. North-st. Jack Shapiro 514 N. Ida-st; Peter Ryser, 626 W. Prospect-ave; Emil Baerenwald, 1206 N. Lawe-st; A. M. Beglinger, 821 E. Washington-st; Fred Abendroth, 744 E. Eldorado-st; John K. Clark, 621 N. Sampson-st;

PAROLE BREAKER MUST SPEND 60 DAYS IN JAIL

Edward Heinzl, Appleton, arrested last Friday at Neenah, for breaking his parole to Sheriff Otto Zuehlke, must spend the balance of his 60-day sentence for drunkenness in the county jail it has been ruled by municipal Judge Theodore Berg. Heinzl was arrested Sept. 6, by Gus Herzekorn, motorcycle officer, at the corner of College-ave and Locust-st. and Judge Berg sentenced him to 60 days at hard manual labor. Heinzl was placed at work with the Fox River Boiler company, and on Sunday, Sept. 25, he disappeared. He left the city in a Chevrolet truck belonging to the firm he was working for.

Heinzl admitted Saturday that he took the automobile, although when arrested he denied all knowledge of the machine. He told police he had abandoned the truck at Green Bay. The truck was recovered by the police at Green Bay last Wednesday and is being held there. Heinzl will be charged with grand larceny, according to John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney.

BOARD OF APPEALS TO HEAR BUILDING CASES

The board of appeals will meet Monday night to hear the appeal of R. S. Runnels and the Riverside greenhouse. John Weiland, building inspector, denied building permits to Mr. Runnels, who wanted to construct a glass porch at his residence, 114 E. Franklin-st; and the Riverside greenhouse, for construction of an addition to its office, 1236 E. Pacific-st.

CHURCH DELEGATES GO TO STATE CONFERENCE

Official delegates from Appleton to the Congregational State conference to be held Oct. 3 to Oct. 5 at Plymouth church at Fond du Lac, besides the Rev. Harry E. Peabody, who will act as moderator of the conference, are F. J. Harwood, Mrs. J. W. Wilson, A. J. Ingold, Mrs. H. E. Peabody, Mrs. E. P. Parrish, G. E. Buchanan, Mrs. George Ashman, Mrs. W. R. Challoner, Dr. D. S. Runnels, Mrs. H. C. Humphrey and Roy Marston.

Dr. Peabody preached the conference sermon Monday at the opening session. The peace offensive will be introduced Monday afternoon by the Rev. Robbins W. Barstow of Madison. The address will be followed by a full discussion.

A large delegation is expected from Appleton because of its proximity to Fond du Lac.

LIBRARY STAFF WILL ATTEND STATE MEETING

All the members of the Apleton Public library staff will attend the Wisconsin Library association convention, which opens Oct. 4 at Green Bay.

Miss Florence C. Day, Miss Mary deJong, and Mrs. Nellie B. Harriman will go to the Tuesday evening session. On Wednesday Miss Alvina Ahl and Mrs. M. L. Embrey will attend the convention. The concluding session on Thursday morning will be attended by Miss Mary deJong and Mrs. Nellie B. Harriman.

MOTORIST RECOVERING AFTER BAD ACCIDENT

Further examination at St. Elizabeth hospital of Harold Kuehnl, who was injured Thursday afternoon in an automobile accident north of McCarty's crossing, showed that Mr. Kuehnl also suffered a broken nose and a fracture of the upper jaw, besides the fractured leg, cuts and scalp wounds revealed by a first examination. He will be confined to the hospital for several weeks it is believed.

Only Four Inches Of Rain Fell During 8 Day Period

Rainfall in this vicinity for the eight days beginning Sept. 25 and ending Oct. 2 totaled 4.05 inches, according to George T. Allanson, government weather bureau representative at Menasha. Monday, Sept. 26 saw the greatest rainfall when a precipitation of 1.26 inches was recorded. The rainfall for the entire period was: Sunday, Sept. 25, .18 inches, Monday 1.26 inches, Tuesday .59 inches, Wednesday .71 inches, Thursday .15 inches, Friday .04 inches, Saturday .15 inches, and Sunday .96 inches. The average rainfall for the month of September usually is 3.24 inches.

September also boasted the warmest days in several years and the coldest days. The temperature averaged a little over three degrees warmer than previous months and at the same time saw several of the coldest days of the season, together with the first frost.

At the first of the month a heat wave swept the country but ended suddenly on Saturday evening, Sept. 18 to be followed by a week of cold weather, ushering in the first frost on Sept. 23. Beginning Saturday evening, Sept. 25 the heavy rains set in and continued through to Sunday night, Oct. 2.

The frost of Sept. 23 cut short the growing season by 27 days, it was said. The growing season is calculated from the time of the last frost in the spring to the first killing frost in the fall, making a season of an average of 161 days in length. This year the season lasted 134 days. Other frosts have occurred as early as the one this year, it was said, but none have ever occurred earlier.

Weather observers say that there were only seven clear days during the entire month of September. There were 16 days when the precipitation measured .01 inches or more. Sixteen days were, therefore, cloudy and five more partly cloudy.

Y. M. C. A. MEMBERSHIP DRIVE ENDS TONIGHT

Prizes Will Be Awarded Monday Night at Final Meeting of Campaign

Workers in the 1927 membership campaign of the Y. M. C. A. had only 106 members to secure by Monday evening to reach the goal of the drive —1,300 members. When the regular campaign closed Friday evening, 142 members were needed but 36 of these were secured Saturday morning. The driv was extended to Monday evening when a final report meeting will be held at 6:15 at the association building.

Friday evening the boys reported 360 and Saturday morning their score had reached 390. Their goal is 400, so only 10 memberships were to be secured by Monday evening and the youthful workers threatened Monday morning to reach the 450 mark. The men had secured 798 memberships Friday evening and 804 Saturday morning, leaving them to secure 96 more to reach their goal of 900.

Several prizes will be awarded at the Monday report meeting, including rewards for high member-getter of the weekend, high squadron captain and high battalion commander, Two tickets to the Lawrence-Ripon home-coming football game will be awarded to the man who has secured the most members during the entire drive.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS MAENNERCHOR CONCERT

The concert given by Appleton maennerchor at Turner hall, Green Bay Sunday evening was well attended considering the inclement weather The heavy downpours Sunday morning and the threatening weather Sunday afternoon were responsible for keeping many persons away from the concert. The purpose of the concert was to stir up interest among Green Bay Lutherans in the chorus which is being organized at Green Bay.

Eighteen numbers made up the program for the evenings' entertainment. Members of the maennerchor were entertained at dinner before the concert.

A concert will be held in Appleton this fall and probably one at Black Creek.

COUNTRY ROADS SOFT AFTER WEEK'S RAIN

Motorists should beware of dirt roads according to reports coming into Appleton from points around the country. Many of the roads are practically impassible following last week's heavy rains and many automobilists were mired Sunday when they ventured off the concrete. Rural carriers out of Appleton report that in many instances they are making detours to get away from places where they might become mired.

PLAN ORGANIZATION OF FALL FESTIVALS

County Agent and School Officials Will Direct All Arrangements

Two organization meetings for the series of community fairs or fall festivals planned for Outagamie-co rural schools by A. G. Meating, county school superintendent and R. A. Amundson, county agricultural agent, are to be held Monday night. One will be held at Black Creek with Mr. Amundson and Mr. Meating in charge and the other will be held at Shiocton, with Miss Nellie McvDermott, rural school supervisor, as chairman.

On Tuesday night Mr. Meating will conduct a meeting at Nichols; Mr. Amundson at Center; and Arthur Collar, rural school supervisor, at Dale. On Wednesday evening Mr. Collar will be in charge of a meeting at Hortonville, and Miss McDermott at Bear Creek.

Rural schools within a radius of eight miles of the district center, will be represented at the meetings. It is the plan of Mr. Meating and Mr. Amundson to hold seven fall festivals, one at each of the above centers. All the schools in the district will participate in the fair at the central school of its district.

Displays of farm products and school work will be held during the day of the exhibit and in the evening the schools will combine and put on a program. The money realized from the program will be used to buy prizes for the best exhibits and to defray other expenses.

The festivals are being arranged to give the rural children training in selection of show exhibits. Each child may pick a dsiplay from the farm products at his home.

The parent-teacher's associations, school teachers and school boards of each district have been invited to the organization meetings Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday night. Permanent committees to arrange the festivals will be selected at the meetings.

SUPERINTENDENTS TALK OVER SCHOOL SEATING

School Seating and the Purchase and Distribution of School Supplies were the principal topics discussed at the meeting of superintendents of schools Thursday and Friday at Madison, according to Ben J. Rohan, superintendent of schools here.

H. E. Bennett of William and Mary college spoke on the problem of school seating and presented a talk on his study of the mal-formations caused by poor seating. More ills, he said, are caused by a poor seating system that from any other factor in school. Too high seats tend to press under the child's legs and causes him to lean forward, according to Mr. Dennett.

The new legislation concerning the education of the disabled persons of Wisconsin was discussed. As yet the possibilities of the new law have not all been investigated but local committees and organizations will push the work.

State supervisory meetings were discussed. Such a meeting will be held in Appleton on Oct. 18.

FOUR PAY FINES FOR BREAKING PARKING LAWS

Four men were fined $1 and costs each by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Monday morning when they pleaded guilty to charges of violating the city parking ordinances. All four were arrested for parking their automobiles in the prohibited zone on the south side of the post office. Paul Fahrenkrug, 224 Kaukauna-st, Menasha, Ralph Floyd, route 3, Appleton, and Edward Mc Murrchie, 223 Cherry-st, Neenah, were arrested by Fred Arndt, motorcycle officer, Saturday evening, Armin Schuerle, 350 N. Garfield-st., was arrested by Sergeant John Duval at 9 o'clock Sunday night.

WORK IS INCREASING IN POOR DEPARTMENT

Requests for aid are being received in increasing numbers by the city poor department, according to S. G. Schueler, poor commissioner. Most of the calls are for food, although a few requests for fuel have been received.

7 BUILDING PERMITS ISSUED BY INSPECTOR

Building permits for work estimated to cost $13,562 were issued last week by John Weiland, city building inspector. Seven permits were issued as follows: one sun porch, one addition to store building, one residence and porch, one addition to residence, two residences, one to move a residence.

A permit was granted Monday to Emma Dutcher to construct a two car garage at 714 N. Appleton-st.

BEG PARDON

In declaring the will of Luis Stelzner, Kaukauna, null and void, last week County Judge Fred V. Heinemann, ruled that the Kaukauna man was of unsound mind and not possessed of sufficient mental capacity to make a will at the time the document was signed but he also ruled that there was no undue influence brought to bear and that the will was executed in manner according to law. Saturday's issue of the Post-Crescent, stated that the judge ruled that undue influence had been brought to bear on Luis and that the will was not executed according to law.

The one cent increase in the price of milk, as announced Saturday by milk dealers of the city, will bring the price up to 11 cents in some stores, instead of 10 cents.

WISCONSIN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION READY FOR STATE MEETING

Three Day Convention Will Be Opened With an Address by Upton Close

Green Bay—(AP)—The three day convention of the Wisconsin Library Association will open here Tuesday with an exposition of literary works, and an address on China by Upton Close noted world traveler, lecturer and writer. Luncheons, banquets teas and sight seeing automobile trips will lend variety to the program.

There will be discussion of adult education and the use made of the American Library Association reading courses, of the problem of collecting fines, how often to make an inventory of a catalog department, the overflow of popular fiction, selection of recent fiction of high school boys and girls, and the problem of financial accounts.

Miss Florence G. Hays, chairman of the Watertown public library and for many years librarian of St John's University, Shanghai, China, who is to be a delegate at the convention will bring with her a collection of Chinese library material.

The collection, which will be on display in the Neville public museum and includes Chinese libraries, classification for the Chinese libraries, tables, catalogs, bulletins and the like, will form a background for the address of Mr. Close. The End of The White Man's World. The delegates are to be welcomed in the evening session by Mayor James M McGillan of Green Bay. Miss Liela Janes, president of the association, will respond.

Sessions Wednesday will be held in the assembly room of the Kellogg public library, and will open at 9 o'clock Speakers during the morning session will be Dr Joseph Hart: Forrest Spaulding Des Moines, Sylvester J. Carter, Milwaukee and Dr Joseph Schafer of the state historical society Madison.

Dr. Hart will speak on Adult Education, Mr. Spaulding on Moving Our Book Stack, and Mr. Carter on Uncle Sam and the Question Box, and Dr Shafer on The Public Library and Local History.

Following a luncheon at the Fox River county club the afternoon session will be opened with a talk on The first banquet in Wisconsin by Arthur C. Neville, president of the Green Bay Historical society W. L Evans of the Kellogg public library, will talk on The High Living and Plain Thinking in Old Green Bay. After a business sesison Miss Mary K Reely of the books selection department of the Wisconsin free library commission will talk on New Books and New Aspects of the Printed Page.

The Rev. E Burns Martin, Kenosha, will be the speaker at the banquet to be held Wednesday evening. Samuel A McKillop, Milwaukee, will act as chorister and S J. Carter will be toastmaster. The Rev Burns will speak on The Largesse of the Printed Page

Two speakers will be heard during the first hour of the morning sessions Thursday, which will also be held in the library assembly room. They are Aubrey Williams Madison, secretary of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work, who will talk on Children's Cade, and Mrs J. Strathearn, Manitowoc, whose topic will be The News Stand. The remainder of the time until the meeting comes to an official close at noon Thursday will be given over to round table discussion on the following topics:

Large libraries Miss Cora Frantz, Kenosha: Small Libraries, Miss Aileen McGeorge, Rice Lake. Work With Children, Miss Harriet Love: School Libraries, Miss Letitia McQuillan: Trustees, Milton F. Smith, Green Bay.

POLICE UNABLE TO FIND HIGH SCHOOL BURGLARS

No trace of the person or persons who broke into Appleton high school late Thursday night or Friday morning has been found by police, according to George T. Prim, chief of police. The marauders chiseled the handle and hinges off the door of the office safe but were unable to gain entrance to the vault. They broke several windows in the doors leading to class rooms The police have several sets of fingerprints left by the man or men.

ASK POLICE TO SEEK FOR STOLEN AUTOMOBILE

A reward is offered for information leading to the recovery of a Buick roadster stolen in Madison on Oct. 1, according to information received at the Appleton police department, Monday morning. A reward also is offered for conviction of the thief. The stolen machine bears motor number 1002376 and the serial number 925700. It was equipped with a spare tire, four head lights and a cigaret lighter. The right rear fender had been damaged.

Youngsters Admit Stealing Purse from Employe of Coffee Company Here

Another petty larceny was admitted Saturday by Edward Tessler 11, and David Fahl, 13, Fond du Lac, before they were returned to St. Charles school at Milwaukee by the sheriff of Fond du Lac-co, to finish their term of from two to four years in that institution. The two boys admitted entering the Superior Tea and Coffee store, 123 N. Appleton-st and stealing a purse owned by an employe. The boys had purchased 5 cents worth of peanuts and while the young lady was in the rear of the store they took her purse from the counter and walked out They committed this larceny about 5:45 Friday evening, shortly after they returned to Appleton from New London

There was but 50 cents in cash, a rosary and a key, in the purse. The boys took out the money and threw the bag in the street on W. Washington-st, just south of Superior st, they told police

The two youths had stolen $18 from the Deep Rock Oil filling station at the corner of W College ave and Walnut st Friday morning. They were convicted in Fond du Lac about two weeks ago, of a similar larceny and sentenced to the Milwaukee school They escaped from the sheriff last Thursday when they were taken back to Fond du Las for questioning in another case. After committing the theft in Appleton Friday morning, the boys went to New London by bus, where they remained all day and came back to Appleton and slept beneath a porch on E College ave all night. They were apprehended early Saturday morning by Sergeant Herb Kapp

Budget System Is Blamed For Installment Buying

Can the budget be blamed in part for the installment buying trend of Appleton people and the American public?

The answer is "yes" in the opinion of several Appleton merchants who are in close touch with the situation They claim that as more persons become acquainted with the salient features of budgeting the weekly, semimonthly or monthly salary or wages they are more likely to buy articles and pay for them in installments. However, there is one fault with the plan in that some merchants are able to sell an inferior article for an abnormally high price with the argument that the overhead on installment accounts is too high when an irate customer demands an explanation about the purchase which has not turned out as he believed it would

This practice is far from common among merchants in a city like Appleton where the merchants are known by purchasers almost as well as the latter's neighbor, yet there are times when such things occur. Some stores advertise installment buying for their customers but when the purchase is made they "sell" the buyer on the idea of paying a goodly portion of the sale as a down payment, which of course lessens the number of installments.

The practice of installment buying is increasing every year in Appleton Several new businesses are started every year which depend entirely on installment buyers for life and necessarily cater to that trade.

Among other businesses which are dependent on persons who wish to buy on the installment plan there are the automobile dealers and many of the loan and finance companies. Automobiles are practically always purchased on some form of installment buying. The prospective purchaser learns that he must make a certain payment on a car before he can have it or that a cash payment of a given amount will take care of the sale.

Not having the ready cash he probably will go to a finance company and borrow the amount, giving some piece of property as security. Thereafter he repays the money borrowed in convenient payments every month—installment buying in an indirect manner. Probably 60 per cent of loan company business comes from persons who have purchased automobiles.

Furniture, radio and phonograph dealers are selling their stocks by the installment plan in many cases, to meet competition of metropolitan mail order houses which are selling by that method and which have admittedly cut great inroads in those businessess Many persons, newlyweds, for instance, wishing to add improvements to their home within a short time, find installment buying the easiest way to get along.

Radios and phonographs offer a similar situation but in the case of the former dealers can afford to sell on time because the sets are becoming so perfect that they require little or no servicing the cost of which approximated the interest on a cash sale over a period of time a few years ago. Phonographs, however, have not changed much in the past few years being probably the only article that has not been much affected by the trend.

The clothing business is one in which the installment trend is much more noticeable than in the others. Years ago there were very few stores in which men's clothing and ladies' furnishings were sold on the credit plan, yet today there are a number of chain stores which have been founded on that particular principle.

Then too, there are other stores which are selling on the installment plan, which is referred to as the budget system In these cases the store has adopted the system to enable a few select persons who desire a first class merchandise to buy articles which they could not otherwise purchase because of lack of ready funds These people are individuals who recognize the values they receive in high class merchandise but because of their business situation or financial outlook have not the ready money but can still easily pay under a budget system.

LAND OWNER SUES FOR DAMAGE FROM FOX RIVER FLOOD

If He Is Successful, Government Will Be Defendant in Many Other Cases

Whether riparian land owners in the Fox and Wolf river valleys can sue the United States government to recover damages caused by high waters along the streams in recent years will be determined in a suit to be started soon in the federal court at Milwaukee. The case is now pending and will be prosecuted as soon as George Williams, Oshkosh, attorney for the Association for the Relief of High Water, returns from a trip to Europe.

Permission to start the suit against the government was secured through the efforts of former Mayor R. D. Haentze of Fond du Lac, a former officer of the association who has been in active touch with government officials in an attempt to secure passage of legislation which would liquidate all claims. The association voted to press the matter last spring but the illness of Mr. Williams and his subsequent trip to Europe delayed the matter. Mr. Williams was retained as the association's attorney because of his experience with riparian problems.

Claims of a riparian whose land was damaged by an overflow of the Fox river in a recent flood will be the test case and if successful the claims of other riparians in the regions will be pressed. Should the courts refuse right to sue the government, an attempt will be made to secure the passage of legislation which will enable riparians to bring suit.

Little damage was caused last spring by high waters because the riparian association has been successful in its fight against power interests along the river, it was said. The contention of the association has been that power companies have been building dams which prevenced the proper flow of rivers in the spring, and therefore caused water to back up over their land. Some damage was done in 1926, however, and these claims will form the basis of the suit against the government.

Opponents of the association contend that it will not be possible to bring the suit against the government to a successful close. They maintain that if riparians along the Fox and Wolf rivers and Lake Winnebago are successful, riparians along the Mississippi will bring suit to recover damages sustained last spring and that the government would go into bankruptcy trying to meet the payments.

VESTRYMEN TO MEET AT RACINE TUESDAY

Racine—(AP)—A two day meeting of clergy and vestrymen of the Milwaukee diocese of the Episcopal church opens here Tuesday. The purpose of the meeting, according to diocese officers, is to provide Christian fellowship and exchange general information; make possible the definition of policies and creation of a united program for the field involved; cultivate the individual and acquaint him with the purposes of the organization; produce a loyal constituency for the program to be promoted, and establish a "clearing house" for new ideas.

VENTRILOQUIST WILL ENTERTAIN KIWANIS

Robert Neller and his doll, Isadore, will entertain members of the Kiwanis club at the regular meeting Wednesday noon at the Conway hotel, with a program of ventriloquism. Pictures of the Dempsey-Tunney championship fight, held recently in Chicago, also will be shown to the club members.

Forty-four government employes are provided to serve the president of the United States in the White House.
